Russia Vetoes Balkan Watch

Situation Made "Grave" By Red Move, U.S. Says

"Abuse Of Power," Johnson Declares

LAKE SUCCESS, July 29—(AP)—Russia invoked the big power veto late today to kill a United States proposal for creation of an 11-nation border commission designed to bring peace to the Balkans.

The United States said the Soviet action created a "grave situation" and obtained immediate adjournment of the United Nations Security Council to allow delegates to consult their home governments.

Herschel V. Johnson, deputy American delegate, labeled the veto, the 11th by Russia in United Nations history, a "simple abuse of power." He served notice at a special news conference that the United States would immediately renew its fight for a solution to Balkan disorders.

Resolution Won 9-2 Approval

The United Nations Charter requires that the Big Five agree on all major issues so when Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko calmly raised his hand in dissent, he killed a resolution approved by nine of the 11 council delegates.

Poland joined Russia in voting against the resolution.

Gromyko attempted to get the floor to deliver a speech he had been writing out in long hand throughout today's sessions but the council voted 8 to 1 with Poland dissenting to uphold the American move to adjourn. The next meeting was set for tomorrow (3 p. m. EDT), but there was some talk in council circles that this session might be postponed until delegates receive instructions.

Throughout the previous debates Gromyko had laid all the blame on the present Greek government and defended Yugoslavia, Albania and Bulgaria, the three Soviet satellites accused by a Balkans investigating commission of fomenting the frontier incidents.

"Abuse" of Veto, Johnson Says

"By abuse of the veto power, one member has frustrated the will of the majority," Johnson told reporters. "As soon as practicable the United States will state in the council what the next step will be. We are not going to let the thing go by default."

This was the second Russian veto on a Balkan commission, the First coming September 20, 1946 when Gromyko turned down an American-sponsored resolution for an investigating commission. However, he abstained when the commission finally was set up last December.

A British spokesman termed the Rusian veto today the "logical outcome of Soviet policy in the Balkans as evidence in the obstruction of the work of the commission" sent into the Balkans last winter. He added that it is "further evidence that the Soviet government is not willing to lift a finger to solve the unrest in the Balkans."

Three Girls Recaptured After Escape From Prison

ALDERSON, W. Va., July 29. (AP)—Miss Helen Hironomus, warden at the Federal Reformatory for Women here, announced tonight the recapture of three girl inmates who had escaped during the afternoon while picking blackberries.

The girls, all serving terms imposed for automobile theft, were found near an overturned automobile about 100 yards from where the vehicle had been stolen, the warden said. They were found by personnel from the prison.

The girls and other prisoners were picking berries on the grounds of the institution when they walked away. Two were juveniles serving terms until they reached 21 years of age.

Leahy Approved Plane Contract, Kaiser Says

FDR Overrode Navy On Baby Flat Tops

HENRY J. KAISER . . . Obtained order for baby flat tops by sending note to President Roosevelt after Navy turned thumbs down on contract.

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP) — Henry J. Kaiser testified today that Adm. William D. Leahy, presidential chief of staff, flashed the go-ahead on a multi-million dollar wartime contract for 200-ton cargo planes which never got into the air to thwart the submarine menace.

He also said that he obtained a wartime order for 100 small aircraft carriers by sending a note to President Roosevelt after the Navy turned thumbs down on the contract. Kaiser declared that these baby flat tops "practically won the war."

Kaiser told the Senate War Investigating Committee he did not seek White House intervention to obtain the cargo plane contract in 1942, but that War Production Board Chairman Donald M. Nelson asked him to get Leahy's approval.

"Mysterious Kiss-Off"

Leahy was chief of staff to the late President Roosevelt and serves in the same capacity to President Truman. The Senate committee is investigating $40,000,000 worth of contracts awarded to Kaiser, West Coast industrialist, and Howard Hughes, Hollywood millionaire and plane designer.

Kaiser said he had no recollection of sending a note to Mr. Roosevelt in connection with the contract for huge flying boats, such as the one he sent to get the baby flat top order.

He also testified that his efforts to put these big planes into mass production to block the U-boat campaign met with a "mysterious kiss-off."

The contract that Kaiser and Hughes received was for three flying boats, but this later was cut to one. It still is under construction and thus far has cost the government $18,000,000.

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich), chairman of the subcommittee conducting the investigation, asked Kaiser how he got the contract despite opposition of the Army, Navy and other war agencies.

Kaiser Loses Argument

Kaiser replied that Nelson, Adm. John H. Towers and Robert Lovett, then Assistant Secretary of War, all had backed the proposal to build huge cargo planes.

The committee is trying to find out whether any White House pressure was brought to bear in the awarding of the contracts. It particularly wants to know whether Elliott Roosevelt, son of the late President, used any influence.

At the outset today Kaiser lost a hectic half-hour argument over his demand that he be allowed to present a prepared statement to the committee, and protested that he has been the victim of a "smear campaign."

Then, in reply to questions, Kaiser testified that he sent a brief note to President Roosevelt in 1942 in connection with a proposal to build small aircraft carriers.

Steel Industry Completes Cycle Of Price Boosts

Will Cost Consumers Over $300,000,000

NEW YORK, July 29. (AP)—United States Steel Corporation and Bethlehem Steel Corporation, producers of more than half the nation's steel, completed a cycle of price increases today which industry sources estimated would take more than $300,000,000 out of consumers' pocketbooks.

The companies announced increases averaging $5 a ton for the raw material for hundred of finished products.

The new quotations probably will be translated at the retail level into higher prices for such things as automobiles, farm equipment, refrigerators.

The first dent in the steel price front was made late last week by American Rolling Mill Company.

Rising Costs Blamed

Almost every company stated that higher prices were forced by rising costs. Specifically, Irving S. Olds, United States Steel Corporation chairman, stated after a meeting of "Big Steel" directors today:

"This increase in steel prices is made necessary by substantially higher employment costs; the mounting costs of raw materials—such as scrap, tin, lead, zinc, copper and palm oil, x x x the increased costs of goods and services which these subsidiaries (United States Steel Corporation operating subsidiaries) must purchase in order to carry on their business; and the substantially greater cost of replacing worn-out facilities.

"As an illustration of recent higher costs, the price of scrap has advanced more than $10 a ton in the last two months."

Olds stated that the $5-a-ton average increase did "not include any amount to cover increased costs which will result from the recent coal labor settlement."

Coal Costs Are Factor

"Such additional costs to United States Steel are now estimated to amount to more than $30,000,000 a year, or a further cost increase of at least $1.50 a ton of finished steel," Olds said.

He added that when the effects of the wage boost or the cost of coal production are assessed, "we will have to review the price situation in regard to steel."

"In the meantime, we may be able to affect some economies in steel production," Olds said. "Also, it is hoped that the coal productivity rate will be increased, which might lower the costs of coal for us."

Ship Blast Death Toll Reaches 18

BREST, France, July 29—(AP)—Five additional persons died of their burn and blast wounds today bringing the death toll in the Brest harbor explosion to 18. Authorities said 147 persons were injured, 100 seriously, and damage to Brest and its harbor, the most important in Brittany, was estimated at approximately $1,670,000.

Many of the injured were struck by debris or burned in the fires which followed the explosion of a cargo of ammonium nitrate aboard the Norwegion freighter Ocean Liberty yesterday. The dead included Erwein Holts, captain of the wreckship, who was struck by a piece of flying metal.

Two residents of Rennes who survived the explosion said the Brest docks were burned out in the disaster. Hundreds of houses along the waterfront were flattened when the Ocean Liberty's cargo exploded, they added. Also demolished were the temporary barracks-like structures erected on the site of areas bombed out during the war.

Nine Killed When B-29 Crashes In Florida Swamp

EGLIN FIELD, Fla., July 29. (AP)—Nine of 11 crewmen on a B-29 Superfortress taking off on a routine training flight lost their lives when the plane plunged into a swampy area just north of the field today.

The other two crewmen were injured, one seriously, when the craft went down soon after taking off and caught fire.

Capt. Robert Gaughan, public relations officer at the field, said the gasoline tanks did not explode and that the bodies were removed without being burned.

The plane went down near Valpariso, Fla., about 200 yards north of Eglin Field, apparently without gaining much altitude after the takeoff, Gaughan said.

House Committee To Make Global Economic Survey Named By Martin

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP) — A 19-member special House committee was named by Speaker Martin (R-Mass) today to undertake an unprecedented global survey of what can be done to get the world back on its feet economically.

The committee tentatively plans to sail August 27 for London, where base headquarters will be set up. From there three sub-committees will fan out for one-the-spot studies—one to France and the Low Countries, another to Germany and Austria and a third to Italy, Trieste and Greece.

Rep. Eaton (R-NJ), chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, was named head of the special group, but he will remain at home to help co-ordinate its findings with that of special foreign affairs sub-committees planning overseas inquiries.

To Rep. Herter (R-Mass), one-time aide to Herbert Hoover in relief work after World War I, will fall the task of directing thes tury as vice chairman of the special group. He said it would remain in Europe five weeks before returning to report to Congress.

Mrs. Ingalls Is Fined $2,500 In Slave Case

Placed On Probation; Must Reimburse Maid

SAN DIEGO, Calif., July 29 (AP)—Mrs. Alfred Wesley Ingalls, 62, was fined $2,500 here today, and, as part of five years probation, was ordered to pay Negro Maid Dora Jones $6,000 retribution for enslavement.

Federal Judge Jacob Weinberger suspended a three-year prison sentence because of the age and physical condition to the convicted woman, who wept from the time she entered the court until sentence was pronounced.

The fine was paid with money previously deposited with the clerk of the court and Mrs. Ingalls, former Lynn and Boston, Mass., women's club leader, was free to leave the San Diego County Jail.

Confined Since July 19

She had been confined there since July 19 when the same jury which convicted her was unable to agree in the case of her husband, former Massachusetts legislator.

The $6,000 figure for Dora and the amount of the fine, Judge Weinberger said, were based on the probation officer's report of the Ingalls' financial condition. Details of the report in that respect were not disclosed.

The Ingalls were accused of reducing Dora Jones, now living with a brother in St. Louis, Mo., to slavery by drudgery and threats of jail because of an affair of nearly 40 years ago with Mrs. Ingalls' first husband, Walter Harman, of Washington, D. C.

The court was advised that Dora Jones had agreed to the $6,000 as a "fair" settlement and that she held no "ill will" against the Ingalls.

Appeal Notice Is Dropped

Defense Attorney Clifford Fitzgerald, whose motion for a new trial was denied before sentence was pronounced, dropped his previous notice of appeal.

He said, out of court, the Ingalls planned to continue residence in Coronado, San Diego Bay community, where they were arrested last February.

A decision as to whether the government will retry Mrs. Ingalls' husband on similar slavery charges will be left to a decision of the United States Attorney General in Washington, Assistant United States Attorney Ernest Tolin said earlier.

The same jury which convicted Mrs. Ingalls failed to agree in her husband's case. He is at liberty on $2,500 bail.

Jewish Refugees Stage Ship Sitdown Strike

PORT DE BOUC, France, July 29. (AP)—The 4,500 Jewish refugees returned to France after an abortive attempt to enter Palestine staged a sitdown strike tonight and refused to leave their ships.

Through what British officials here described as a "collective poll," the passengers aboard three British troopships which arrived today have refused to step ashore to the soil they left earlier this month in hopes of reaching the Holy Land.

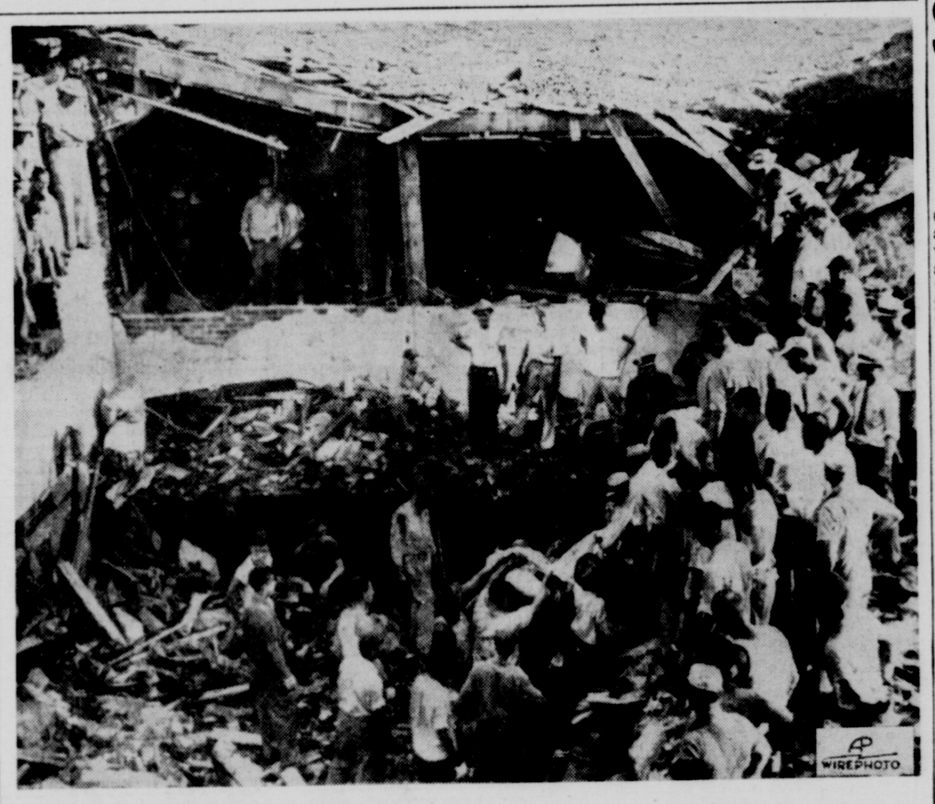

British and French authorities here said they were at a loss as to what would be the next move. One British official excluded any idea of forcing the refugees to leave the ships by violence.

COLLEGE PARK, Md., July 29 (AP) — About $1,725,000 in federal funds will be available for soil conservation payments in Maryland this year, Joseph H. Blandford, head of the Department of Agriculture's Production and Marketing Office here, announced today.

Holy Land Tense As Irgun Threat Hangs Over Pair

Sergeants' Chances Viewed As Improved

JERUSALEM, July 29 (AP)—Rumor-ridden Palestine waited tensely tonight to see whether Irgun Zvai Leumi would carry out the threatened execution of two British army sergeants in reprisal for the hangings of three members of the Jewish underground.

As the day passed, both the British military and the Palestine police became more optimistic over chances that the sergeants, Mervyn Paice and Clifford Martin, might still be found alive. They were kidnaped July 12 at Natanya and have been held as hostages by Irgun.

Appeals Reflect Jewish Fears

However, renewed appeals from Jewish groups—including Vaad Leumi, the Jewish national council—that the two be liberated were taken in some quarters to reflect Jewish fears that the sergeants might meet the same fate at the hands of the underground as the three Irgun members who went to the gallows early today for participation in an attack on Acre Prison May 4.

One military source said there was a feeling in army circles that if Irgun intended to execute the two sergeants it would have been done so immediately after the hanging of the three Jews.

"Irgun would have executed the men in a spectacular fashion so as to gain a maximum of publicity," this informant said. "There also is a belief by army officials that Irgun's execution of the two now would be regarded as cold-blooded killings by many of the neutral members of the Jewish community and especially in America."

Reports Are Circulated

However, growing fear was reported from the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv that Irgun would execute the two sergeants in reprisal for the hanging of the three underground members—Meir Nakar, Yacob Weiss and Avsalom Habib.

One report widely circulated in Tel Aviv was that the retaliation had been timed by Irgun "to coincide 24 hours to the minute after the terrorists were hanged." Another report was that Irgun was delaying the execution of the sergeants "because of difficulty in finding a Christian chaplain."

Indonesians Say Dutch Shot Down Mercy Plane

Republican Airfields On Java Are Strafed

BATAVIA, Java, July 29—(AP)—American-built Dutch fighter planes strafed Republican airfields on Java today, a Republican communique said, as the Jogjakarta radio announced nine persons, including three British citizens, were killed when an Indian transport plane bringing medical supplies to the Indonesians was shot down.

The Dutch strafing attacks apparently were in swift retaliation for an Indonesian one-plane attack upon Dutch-held Semarang.

Capital Airfield Strafed

The Republican communique said two Dutch P-40s strafed the Jogjakarta airfield, then attacked the Soerakarta airfield 39 miles northeast of the Republican capital. The Republicans said the same two planes killed two persons when they strafed the Central Javanese village of Klaten.

A special broadcast by the Jogjakarta radio said the Indian transport, a Dakota which had taken off from Singapore with two tons of medicine for the Republic, was fired upon today by two Dutch fighters as the transport approached the landing strip.

The radio said the flight, arranged to take supplies to the Indonesian Red Cross, had previously been cleared with the Dutch Counsul General at Singapore.

(In Singapore, H. H. Schweizer, representative for the International Red Cross, said the Dakota reported shot down at Jogjakarta was not sponsored by International Red Cross.)

Reportedly Crashed In Flames

The official spokesman of the Netherlands East Indies government in Batavia said Dutch militry headquarters had no report of any plane being shot down at Jogjakarta. He said Dutch fighter planes had been in action throughout Java after the Indonesian plane had bombed Semarang but that no report had been received on any such action as was described by the Jogjakarta radio.

The Republican broadcast said the Dutch fighters attacked with machine guns and that the transport crashed in flames.

Broadcasts To Moscow Stepped Up

WASHINGTON, July 29 — (AP) — A new 30-minute program of news and music hereafter will stream out over the "Voice of America" aimed directly at the Moscow area. It steps up by 50 per cent this country's official broadcasting to the Russians.

Prepared in Russian, the new program is scheduled to reach Soviet ears at midnight, Moscow time, beginning tonight, State Department officials said in announcing the plan. It was indicated the expansion came at the suggestion of Walter B. Smith, United States ambassador to Russia.

The present program, begun in February, runs from 8 to 9 p. m. Moscow time and will continue.

The new venture won't cost any more, it was said, because the present staff will do the work, but the State Department began a 40 per cent reduction in broadcasts to other countries, conforming with a reduction in its budget by Congress.

Assistant Secretary William Benton announced that broadcasts will be trimmed to 33 hours a day from the present 55 hours. Danish and Swedish will be dropped from the list of 26 languages in which broadcasts are now beamed abroad.

Other economies will be effected, including a staff reduction. The funds were trimmed from $8,400,000 to $6,900,000. Congress directed that some operation be shifted over to private radio companies.

The department said the present staff of more than 500 of its international broadcasting division will be reduced to about 225.

Effectiveness of this country's propaganda efforts in Europe will be studied this winter by two congressional committees. One from the Senate is headed by Sen. Smith (R-N.J.) and one from the House by Rep. Mundt (R-S.D.).

Truman Back In Capitol; Resumes Work On Bills

WASHINGTON, July 29—(AP)—President Truman returned today from Grandview, Mo., where his mother was buried yesterday, and turned immediately to a mass of legislation awaiting his action.

The President landed at the Washington National Airport at 3:16 (EST) after a four hour and 20 minute flight from Missouri where 94-year-old Mrs. Martha E. Truman died Saturday.

He told reporters he was going directly to work on upwards of 250 bills sent up to him by Congress in the closing hours before adjournment. He said he understood there were 99 such bills on his desk already.

Beauty Shop Is Razed, Jewelry Store Wrecked

Cause Undetermined; Several Badly Hurt

HARRISONBURG, Va., July 29 (AP)—At least 10 persons were killed and several critically injured today when an explosion ripped a beauty shop apart and blew away a portion of an adjoining jewelry store in the central business section of this Shenandoah Valley town.

Bodies of the first six found, and that of another who died of injuries in Rockingham Memorial Hospital, were removed to the Higgs and Lindsay Funeral Homes where they were identified as women residents of the surrounding area.

Thirty persons were admitted to the hospital here for injuries and 25 remained for treatment.

As firemen and police joined with other workers—many of them war veterans — in cutting their way through concrete and steel debris, other bodies were pulled from the wreckage and an emergency morgue was set up at the blast scene.

Dead Are Identified

Miss Dorothy Gail Bowman, Mt. Jackson, whose 20th birthday was today. Miss Bowman, whose parents were giving her a permanent as a birthday present at Pauline's Beauty Shop, died of injuries at the hospital.

Miss Pauline Marie Sheffer, 23, Lone Fountain, a student at the beauty school run in conjunction with the shop; Miss Elizabeth Seizle. Harrisonburg; Miss Bonnie Catherine Sites, 16, of near Keezeltown; Miss Dorothy Zaruba Batzold, 20, Waynesboro; Miss Harriet Ann Garber, 52, Harrisonburg.

Mrs. Charlotte McAllister Sherckhise, 32, Weyers Cave; Mrs. Anna Payne Baker, 43, Staunton; Mrs. Rebecca Sherman Crabill, of near Harrisonburg, and Miss Wilda Guiley, 18, Swoope.

Owner Of Shop Escapes

Jesse James Mullen, Harrisonburg, was injured in the blast which shattered windows as far as five blocks away. First reported dead, he was hurt while delivering coal in the basement where the explosion originated.

The owner of the shop and school, Mrs. Pauline Kline Sullivan, escaped injury when she left the spot a few moments before the blast.

Fire Chief Louis Armentrout said the cause of the explosion had not been determined. First reports indicated that a boiler blew up. However, it was thought later that coal dust had exploded.

A number of people reported the odor of gas just afte rthe concussion.

One of these, John O'Neill, who was leaving his work as a plumber in the house on one side, but some feet away, from the beauty parlor, said the force "staggered" him.

Armentrout said the explosion blew off the roof of the beauty shop and wrecked the adjacent Rhodes Jewelry store.

Two Blown Through Roof

Two women, apparently in the beauty shop at the time, were killed when they were blown through the roof by the blast, the fire chief reported.

An eyewitness said he heard the blast and in a few moments saw the roof of the beauty shop mushroom into the air.

Windows in nearby stores and the Methodist Church were shattered by the blast which firemen said was not accompanied by fire.

All available ambulances, doctors and nurses in the area were mobilized for care of the injured and World War II veterans in the town aided firemen and police in digging through the debris for the injured.

Also damaged by the explosion were the Advance Store and an empty store building.

The blast scattered jewelry from the Rhodes store in all directions, many of the valuables landing on Main Street, where they were recovered by police.

Plane Crash Kills Two

STAUNTON, Va., July 29 (AP) — A small, single-engine plane, carrying the pilot and one passenger, crashed near Christian Creek some three or four miles from here today, and burst into flames, killing both men.

The pilot was identified as Fred Showaker, Staunton, and the passenger as John Stump, Greenville.

Man Is Shot To Death In Courtroom After Slashing His Estranged Wife

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 29—(AP)—A husband, who slashed his estranged wife with a razor blade during a peace bond hearing, was shot to death in a wild fight in a crowded courtroom here today.

The husband, J. J. Bourbonnais, 40, was slain by a single shot fired by Constable Cecil Barker.

The wife, Mrs. Ida Mae Bourbonnais, 37, was cut across the abdomen and one hand, but her wounds were not serious.

Justice of the Peace Otis James said the fight started in his courtroom at the close of a hearing on an application by Mrs. Bourbonnis's daughter, Betty Jo, 14, for a peace bond to keep her father from annoying her mother.

Bourbonnais suddenly leaped from his seat shouting and raced toward his wife, flourishing the razor blade.

Mrs. Bourbonnais was unable to get out of his way and he grappled with her, slashing at her with the razor blade as they wrestled.

Woodrow Butler, of the county attorney's office, picked up Judge James' gavel and struck at Bourbonnais, who twisted his wife around to protect himself from the blows.

Constable Barker, who watched Bourbonnais slash at his wife with the razor blade, waited until the latter turned away from Mrs. Bourbonnais and then fired a single shot.

Bourbonnais fell behind a desk and lay there bleeding as women spectators in the courtroom screamed and fainted.

Russia Vetoes Balkan Watch

Situation Made "Grave" By Red Move, U.S. Says

"Abuse Of Power," Johnson Declares

LAKE SUCCESS, July 29—(AP)—Russia invoked the big power veto late today to kill a United States proposal for creation of an 11-nation border commission designed to bring peace to the Balkans.

The United States said the Soviet action created a "grave situation" and obtained immediate adjournment of the United Nations Security Council to allow delegates to consult their home governments.

Herschel V. Johnson, deputy American delegate, labeled the veto, the 11th by Russia in United Nations history, a "simple abuse of power." He served notice at a special news conference that the United States would immediately renew its fight for a solution to Balkan disorders.

Resolution Won 9-2 Approval

The United Nations Charter requires that the Big Five agree on all major issues so when Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko calmly raised his hand in dissent, he killed a resolution approved by nine of the 11 council delegates.

Poland joined Russia in voting against the resolution.

Gromyko attempted to get the floor to deliver a speech he had been writing out in long hand throughout today's sessions but the council voted 8 to 1 with Poland dissenting to uphold the American move to adjourn. The next meeting was set for tomorrow (3 p. m. EDT), but there was some talk in council circles that this session might be postponed until delegates receive instructions.

Throughout the previous debates Gromyko had laid all the blame on the present Greek government and defended Yugoslavia, Albania and Bulgaria, the three Soviet satellites accused by a Balkans investigating commission of fomenting the frontier incidents.

"By abuse of the veto power, one member has frustrated the will of the majority," Johnson told reporters. "As soon as practicable the United States will state in the council what the next step will be. We are not going to let the thing go by default."

This was the second Russian veto on a Balkan commission, the First coming September 20, 1946 when Gromyko turned down an American-sponsored resolution for an investigating commission. However, he abstained when the commission finally was set up last December.

A British spokesman termed the Rusian veto today the "logical outcome of Soviet policy in the Balkans as evidence in the obstruction of the work of the commission" sent into the Balkans last winter. The girls, all serving terms imposed for automobile theft, were found near an overturned automobile about 100 yards from where the vehicle had been stolen, the warden said. They were found by personnel from the prison.

Leahy Approved Plane Contract, Kaiser Says

FDR Overrode Navy On Baby Flat Tops

HENRY J. KAISER . . . Obtained order for baby flat tops by sending note to President Roosevelt after Navy turned thumbs down on contract.

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP) — Henry J. Kaiser testified today that Adm. William D. Leahy, presidential chief of staff, flashed the go-ahead on a multi-million dollar wartime contract for 200-ton cargo planes which never got into the air to thwart the submarine menace.

He also said that he obtained a wartime order for 100 small aircraft carriers by sending a note to President Roosevelt after the Navy turned thumbs down on the contract. Kaiser declared that these baby flat tops "practically won the war."

Kaiser told the Senate War Investigating Committee he did not seek White House intervention to obtain the cargo plane contract in 1942, but that War Production Board Chairman Donald M. Nelson asked him to get Leahy's approval.

"Mysterious Kiss-Off"

Leahy was chief of staff to the late President Roosevelt and serves in the same capacity to President Truman. The Senate committee is investigating $40,000,000 worth of contracts awarded to Kaiser, West Coast industrialist, and Howard Hughes, Hollywood millionaire and plane designer.

Kaiser said he had no recollection of sending a note to Mr. Roosevelt in connection with the contract for huge flying boats, such as the one he sent to get the baby flat top order.

He also testified that his efforts to put these big planes into mass production to block the U-boat campaign met with a "mysterious kiss-off."

The contract that Kaiser and Hughes received was for three flying boats, but this later was cut to one. It still is under construction and thus far has cost the government $18,000,000.

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich), chairman of the subcommittee conducting the investigation, asked Kaiser how he got the contract despite opposition of the Army, Navy and other war agencies.

Kaiser Loses Argument

Kaiser replied that Nelson, Adm. John H. Towers and Robert Lovett, then Assistant Secretary of War, all had backed the proposal to build huge cargo planes.

The committee is trying to find out whether any White House pressure was brought to bear in the awarding of the contracts. It particularly wants to know whether Elliott Roosevelt, son of the late President, used any influence.

At the outset today Kaiser lost a hectic half-hour argument over his demand that he be allowed to present a prepared statement to the committee, and protested that he has been the victim of a "smear campaign."

Then, in reply to questions, Kaiser testified that he sent a brief note to President Roosevelt in 1942 in connection with a proposal to build small aircraft carriers.

Steel Industry Completes Cycle Of Price Boosts

Will Cost Consumers Over $300,000,000

NEW YORK, July 29. (AP)—United States Steel Corporation and Bethlehem Steel Corporation, producers of more than half the nation's steel, completed a cycle of price increases today which industry sources estimated would take more than $300,000,000 out of consumers' pocketbooks.

The companies announced increases averaging $5 a ton for the raw material for hundred of finished products.

The new quotations probably will be translated at the retail level into higher prices for such things as automobiles, farm equipment, refrigerators.

The first dent in the steel price front was made late last week by American Rolling Mill Company.

Rising Costs Blamed

Almost every company stated that higher prices were forced by rising costs. Specifically, Irving S. Olds, United States Steel Corporation chairman, stated after a meeting of "Big Steel" directors today:

"This increase in steel prices is made necessary by substantially higher employment costs; the mounting costs of raw materials—such as scrap, tin, lead, zinc, copper and palm oil, x x x the increased costs of goods and services which these subsidiaries (United States Steel Corporation operating subsidiaries) must purchase in order to carry on their business; and the substantially greater cost of replacing worn-out facilities.

"As an illustration of recent higher costs, the price of scrap has advanced more than $10 a ton in the last two months."

Olds stated that the $5-a-ton average increase did "not include any amount to cover increased costs which will result from the recent coal labor settlement."

Coal Costs Are Factor

"Such additional costs to United States Steel are now estimated to amount to more than $30,000,000 a year, or a further cost increase of at least $1.50 a ton of finished steel," Olds said.

He added that when the effects of the wage boost on the cost of coal production are assessed, "we will have to review the price situation in regard to steel."

"In the meantime, we may be able to affect some economies in steel production," Olds said. "Also, it is hoped that the coal productivity rate will be increased, which might lower the costs of coal for us."

Mrs. Ingalls Is Fined $2,500 In Slave Case

Placed On Probation; Must Reimburse Maid

SAN DIEGO, Calif., July 29 (AP)—Mrs. Alfred Wesley Ingalls, 62, was fined $2,500 here today, and, as part of five years probation, was ordered to pay Negro Maid Dora Jones $6,000 retribution for enslavement.

Federal Judge Jacob Weinberger suspended a three-year prison sentence because of the age and physical condition to the convicted woman, who wept from the time she entered the court until sentence was pronounced.

The fine was paid with money previously deposited with the clerk of the court and Mrs. Ingalls, former Lynn and Boston, Mass., women's club leader, was free to leave the San Diego County Jail.

Confined Since July 19

She had been confined there since July 19 when the same jury which convicted her was unable to agree in the case of her husband, former Massachusetts legislator.

The $6,000 figure for Dora and the amount of the fine, Judge Weinberger said, were based on the probation officer's report of the Ingalls' financial condition. Details of the report in that respect were not disclosed.

The Ingalls were accused of reducing Dora Jones, now living with a brother in St. Louis, Mo., to slavery by drudgery and threats of jail because of an affair of nearly 40 years ago with Mrs. Ingalls' first husband, Walter Harman, of Washington, D. C.

The court was advised that Dora Jones had agreed to the $6,000 as a "fair" settlement and that she held no "ill will" against the Ingalls.

Appeal Notice Is Dropped

Defense Attorney Clifford Fitzgerald, whose motion for a new trial was denied before sentence was pronounced, dropped his previous notice of appeal.

He said, out of court, the Ingalls planned to continue residence in Coronado, San Diego Bay community, where they were arrested last February.

A decision as to whether the government will retry Mrs. Ingalls' husband on similar slavery charges will be left to a decision of the United States Attorney General in Washington, Assistant United States Attorney Ernest Tolin said earlier.

The same jury which convicted Mrs. Ingalls failed to agree in her husband's case. He is at liberty on $2,500 bail.

Jewish Refugees Stage Ship Sitdown Strike

PORT DE BOUC, France, July 29. (AP)—The 4,500 Jewish refugees returned to France after an abortive attempt to enter Palestine staged a sitdown strike tonight and refused to leave their ships.

Through what British officials here described as a "collective poll," the passengers aboard three British troopships which arrived today have refused to step ashore to the soil they left earlier this month in hopes of reaching the Holy Land.

British and French authorities here said they were at a loss as to what would be the next move. One British official excluded any idea of forcing the refugees to leave the ships by violence.

COLLEGE PARK, Md., July 29 (AP) — About $1,725,000 in federal funds will be available for soil conservation payments in Maryland this year, Joseph H. Blandford, head of the Department of Agriculture's Production and Marketing Office here, announced today.

Ship Blast Death Toll Reaches 18

BREST, France, July 29—(AP)—Five additional persons died of their burn and blast wounds today bringing the death toll in the Brest harbor explosion to 18. Authorities said 147 persons were injured, 100 seriously, and damage to Brest and its harbor, the most important in Brittany, was estimated at approximately $1,670,000.

Many of the injured were struck by debris or burned in the fires which followed the explosion of a cargo of ammonium nitrate aboard the Norwegion freighter Ocean Liberty yesterday. The dead included Ervein Holts, captain of the wreckship, who was struck by a piece of flying metal.

Two residents of Rennes who survived the explosion said the Brest docks were burned out in the disaster. Hundreds of houses along the waterfront were flattened when the Ocean Liberty's cargo exploded, they added. Also demolished were the temporary barracks-like structures erected on the site of areas bombed out during the war.

Nine Killed When B-29 Crashes In Florida Swamp

EGLIN FIELD, Fla., July 29. (AP)—Nine of 11 crewmen on a B-29 Superfortress taking off on a routine training flight lost their lives when the plane plunged into a swampy area just north of the field today.

The other two crewmen were injured, one seriously, when the craft went down soon after taking off and caught fire.

Capt. Robert Gaughan, public relations officer at the field, said the gasoline tanks did not explode and that the bodies were removed without being burned.

The plane went down near Valpariso, Fla., about 200 yards north of Eglin Field, apparently without gaining much altitude after the takeoff, Gaughan said.

Holy Land Tense As Irgun Threat Hangs Over Pair

Sergeants' Chances Viewed As Improved

JERUSALEM, July 29 (AP)—Rumor-ridden Palestine waited tensely tonight to see whether Irgun Zvai Leumi would carry out the threatened execution of two British army sergeants in reprisal for the hangings of three members of the Jewish underground.

As the day passed, both the British military and the Palestine police became more optimistic over chances that the sergeants, Mervyn Paice and Clifford Martin, might still be found alive. They were kidnaped July 12 at Natanya and have been held as hostages by Irgun.

Appeals Reflect Jewish Fears

However, renewed appeals from Jewish groups—including Vaad Leumi, the Jewish national council—that the two be liberated were taken in some quarters to reflect Jewish fears that the sergeants might meet the same fate at the hands of the underground as the three Irgun members who went to the gallows early today for participation in an attack on Acre Prison May 4.

One military source said there was a feeling in army circles that if Irgun intended to execute the two sergeants it would have been done so immediately after the hanging of the three Jews.

"Irgun would have executed the men in a spectacular fashion so as to gain a maximum of publicity," this informant said. "There also is a belief by army officials that Irgun's execution of the two now would be regarded as cold-blooded killings by many of the neutral members of the Jewish community and especially in America."

Reports Are Circulated

However, growing fear was reported from the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv that Irgun would execute the two sergeants in reprisal for the hanging of the three underground members—Meir Nakar, Yacob Weiss and Avsalom Habib.

One report widely circulated in Tel Aviv was that the retaliation had been timed by Irgun "to coincide 24 hours to the minute after the terrorists were hanged." Another report was that Irgun was delaying the execution of the sergeants "because of difficulty in finding a Christian chaplain."

Indonesians Say Dutch Shot Down Mercy Plane

Republican Airfields On Java Are Strafed

BATAVIA, Java, July 29—(AP)—American-built Dutch fighter planes strafed Republican airfields on Java today, a Republican communique said, as the Jogjakarta radio announced nine persons, including three British citizens, were killed when an Indian transport plane bringing medical supplies to the Indonesians was shot down.

The Dutch strafing attacks apparently were in swift retaliation for an Indonesian one-plane attack upon Dutch-held Semarang.

Capital Airfield Strafed

The Republican communique said two Dutch P-40s strafed the Jogjakarta airfield, then attacked the Soerakarta airfield 39 miles northeast of the Republican capital. The Republicans said the same two planes killed two persons when they strafed the Central Javanese village of Klaten.

A special broadcast by the Jogjakarta radio said the Indian transport, a Dakota which had taken off from Singapore with two tons of medicine for the Republic, was fired upon today by two Dutch fighters as the transport approached the landing strip.

The radio said the flight, arranged to take supplies to the Indonesian Red Cross, had previously been cleared with the Dutch Consul General at Singapore.

(In Singapore, H. H. Schweizer, representative for the International Red Cross, said the Dakota reported shot down at Jogjakarta was not sponsored by International Red Cross.)

Reportedly Crashed In Flames

The official spokesman of the Netherlands East Indies government in Batavia said Dutch militry headquarters had no report of any plane being shot down at Jogjakarta. He said Dutch fighter planes had been in action throughout Java after the Indonesian plane had bombed Semarang but that no report had been received on any such action as was described by the Jogjakarta radio.

The Republican broadcast said the Dutch fighters attacked with machine guns and that the transport crashed in flames.

Broadcasts To Moscow Stepped Up

WASHINGTON, July 29 — (AP) — A new 30-minute program of news and music hereafter will stream out over the "Voice of America" aimed directly at the Moscow area. It steps up by 50 per cent this country's official broadcasting to the Russians.

Prepared in Russian, the new program is scheduled to reach Soviet ears at midnight, Moscow time, beginning tonight, State Department officials said in announcing the plan. It was indicated the expansion came at the suggestion of Walter B. Smith, United States ambassador to Russia.

The present program, begun in February, runs from 8 to 9 p. m. Moscow time and will continue.

The new venture won't cost any more, it was said, because the present staff will do the work, but the State Department began a 40 per cent reduction in broadcasts to other countries, conforming with a reduction in its budget by Congress.

Assistant Secretary William Benton announced that broadcasts will be trimmed to 33 hours a day from the present 55 hours. Danish and Swedish will be dropped from the list of 26 languages in which broadcasts are now beamed abroad.

Other economies will be effected, including a staff reduction. The funds were trimmed from $8,400,000 to $6,900,000. Congress directed that some operation be shifted over to private radio companies.

The department said the present staff of more than 500 of its international broadcasting division will be reduced to about 225.

Effectiveness of this country's propaganda efforts in Europe will be studied this winter by two congressional committees. One from the Senate is headed by Sen. Smith (R-N.J.) and one from the House by Rep. Mundt (R-S.D.).

Truman Back In Capitol; Resumes Work On Bills

WASHINGTON, July 29—(AP)—President Truman returned today from Grandview, Mo., where his mother was buried yesterday, and turned immediately to a mass of legislation awaiting his action.

The President landed at the Washington National Airport at 3:16 (EST) after a four hour and 20 minute flight from Missouri where 94-year-old Mrs. Martha E. Truman died Saturday.

He told reporters he was going directly to work on upwards of 250 bills sent up to him by Congress in the closing hours before adjournment. He said he understood there were 99 such bills on his desk already.

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP) — Miss Frances Shores, of the Frederick High School, Frederick, Md., will be one of 123 American teachers sailing from New York on the Marine Tiger August 18 as part of an interchange of 246 instructors between Great Britain and the United States.

Beauty Shop Is Razed, Jewelry Store Wrecked

Cause Undetermined; Several Badly Hurt

HARRISONBURG, Va., July 29 (AP)—At least 10 persons were killed and several critically injured today when an explosion ripped a beauty shop apart and blew away a portion of an adjoining jewelry store in the central business section of this Shenandoah Valley town.

Bodies of the first six found, and that of another who died of injuries in Rockingham Memorial Hospital, were removed to the Higgs and Lindsay Funeral Homes where they were identified as women residents of the surrounding area.

Thirty persons were admitted to the hospital here for injuries and 25 remained for treatment.

As firemen and police joined with other workers—many of them war veterans — in cutting their way through concrete and steel debris, other bodies were pulled from the wreckage and an emergency morgue was set up at the blast scene.

Dead Are Identified

Miss Dorothy Gail Bowman, Mt. Jackson, whose 20th birthday was today. Miss Bowman, whose parents were giving her a permanent as a birthday present at Pauline's Beauty Shop, died of injuries at the hospital.

Miss Pauline Marie Sheffer, 23, Lone Fountain, a student at the beauty school run in conjunction with the shop; Miss Elizabeth Seisle, Harrisonburg; Miss Bonnie Catherine Sites, 16, of near Keezeltown; Miss Dorothy Zaruba Batzold, 20, Waynesboro; Miss Harriet Ann Garber, 52, Harrisonburg.

Mrs. Charlotte McAllister Shercahise, 32, Weyers Cave; Mrs. Anna Payne Baker, 43, Staunton; Mrs. Rebecca Sherman Crabill, of near Harrisonburg, and Miss Wilda Gulley, 18, Swoope.

Owner Of Shop Escapes

Jesse James Mullen, Harrisonburg, was injured in the blast which shattered windows as far as five blocks away. First reported dead, he was hurt while delivering coal in the basement where the explosion originated.

The owner of the shop and school, Mrs. Pauline Kline Sullivan, escaped injury when she left the spot a few moments before the blast.

Fire Chief Louis Armentrout said the cause of the explosion had not been determined. First reports indicated that a boiler blew up. However, it was thought later that coal dust had exploded.

A number of people reported the odor of gas just afte rthe concussion.

One of these, John O'Neill, who was leaving his work as a plumber in the house on one side, but some feet away, from the beauty parlor, said the force "staggered" him.

Armentrout said the explosion blew off the roof of the beauty shop and wrecked the adjacent Rhodes Jewelry store.

Two Blown Through Roof

Two women, apparently in the beauty shop at the time, were killed when they were blown through the roof by the blast, the fire chief reported.

An eyewitness said he heard the blast and in a few moments saw the roof of the beauty shop mushroom into the air.

Windows in nearby stores and the Methodist Church were shattered by the blast which firemen said was not accompanied by fire.

All available ambulances, doctors and nurses in the area were mobilized for care of the injured and World War II veterans in the town aided firemen and police in digging through the debris for the injured.

Also damaged by the explosion were the Advance Store and an empty store building.

The blast scattered jewelry from the Rhodes store in all directions, many of the valuables landing on Main Street, where they were recovered by police.

Plane Crash Kills Two

STAUNTON, Va., July 29 (AP) — A small, single-engine plane, carrying the pilot and one passenger, crashed near Christian Creek some three or four miles from here today, and burst into flames, killing both men.

The pilot was identified as Fred Showaker, Staunton, and the passenger as John Stump, Greenville.

House Committee To Make Global Economic Survey Named By Martin

Man Is Shot To Death In Courtroom After Slashing His Estranged Wife

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 29—(AP)—A husband, who slashed his estranged wife with a razor blade during a peace bond hearing, was shot to death in a wild fight in a crowded courtroom here today.

The husband, J. J. Bourbonnais, 40, was slain by a single shot fired by Constable Cecil Barker.

The wife, Mrs. Ida Mae Bourbonnais, 37, was cut across the abdomen and one hand, but her wounds were not serious.

Justice of the Peace Otis James said the fight started in his courtroom at the close of a hearing on an application by Mrs. Bourbonnis's daughter, Betty Jo, 14, for a peace bond to keep her father from annoying her mother.

Bourbonnais suddenly leaped from his seat shouting and raced toward his wife, flourishing the razor blade.

Mrs. Bourbonnais was unable to get out of his way and he grappled with her, slashing at her with the razor blade as they wrestled.

Woodrow Butler, of the county attorney's office, picked up Judge James' gavel and struck at Bourbonnais, who twisted his wife around to protect himself from the blows.

Constable Barker, who watched Bourbonnais slash at his wife with the razor blade, waited until the latter turned away from Mrs. Bourbonnais and then fired a single shot.

Bourbonnais fell behind a desk and lay there bleeding as women spectators in the courtroom screamed and fainted.

Britain May Cut Military Forces As Economy Step

Cabinet May Decide To Dip Into Reserves

LONDON, July 29 (AP)—Authoritative sources said today Britain might reduce the size of her armed forces—a step which could have far reaching effects on her role as a world power—to meet a prospective economic crisis this winter

Such an action, the informants continued, ultimately might be coupled with a cabinet decision to dip into Britain's "rainy day" gold and dollar reserve of $2,560,000,000.

Wave Of Selling Hits Markets

As signs of the nation's economic troubles multiplied, a new wave of selling, attributed by financial writers to fears for the nation's future, hit London stock markets.

Rumors spread again—and were denied authoritatively—that Prime Minister Attlee's Labor government might either call a general election to seek a new mandate from the people or invite the Conservative party to join in an emergency coalition cabinet.

Attlee, replying to a routine parliamentary question based on a newspaper report, said in the House of Commons: "I see startling information about myself in the newspapers which is totally inaccurate." He did not elaborate.

Montgomery To Cut Tour Short

The government disclosed that Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, chief of the Imperial General Staff, now in New Zealand, would cut short his Pacific tour because of "the pressure of business in London." It was reported that he would advise the government on the reduction of Britain's army, navy and air force, which had 1,297,300 men at the start of the month.

Left-wing Labor Party members long have urged the government to reduce the size of the armed services to save military costs and provide more men for undermanned industries. No indication was given of the possible size of the cuts, if they come, but unofficial sources speculated they were likely to be extensive.

Ocean City "Slot" Raid Tipped Off

OCEAN CITY, Md., July 29 (AP)—Worcester County Sheriff Arthur W. Duer obtained warrants today for operators of "fifteen or sixteen" slot machines which he and a flying squad picked up along the boardwalk last night, and the sheriff promised he would take action within 24 hours against "persons responsible" for tipping off the raid.

Those named in the warrants are to appear tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock before Magistrate James Robbins.

Edward Atkins, chief of police at nearby Snow Hill and one of Sheriff Duer's deputies, said he went into a boardwalk establishment and a woman told him:

"Don't play the machines, there is going to be a raid."

He told her the raid was on and confiscated the machine.

"I had men on both ends of the boardwalk, and I know what was going on," Sheriff Duer reported.

"I promise you that within 24 hours I will be able to take action against persons responsible for giving out word that the raid was coming off."

Alongside its story of last night's raid, the Salisbury, Md., Times this afternoon listed more than 160 operators in Worcestor, Somerset and Wicomico Counties who have paid the $100 annual federal tax on slot machines.

About 15 deputies assisted Sheriff Duer in his sweep of the boardwalk last night. It lasted an hour and a half. Some sources said the operators of some establishments started closing down their slot machine rooms as much as three hours before the flying squad arrived.

Markey To Help Select Cemeteries For War Dead

FREDERICK, Md., July 29—(AP)—Brig. Gen. D. John Markey, retired National Guard officer and World War one veteran, left today on a trip to Europe to help select cemeteries for the American dead of World War II in Italy and Africa.

He said he will sail tomorrow from New York with W. C. Harbeson, of Philadelphia, a consulting architect with the American Battle Monuments Commission, of which Markey is a member.

In Paris, Markey and Harbeson will join Brig. Gen. Thomas North, commission secretary, and several engineering officers assigned by the War Department.

There are 32,000 American dead in 12 cemeteries in Italy, Markey said, and the plan is to reinter them in a proposed new central cemetery at Florence or at Anzio. After visiting Florence, the commission will go to select a cemetery for the 6,000 dead scattered in five African cemeteries.

Rains In Waynesburg, Pa.; Daily Wins Bing's Hat

WAYNESBURG, Pa., July 29 (AP)—A slight but properly attested sprinkle of rain on South Morgan Street tonight was accepted as fulfillment of Waynesburg's traditional boast—"it always rains here on July 29."

Weather records now kept by Attorney John Daily, fourth in a line of Waynesburg weather-makers, show it has been dry in Waynesburg only four July 29s in 72 years.

Last year was one of those four dry years and it cost Daily a bet with Jack Dempsey. This year the rain won him a hat from Radio and Film Star Bob Hope, which the latter promised will be "one of Bing Crosby's best."

Martinsburg Man Is Held In Slaying

BALTIMORE, July 29 (AP) — Local authorities today turned over to Maryland State Police, a 32-year-old Army veteran they arrested on a tip from Hagerstown, Md., in connection with the death there of Charles Taylor, alias Charles Terzien.

Detective Captain Henry J. Kriss said his men arrested Ray William Ridenour, of Martinsburg, W. Va., as he got out of a cab with his girl friend in front of her apartment building.

Kriss said a key found in one of his pockets fitted a baggage locker at Camden Station, where detectives found a satchel full of bloody clothes.

The detective chief quoted Ridenour as saying he was in the car with Taylor when "the gun went off" as they grappled for it during an argument.

Washington County State's Attorney Martin Ingram reported he had learned Taylor left a Martinsburg gambling establishment Sunday night with another man and that Taylor had about $3,500.

There was only $31 on Taylor's body when it was found on the Williamsport Pike six miles south of Hagerstown yesterday.

Lane Turns Thumbs Down On Police Contributions

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 29 (AP) — Gov. Lane turned thumbs down today on the idea of public contributions to the state police recruiting campaign and directed all money collected so far be returned.

The governor said, "The people of Maryland can be justly proud of the state police organization that we have and it is a matter of deep satisfaction to have the very valuable assistance of so many people in the recruiting campaign now being conducted by that agency.

"However, in the conduct of the campaign, I do feel that the public should not be asked to contribute to defraying any expenses that might be incurred."

Paw Paw Tannery Worker Reported Shot By Member Of Radio Troupe

A man identified as William Johns, member of the Jackie Hill Radio Show, shot Eldon Cowgill, Trooper F. H. Tribitt, West Virginia State Police, reported. The trooper said Johns admitted the shooting and is being held in Romney for further questioning in the case. Cowgill, according to the trooper, is a patient in Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, W. Va.

A Paw Paw, W. Va., tannery worker was severely wounded last night at 9 p. m. when a male member of a radio troupe passing through the town, shot him in the right hip with a 16 gauge shotgun, Charles R. Robey, town marshal said.

Robey said he could not immediately identify the member of the troupe who did the shooting, but explained that Eldon Cowgill, 38, the victim, was creating a disturbance at the trailer where the radio troupe was spending the night four miles southeast of Paw Paw.

Cowgill, according to the marshal, is the father of a child which one of the troupe members adopted yesterday in Romney, and he was trying to get the child back, when he was shot.

Robey said he did not know what hospital the injured man was taken to, but described his condition as serious. Hampshire County authorities investigated the shooting and had Cogill removed to a hospital, according to Robey.

Cowgill, according to the marshal, appeared at the trailer early in the evening and began to create a disturbance, but left when authorities were called. Later, however he returned to the trailer, and once more began to demand that the foster parent return the child.

Robey said the radio troupe was passing through Paw Paw yesterday when they learned that the child was up for adoption. One member went to Circuit Court in Romney and took out the adoption papers then returned to Paw Paw for the child. The auttomobile that was pulling the trailer broke down and the troupe was unable to leave town last night.

The troupe, according to Robey, requested the West Virginia State Police to tow the car to Romney after the shooting because they feared further trobule.

MILTON, W. Va., July 29 (AP) — Tired after a long train ride in an iron lung, but in good spirits, Mrs. Ileen Thomsen, of Indianapolis, Ind., arrived at Morris Memorial Hospital here today for treatment of infantile paralysis.

Almost completely paralyzed since last August, Mrs. Thomsen was accompanied on the 300-mile train trip in a chartered car by her husband, Christian, and a special doctor and a nurse.

The 24-year-old woman is the mother of a five-year-old son.

U. S. Abandons Plans To Cut Wheat Output

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP)—The government, faced with high grain and food prices and with continued shortages abroad, has abandoned plans to reduce wheat production goals for next year's crop.

It is expected to announce within a few days a call for another big wheat crop next year. Seeding time for next year's winter wheat is only a few weeks away.

Aware that much of the wheat land has been under a heavy production strain since early in the war, the Agriculture Department had hoped that the wheat acreage could be reduced to give some of the overworked soil a chance to rest.

Most Of Nation Bakes In 90-To-100-Degree Heat

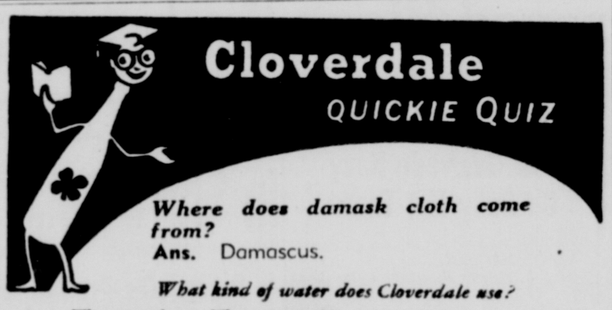

(By The Associated Press)

Most of the nation baked in 90 to 100 degrees temperatures Tuesday and to a stalk of corn, it was enjoyable.

The Weather Bureau at Chicago reported these areas sweltering: The Southwest, the Gulf states, the Mississippi Valley, the Middle Missouri Valley, the Southern Plains, Southern California, and, of course, the California desert region. The forecast was for more of the same Wednesday.

Excepting the desert, the hottest area was in Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Western Missouri where temperatures of 100 or more were common.

The hot days and nights were called "excellent corn growing weather" by the forecasters, mindful of the slow start the country's corn crop got this spring and summer.

44 ways To get "Something for Nothing"

The railroads have received 44 "rules" demands from the leaders of the operating unions, representing engineers, firemen, conductors, trainmen and switchmen. They say they are seeking only changes in working conditions—NOT a wage increase.

More Money For Less Work

But what kind of rules are being asked for? Twenty-eight of them would compel railroads to pay more money for the same, or less work; 7 would require additional and unnecessary men to do the same work; the rest would bring about changes in operating practices at increased cost.

For Instance:

The Union leaders demand additional train and engine crews on Diesel-powered trains —one full crew for every power unit in the locomotive. A freight train hauled by a 4-unit Diesel would have to carry 4 engineers, 4 firemen, 4 conductors, and at least 8 brakemen, or a total of 20 men instead of 5.

"Made Work"—Sheer Waste

The Union leaders demand that full-length freight trains be cut to about half their length, even though such trains are most efficient for low-cost service to you. This rule would call for twice as many locomotives, would double the number of trains, and make accidents more likely.

Additional equipment, yards, and other facilities required to take care of these short trains would cost hundreds of millions. What the Union leaders really want is to make more jobs.

The Union leaders demand that when a crew in one class of service perform incidental service of another class, they will be paid not less than a day's pay for each class, even though all service is performed as a part of the same day's work. The crew would get at least two days' pay for one day's work.

The Union leaders demand that the present basic day for passenger conductors and trainmen be reduced from 150 to 100 miles, which would have the effect of increasing their pay 50%. Such a run often takes only two or three hours!

You Can't Afford This Waste

Demands like these are against the interests of the whole American people, who depend on railroad service for nearly everything they eat, wear and use.

These rules would cost A BILLION DOLLARS annually—a gigantic waste which neither the railroads nor the country can afford.

Railroad workers are good citizens and good employes, with pride in their calling. Their record during the war was outstanding. We do not believe they fully understand the "featherbed" rules which the Union leaders are demanding. We do not believe they understand the harmful results which these rules would have to the railroad industry, to the millions of men and women dependent on railroads for their livelihood, and to the shipping and consuming public.

The great strength of America is in production—an honest day's work for an honest day's pay.

For only through greater production can we hope to stop the steady upward surge of living costs.

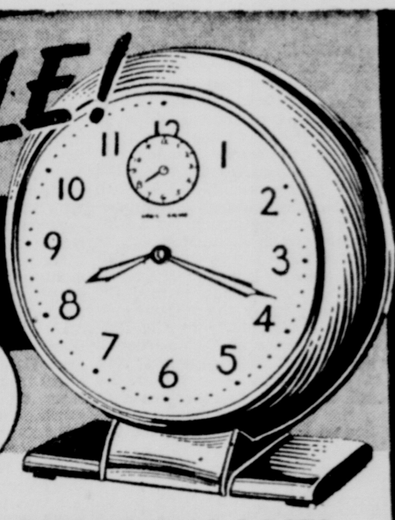

Surely, if ever there was a time in our history when we needed to work, not waste, this is it.

Britain May Cut Military Forces As Economy Step

Cabinet May Decide To Dip Into Reserves

LONDON, July 29 (AP)—Authoritative sources said today Britain might reduce the size of her armed forces—a step which could have far reaching effects on her role as a world power—to meet a prospective economic crisis this winter

Such an action, the informants continued, ultimately might be coupled with a cabinet decision to dip into Britain's "rainy day" gold and dollar reserve of $2,560,000,000.

Wave Of Selling Hits Markets

As signs of the nation's economic troubles multiplied, a new wave of selling, attributed by financial writers to fears for the nation's future, hit London stock markets.

Rumors spread again—and were denied authoritatively—that Prime Minister Attlee's Labor government might either call a general election to seek a new mandate from the people or invite the Conservative party to join in an emergency coalition cabinet.

Attlee, replying to a routine parliamentary question based on a newspaper report, said in the House of Commons: "I see startling information about myself in the newspapers which is totally inaccurate." He did not elaborate.

Montgomery To Cut Tour Short

The government disclosed that Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, chief of the Imperial General Staff, now in New Zealand, would cut short his Pacific tour because of "the pressure of business in London." It was reported that he would advise the government on the reduction of Britain's army, navy and air force, which had 1,297,300 men at the start of the month.

Left-wing Labor Party members long have urged the government to reduce the size of the armed services to save military costs and provide more men for undermanned industries. No indication was given of the possible size of the cuts, if they come, but unofficial sources speculated they were likely to be extensive.

Ocean City "Slot" Raid Tipped Off

OCEAN CITY, Md., July 29 (AP)—Worcester County Sheriff Arthur W. Duer obtained warrants today for operators of "fifteen or sixteen" slot machines which he and a flying squad picked up along the boardwalk last night, and the sheriff promised he would take action within 24 hours against "persons responsible" for tipping off the raid.

Those named in the warrants are to appear tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock before Magistrate James Robbins.

Edward Atkins, chief of police at nearby Snow Hill and one of Sheriff Duer's deputies, said he went into a boardwalk establishment and a woman told him:

"Don't play the machines, there is going to be a raid."

He told her the raid was on and confiscated the machine.

"I had men on both ends of the boardwalk, and I know what was going on," Sheriff Duer reported.

"I promise you that within 24 hours I will be able to take action against persons responsible for giving out word that the raid was coming off."

Alongside its story of last night's raid, the Salisbury, Md., Times this afternoon listed more than 160 operators in Worcestor, Somerset and Wicomico Counties who have paid the $100 annual federal tax on slot machines.

About 15 deputies assisted Sheriff Duer in his sweep of the boardwalk last night. It lasted an hour and a half. Some sources said the operators of some establishments started closing down their slot machine rooms as much as three hours before the flying squad arrived.

Markey To Help Select Cemeteries For War Dead

FREDERICK, Md., July 29—(AP)—Brig. Gen. D. John Markey, retired National Guard officer and World War one veteran, left today on a trip to Europe to help select cemeteries for the American dead of World War II in Italy and Africa.

He said he will sail tomorrow from New York with W. C. Harbeson, of Philadelphia, a consulting architect with the American Battle Monuments Commission, of which Markey is a member.

In Paris, Markey and Harbeson will join Brig. Gen. Thomas North, commission secretary, and several engineering officers assigned by the War Department.

There are 32,000 American dead in 12 cemeteries in Italy, Markey said, and the plan is to reinter them in a proposed new central cemetery at Florence or at Anzio. After visiting Florence, the commission will go to select a cemetery for the 6,000 dead scattered in five African cemeteries.

Rains In Waynesburg, Pa.; Daily Wins Bing's Hat

WAYNESBURG, Pa., July 29 (AP)—A slight but properly attested sprinkle of rain on South Morgan Street tonight was accepted as fulfillment of Waynesburg's traditional boast—"it always rains here on July 29."

Weather records now kept by Attorney John Daily, fourth in a line of Waynesburg weather-makers, show it has been dry in Waynesburg only four July 29s in 72 years.

Last year was one of those four dry years and it cost Daily a bet with Jack Dempsey. This year the rain won him a hat from Radio and Film Star Bob Hope, which the latter promised will be "one of Bing Crosby's best."

Martinsburg Man Is Held In Slaying

BALTIMORE, July 29 (AP) — Local authorities today turned over to Maryland State Police, a 32-year-old Army veteran they arrested on a tip from Hagerstown, Md., in connection with the death there of Charles Taylor, alias Charles Terzien.

Detective Captain Henry J. Kriss said his men arrested Ray William Ridenour, of Martinsburg, W. Va., as he got out of a cab with his girl friend in front of her apartment building.

Kriss said a key found in one of his pockets fitted a baggage locker at Camden Station, where detectives found a satchel full of bloody clothes.

The detective chief quoted Ridenour as saying he was in the car with Taylor when "the gun went off" as they grappled for it during an argument.

Washington County State's Attorney Martin Ingram reported he had learned Taylor left a Martinsburg gambling establishment Sunday night with another man and that Taylor had about $3,500.

There was only $31 on Taylor's body when it was found on the Williamsport Pike six miles south of Hagerstown yesterday.

Lane Turns Thumbs Down On Police Contributions

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 29 (AP) — Gov. Lane turned thumbs down today on the idea of public contributions to the state police recruiting campaign and directed all money collected so far be returned.

The governor said, "The people of Maryland can be justly proud of the state police organization that we have and it is a matter of deep satisfaction to have the very valuable assistance of so many people in the recruiting campaign now being conducted by that agency.

"However, in the conduct of the campaign, I do feel that the public should not be asked to contribute to defraying any expenses that might be incurred."

Paw Paw Tannery Worker Reported Shot By Member Of Radio Troupe

A man identified as William Johns, member of the Jackie Hill Radio Show, shot Eldon Cowgill, Trooper F. H. Tribitt, West Virginia State Police, reported. The trooper said Johns admitted the shooting and is being held in Romney for further questioning in the case. Cowgill, according to the trooper, is a patient in Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, W. Va.

A Paw Paw, W. Va., tannery worker was severely wounded last night at 9 p. m. when a male member of a radio troupe passing through the town, shot him in the right hip with a 16 gauge shotgun, Charles R. Robey, town marshal said.

Robey said he could not immediately identify the member of the troupe who did the shooting, but explained that Eldon Cowgill, 38, the victim, was creating a disturbance at the trailer where the radio troupe was spending the night four miles southeast of Paw Paw.

Cowgill, according to the marshal, is the father of a child which one of the troupe members adopted yesterday in Romney, and he was trying to get the child back, when he was shot.

Robey said he did not know what hospital the injured man was taken to, but described his condition as serious. Hampshire County authorities investigated the shooting and had Cogill removed to a hospital, according to Robey.

Cowgill, according to the marshal, appeared at the trailer early in the evening and began to create a disturbance, but left when authorities were called. Later, however he returned to the trailer, and once more began to demand that the foster parent return the child.

Robey said the radio troupe was passing through Paw Paw yesterday when they learned that the child was up for adoption. One member went to Circuit Court in Romney and took out the adoption papers then returned to Paw Paw for the child. The auttomobile that was pulling the trailer broke down and the troupe was unable to leave town last night.

The troupe, according to Robey, requested the West Virginia State Police to tow the car to Romney after the shooting because they feared further trobule.

Kelly Arbitration Hearing Held Here

An arbitration hearing was held yesterday at the office of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company on the rights of an electircal worker on the third shift to "bump" to the first shift.

Argument on the worker's rights under the contract were presented by officials of Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, before Dr. Paul Porter, Jr., Pittsburgh, arbiter for the parties. Contract negotiations will be resumed this morning at 10 o'clock, union officials said.

Lane Returns To Desk Following Operation

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 29 (AP) — Gov. Lane, who underwent a minor operation today at the office of Dr Edwin N. Broyles, of Baltimore, returned to work at his desk this afternoon.

Louis J. O'Donnell, assistant to the governor, said Dr. Broyles described the operation as "definitely minor." It consisted of snipping out some throat tissue affected during the Chief Executive's illness early this year.

Negotiations Continue In Shipyard Walkout

Young Woman Completes Long Trip In Iron Lung

MILTON, W. Va., July 29 (AP) — Tired after a long train ride in an iron lung, but in good spirits, Mrs. Ileen Thomsen, of Indianapolis, Ind., arrived at Morris Memorial Hospital here today for treatment of infantile paralysis.

Almost completely paralyzed since last August, Mrs. Thomsen was accompanied on the 300-mile train trip in a chartered car by her husband, Christian, and a special doctor and a nurse.

The 24-year-old woman is the mother of a five-year-old son.

A spokesman at the hospital, to which Mrs. Thomsen was transferred by truck from the train, said she was "feeling fine." He quoted her as saying she "liked the quiet of the hospital" and felt she would like West Virginia.

U. S. Abandons Plans To Cut Wheat Output

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP)—The government, faced with high grain and food prices and with continued shortages abroad, has abandoned plans to reduce wheat production goals for next year's crop.

It is expected to announce within a few days a call for another big wheat crop next year. Seeding time for next year's winter wheat is only a few weeks away.

Aware that much of the wheat land has been under a heavy production strain since early in the war, the Agriculture Department had hoped that the wheat acreage could be reduced to give some of the overworked soil a chance to rest.

Most Of Nation Bakes In 90-To-100-Degree Heat

(By The Associated Press)

Most of the nation baked in 90 to 100 degrees temperatures Tuesday and to a stalk of corn, it was enjoyable.

The Weather Bureau at Chicago reported these areas sweltering: The Southwest, the Gulf states, the Mississippi Valley, the Middle Missouri Valley, the Southern Plains, Southern California, and, of course, the California desert region. The forecast was for more of the same Wednesday.

Excepting the desert, the hottest area was in Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Western Missouri where temperatures of 100 or more were common.

The hot days and nights were called "excellent corn growing weather" by the forecasters, mindful of the slow start the country's corn crop got this spring and summer.

Woman Leaves Husband For Another Man To Repay Him For Kindness

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Human beings get themselves into all sorts of involved situations, but it seems to be a fact that most of them happen as the result of wrongdoing. One of the strangest that has come to my desk recently is described in the following letter in which a woman says:

"Twelve years ago I met a man whom I thought was kind and good. I learned to think a great deal of him. He once did a favor for someone I love very dearly, and then always held it over me to make me stick to him. Instead of being kind and good, I have found that he is cruel and mean and jealous. He is cruel to his wife and she divorced him. He will tell lies about you behind your back. I lost my husband through being a friend to him. I know I am wrong and I know in my heart I should have been different.

"This man keeps telling me that we will get married. I know he hates me and that he will always do things to hurt me and make me suffer. He wants to know where I go and whom I go with. But if I ask him a question, he will get angry and curse me. I feel sorry for him for having spoiled his life, and when he loses me, he will lose his best friend. He says I owe him a debt from years back because of the favor that he did for someone dear to me. Must I pay for it all my life by being his friend and taking his cruelty?

"I am going to leave him because I know I will find happiness and contentment away from him. I have given up all my friends because of him. Will you please tell me if you think I am doing right?"

Now, if this woman had given me any information about the mysterious "debt" she owes this man, the situation might be somewhat easier to understand. It is very hard to imagine anything that any man could do that would enslave a woman in the way that has apparently happened here. I gather that because of whatever it is this man did for the person in question, this woman left her husband and went to live with him to repay him for his so-called kindness. The whole thing seems completely fantastic and out of all reason. Obviously, there are many facts that the woman does not mention which would explain things better than her letter does as it stands.

Since she has already decided to leave this man, I cannot quite see why she is writing to me about it, except that she seems to want the assurance from someone that she is doing the right thing. However, so many wrongs must have been done in order to bring about the tangled situation in which she has become involved, that, at this point, it would be impossible to say that any course of action was "right." The only word that I can think of which would apply to any decision she makes in the matter is "expedient," and I certainly would think it expedient for her to leave the kind of man she describes.

But unless she is able to untangle her views on what is right and what is wrong, I am very much afraid that she is quite likely to find herself before long in some other situation, equally disastrous.

It is very hard to imagine anything that any man could do that would enslave a woman in the way that has apparently happened here. I gather that because of whatever it is this man did for the person in question, this woman left her husband and went to live with him to repay him for his so-called kindness. The whole thing seems completely fantastic and out of all reason. Obviously, there are many facts that the woman does not mention which would explain things better than her letter does as it stands.

Since she has already decided to leave this man, I cannot quite see why she is writing to me about it, except that she seems to want the assurance from someone that she is doing the right thing. However, so many wrongs must have been done in order to bring about the tangled situation in which she has become involved, that, at this point, it would be impossible to say that any course of action was "right." The only word that I can think of which would apply to any decision she makes in the matter is "expedient," and I certainly would think it expedient for her to leave the kind of man she describes.

But unless she is able to untangle her views on what is right and what is wrong, I am very much afraid that she is quite likely to find herself before long in some other situation, equally disastrous.

MAN FRACTURES LEG DURING SUCCESSFUL STRUGGLE WITH FISH

MENOMONIE, Wis., July 29. (AP)—Theodore Olecho, of Chicago, landed a 40-inch northern pike—but had to leave the scene of his conquest in an ambulance.

Olecho, attempting to drag his prize to the shore of the Red Cedar River, was jerked off his feet by the struggle and fractured his left leg on a log. Unable to get up, he continued to play the fish and landed it eventually without assistance.

A youth passing nearby heard his shouts and summoned the ambulance.

Overweight Can Be Serious Menace To A Person's Health

There are those in our midst who have found excess weight cumbersome to be carrying around, to say nothing of the distressed feeling one suffers almost constantly. But too many of us wait until late in life to do something about it, and then we find taking off that excess poundage is not so easy from a health standpoint.

To many people an overweight person is a source of amusement or even ridicule, but overweight may actually be a serious menace to health. Insurance company records show the length of life is reduced seriously in persons who are overweight. For overweight, as for other health impairments, prevention is better than cure.

Although there are cases where glandular or other conditions cause overweight, in most cases people are fat because they eat too much. They eat because they enjoy eating and to them the word "diet" has all the connotations of starvation. Intelligent dieting does not mean starvation. It does mean the substitution of non-fattening fruits, vegetables and meats for fattening starches, sugars and fats.

But, no one should start dieting without first consulting a doctor. A complete physical examination will determine whether the overweight has been accompanied by any disease of the heart, kidneys or other organs. The doctor can help the overweight person plan a diet on which he can reduce gradually and safely, with adequate nourishment provided.

It is important that along with any reducing diet should go a well-regulated regime of exercise to make flabby muscles solid and firm. That is often neglected by those who take it upon themselves to prescribe their own diet. The course of exercise, too, should be planned by your doctor.

As will be attested by many who have gone on a reducing menu, the loss of excess weight has its reward in a feeling of well-being, added years of life and in pride in a better appearance.

On the other hand, underweight is not so common as overweight and is not so serious a condition, except in cases where it is a symptom of some disease, such as tuberculosis. Any sudden loss in weight or inability to gain weight should send one to the doctor for a thorough physical examination, including a chest X-ray. As a group, however, underweight persons live longer and are healthier in old age than those who are overweight.

But, in correcting underweight, as in correcting overweight, the first step is a visit to the doctor. If disease is not present, he will recommend the proper diet and a regime of rest and exercise. The main thing to remember in trying to gain weight is that more food must be digested and assimilated each day than is needed, so that the surplus can be stored.

It might be pointed out that rest before and after meals is helpful to those who are underweight. Bringing the weight up to normal will give such persons the reserve energy and endurance which overweight persons often lack.

In North Dakota a baseball game was called on account of a cyclone, Jack Garner is reported to be burning his official papers, and apparently saucers are again being used in some sections to cool coffee. There is no shortage of news.

Conditions Prove Wisdom On Anti-Smoke Control Law

The anti-smoke control ordinance is slated to become operative next January 1, but during the interim Cumberlanders must stand by and see the city drenched with smoke and ash from the towering smokestacks of industrial and power plants and railroad locomotives.

It was not surprising to find residents of the Springfield Boulevard section appealing to the Mayor and City Council Monday morning for relief from the heavy smoke and fine ash belching from the Potomac Edison Company's river plant. The complaint comes in the wake of statements of a short time ago to the effect that such conditions were being brought under control after experiments looking to the harnessing of the smoke and flyash.

But, the condition complained of is not confined to the areas affected by the Potomac Edison Company operation. It can be found in every section of the city, and during the past month or so smoke and soot from railroad locomotives has become as prevalent as before smoke control was first advocated and since railroad officials claimed the dirt and grime had been reduced.

It might have been true that over a specified period there had been some improvement claimed by some city officials and those of the railroads responsible for cutting down these smoke screens that almost obliterate the beauty of our mountain sides and rain cinders and ash down on homes. But that is not so today, and we question very much that it has been so at any other time.

We contend, and the people of the city will support the contention, that these conditions have become unbearable, and there is no valid reason why this city should be subjected to such an unhealthy nuisance any longer than it takes to bring a halt to it all.

It is to be hoped the Mayor and City Council will be successful in securing a capable engineer, after the local situation is surveyed, to take over the operation of the anti-smoke control ordinance, and that it will be enforced to the fullest degree possible.

There Must Be A Way

According to the Department of Agriculture, a shortage of potatoes is in prospect this year.

Departmental experts estimate that the country will produce 351,000,000 bushels this year. This would be 25,000,000 bushels short of the nation's annual needs and 125,000,000 less than last year's production. They explained that the dwindling supply this year was caused by the cool, wet spring planting season.

There is irony in this situation because last year the government, in line with its policy of supporting grower prices, bought up nearly 100,000,000 bushels and promptly proceeded to dump much of these.

All of which must be rather puzzling to simple souls who are naive enough to believe that somewhere in a country endowed with the genius to produce the electric light, the automobile, the atomic bomb and the bent hairpin, there can be found the brains to devise a system for saving its surplus foods to insure against lean years.

OUTMANEUVERING SHARKS

SHARK yarns are a dime a dozen and many are exaggerated. But there are many authentic reports of individuals who were bitten or chased by these creatures that the danger cannot be minimized. During hostilities, when sea survival was a problem, the hazard had a great effect on the morale of our men.

Sailors have been attacked and human tissues are recovered occasionally from captured sharks. On the other hand, some persons have mistaken porpoises or rays for the man eaters. Porpoises are harmless and the ray is safe unless stepped upon. Sharks rarely bite unless hungry but their curiosity makes them prone to investigate any large, floating body. They may swim close to a boat or even nudge its sides but this does not constitute an attack, even tho it makes a good story.

Sight and smell are used by sharks to locate food. Their favorite edibles are fish, squids, crabs and shellfish. Shallow waters are preferred for dining and consequently, when seen near the shore, they are likely to be hungry. Their powerful jaws contain many rows of teeth and after nipping the victim, the monster rolls over on his side. This produces a cresent shaped, crushed, or lacerated wound. The sufferer will bleed profusely and often goes into shock.

During the war, considerable research was carried out in an attempt to perfect a repellent which could be applied to the skin or clothing of man. The idea was to produce a substance that the fish would find distasteful causing it to swim away. One "shark chaser" seemed to meet the requirements and is now available. It is prepared in a cake, like soap and can be swished back and forth in the water; on spreading, the chemical literally envelops the individual in ap rotective area thru which the fish has no desire to penetrate.

The product has not been used by enough persons to determine whether it is successful. But in experimental work it proved effective. Two tubs of bait were prepared; one was sprinkled with the deterrent and the other was not. The containers were taken out into infested waters. Some of the plain food was shoveled out and the sharks ate with relish. When the other batch was offered, they left immediately and would not go within 20 yards of the bait. The results were conclusive.

The average bather might not have time to remove this material from his belt if he saw a shark coming. But it might be helpful for men working in infested waters or awaiting rescue at sea. Since the formula produces an inky, cloudy area, those who are floating about must watch it carefully and stay within its boundaries.

There are many other defense measures which are valuable in such an emergncy. By keeping a sharp lookout, the presence of sharks can often be detected. They are attracted by light, white cloth, frenzied or irregular movements, fresh and dead fish, offal, and blood. By avoiding such factors, the chances of encountering the monsters will be lessened. Dangling of hands or feet while fishing from a raft or boat is also contraindicated. Fighting or dodging a shark is better than swimming frantically toward shore, especially if the distance is great.

CHILD IS SLOW

Mrs. R. writes: The doctor says my 21 months old baby is mentally retarded. Is there any way in which she can be helped?

REPLY

This depends upon the cause as there are many disturbances capable of causing this defect. A pediatrician should be consulted.

NO, INDEED

V. J. writes: Are all neurological disturbances inherited?

REPLY

No—the majority arep robably acquired.

OF NO VALUE

G. W. writes: Has streptomycin been tried in cancer?

I do not recall reading that it has. Streptomycin is effective against certain species of germs and since cancer is not due to bacterial invasion, it would be a useless weapon in malignancies.

DISTRESS IN BABY

Mrs. D. writes: What causes great discomfort in a young infant during a bowel movement?

REPLY

The most common cause is fissure, a crack in the membrane in the area of the bowel exit.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Movies have had a terrific influence on the public, but a new high was hit in Crescent City, Calif., when an inmate of the county jail got another inmate to play the violin. Under cover of the fiddle background he sawed one cell bar all the way through and was halfway through another before the sheriff discovered it. I guess the boys had hobbies. One liked to fiddle while the other whittled.

It was a very interesting attempt at jail breaking. When one started sawing the other played "Time on my Hands."

As he cut through the first bar he played "You take the high road." Of course, when the sheriff came he changed his tune. Too bad his plan didn't work. He wanted a loud Spike Jones arrangement to cover his getaway, but unfortunately the phonograph machine didn't fit in the cake. He would've made it too, but the two guys in the next cell who played the trumpet had been paroled the day before.

He's now back in solitary singing "Pack Up Your Troubles in an Old Burglar Kit and File, File, File."

ANOTHER CASE FOR THE HUMANE SOCIETY

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, July 29—Those who have watched the inside of Washington's lobbying racket must agree that Senator Brewster of Maine has performed a useful service in bringing out the bizarre night-club parties, the Hollywood lovelies and other allurements used by airplane manufacturer Howard Hughes to cozy up to government officials. However, the big question is: Will Brewster's probe go far enough?

Repeatedly in recent years this column has called attention to this type of lobby. It has waxed flagrant and uninvestigated. Sometimes it operated through wine, women and song; sometimes through close personal friendships; sometimes through family connections.

Almost every big war contractor kept a luxurious apartment in Washington during the war, staffed with servants and plenty of liquor for the entertainment of Army officers and War Production Board officials. Most of the time these apartments were empty, thereby contributing to the capital's housing problem. Most of the time also the servants were idle—which made Washington housewives, unable to get servants, furious.

There was, among other things, the yacht kept by a well-known perfume importer down the Potomac, on which John Maragon, ex-Kansas city bootblack and close friend of the President, entertained.

There was the swank house on S Street, sometimes called the Street Of the Presidents—where the power lobby threw ornate parties.

There was also the very charming and personable Burdette Wright of Curtiss-Wright airplane fame, who was extremely close to Army officers and who signed many lucrative contracts before the war—later charged by Major De Seversky as setting back the Air Corps for months.

There was also the close tie between General Hap Arnold, head of the Air Corps and Donald Douglas, head of Douglas Aircraft, brought about through the marriage of their son and daughter.

Unique among the lobbying was that of the aviation corporation of America, performed by that astute and charming ex-White House jester, George Allen.

But most successful of all—far more successful than the obtuse lobbying of Howard Hughes—was that of Pan American Airways. If Senator Brewster went into all these lobbying setups, especially the amazing ramifications of Pan American Airways, he would be doing a great service to the country.

Note—Brewster is known as the best friend Pan American Airways has in the Senate, so the chances are 100 to 1 that he won't.

No Flood Control

Congress adjourned without doing anything constructive about one of the most vital needs of the nation—flood control. How vital it is was illustrated in a conversation between President Truman and Rep. Al Elliott, a conservative Democrat of Tulare, Calif., who do not agree on many things, but do see eye-to-eye on flood control.

"There are four rivers, Mr. President, coming into a large area in my district and the district of Bud Gearhart," explained the California congressman, "the Kern, the King, the Tule and the Kaweah—and they have absolutely no outlet."

"I thought I learned a lot about flood control and the rivers of this country while I was in the Senate," the President interrupted, "but I never knew about those rivers."

Elliott then explained that in wet seasons those rivers can flood as much as half a million acres of rich farmland—and that huge areas can be inundated by serious flash floods.

"Sometimes large parts of that Plain have been under water for as much as two years—and I've seen grain crops worth as much as $30,000,000 just wiped out in a few hours shortly before they were to be harvested," Elliott continued. "That land is so flat, Mr. President, that I've seen as much as 640 acres completely covered with water — and yet the water would not be over an inch and a half deep at any one point."

Dams have been authorized on the Kern and King rivers, although little money has been appropriated. Elliott wants funds not only for them but for the Tule and Kaweah rivers.

"With all the current trouble about a shortage of oil, it seems to me almost criminal not to protect the rich oilfields near Bakersfield," Elliott said. "They're in constant danger from floods—and in the past some of the highest grade oil to be found anywhere has been lost because of the Kern river. I don't like to think of another war—but if it should come, we'd certainly not like to take any chance on having production from that field slowed down."

The President heartily agreed.

"I hope to be able to use this office," he said, "to spread flood-control protection throughout the United States generally."

Vermont GOP Marble For Truman

Among recent gifts received by President Truman were two sets of marble bookends. They were presented, appropriately enough, by a rock-ribbed Republican, Rep. Charles A. Plumley of Vermont.

Plumley, a former schoolteacher and one of the leading wits of Congress, took great delight in pointing out the "political characteristics" of the bookends. One set, he said, was carved from Missouri marble and the other from Vermont "Danby Imperial" marble.

"To any political student, the difference is obvious," said Plumley. "You will note that the Missouri bookends are a mixed gray, Democratic color, while the Vermont set has a pure white, or Republican, hue.

"Incidentally, you Democrats chose this Vermont Republican marble for the Jefferson Memorial here in Washington. So when you look at these bookends, Mr. President, first at the Vermont Republican and then at the Missouri ones, you can readily see that they exemplify the difference between Jefferson democracy and the New Deal."

Truman laughingly agreed that there was room in his library for both.

Congress Gives Clear Picture Of Free Government In Action

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 29 — This correspondent has observed through a period of 37 years the regular and special sessions of the national legislature.

In all the years that have passed since the Democratic Congress of 1910 put up to the Republican president, William Howard Taft, bill after bill for expected veto, it has been possible after each session to pick flaws and to point to mistakes or to things left undone or to petty politics played or large responsibilities evaded.

But it has been possible also to experience a thrill of pride and satisfaction that the people's representatives do conduct the public business with a minimum of passion and a maximum of reason, and that so much agreement is achieved on so many complex matters of diversified interest and appeal.

The writer feels after every Congress that it is nothing less than a miracle of human behavior when 531 men and women, possessed of strong minds and individual viewpoints and representing large constituencies, should actually join in the relatively smooth operation of a legislative body.

Astonishing Achievements

When it is considered that parliamentary rules and complex methods of procedure permit delays and obstruction and that committees can squelch legislative proposals or that unlimited debate can defeat what committees cannot bury, it is remarkable that as much legislation is passed as gets on the statute books after each congress.

More amazing than anything else is the scrutiny which the committees give to legislative proposals. There are exceptions, of course, but by and large the committee work goes unheralded and unsung. The dry-as-dust subject matter, the long hours of study, the patient listening to those who advocate or those who protest, the operation of lobbies and the unremitting pressure of government bureaus — all this emphasizes that the members of the congress of the United States do listen to reason and do respect the wishes of the people who appear before them in more pieces of legislation than one would expect to see moving through the complicated machinery of Congress.

Irrespective of party, the members do a constructive job in committee and on the floor, popular impression sometimes to the contrary notwithstanding. For the press reports mostly the sensations, the cleavages, the little outbursts of temper and passion. Due to lack of space, the press does not print the texts of all the laws passed nor even record in small part the work that has been done to secure their enactment. There is difficulty in viewing the work in perspective.

Congress viewed as a whole is a great institution. It is the people's legislature. Since every one of its members must go before the people periodically, the Congress, sometimes by its caution and hesitation and sometimes by its haste, reflects the changing moods of the people and their broad desires on public questions.

Not many countries can point to a legislative body which does as much work as does the Congress of the United States — uncoerced and unaffected by the power of an oligarchy and subject at all times to the searchlight of two freedoms —the written and spoken word.

Sometimes Congress seems large and unwieldy. Sometimes it manifests an exasperating delay on measures one wants to see passed promptly. But long experience has proved that sometimes to defer action is to insure subsequent passage, whereas insistence on action sometimes spells rejection with little chance of revival.

Comments Will Be Many

The comments on Congress will be many. Some will be characterized by the smart-aleck approach which will find plenty of flaws and will seek to disparage our institutions. Some will present the rival claims of the respective parties as to what has been accomplished. But there ought to be and hence there is recorded today a call for applause for both parties and the congressional system that our forefathers proclaimed. It has its defects but they are, relatively speaking, minor. For here the minority has rights not trampled upon or treated with violence. Here the action of the majority is not the tyranny of physical force. Here alone is the majesty of free government with the privilege of making mistakes, correcting them and moving on session after session to show the whole world that lawmaking which affects every kind of selfish interest can be accomplished nevertheless through reason and discipline. Only self-governing nations can glory in the cumbersome efficiency of a representative legislature.

Baltimore Election Reviewed; Murray's Challenge Not Yet Met

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

The first congressional election since the passage of the "slave labor" bill took place in Baltimore, Maryland, on July 15th. The C.I.O. endorsed candidate won. But the election figures show that the rank-and-file wage earner and his wife are not as hot and bothered over The Taft-Hartley Bill as are the labor bosses.

This was a test case. The incumbent Congressman, Thomas D'Alesandro, Democrat, had resigned to become Mayor of Baltimore. So a special election became necessary. There were three candidates on the ballot—Edward Garmatz, a Democrat, S. P. Jarosinski, a Republican, and an Independent. Mr. Garmatz holds a card in the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, A. F. of L. So it may be presumed that the A. F. of L. as well as the C.I.O. did all toey could for Mr. Garmatz.

The C.I.O. certainly went all out. Mr. Philip Murray in a front page editorial in the CIO NEWS urged the election of Garmatz in the strongest terms. In fact, he made his support a direct challenge of section 304 of The Taft-Hartley Bill forbidding union funds to be spent in political campaigns. (This provision is similar to that which has been federal law for many years forbidding corporations to spend funds to elect or defeat candidates.) Murray contends that section 304 violates the freedom of the press article of the Constitution.

Murray Invited Indictment

By officially endorsing Mr. Garmatz, Mr. Murray invited the indictment and arrest of himself and other officials of the C.I.O. in order to make a court test of section 304. He was clearly within his rights in doing so as long as he is willing to take the risk of conviction if the courts hold the section constitutional.

Mr. Murray said:

"Under the procedures of our courts it is possible to strike down unconstitutional laws only by taking affirmative action in reliance on and in the exercise of the liberties guaranteed by the Constitution.

"This I have decided to do . . . "I therefore have directed and requested the editor of the CIO NEWS to publish this statement . . . and to give to this issue of the CIO NEWS proper circulation among the members of CIO unions in the City of Baltimore and particularly, within the Congressional District in which this election is scheduled to take place . . .

"I . . . urge all members of CIO residing and voting in this Congressional District . . . to . . . cast their votes for Judge Garmatz, and make every effort to bring to their neighbors and friends and to all persons eligible to vote in this election a full understanding of the issues involved and of the importance of voting for Judge Garmatz . . .

"It is my understanding that the issue as to whether proper respect will be paid to the fundamental guarantees and principles of our Constitution must now rest in the hands of the law enforcement agencies of the federal government."

How It Panned Out

So there was the issue. How did it pan out? Mr. Garmatz got 12,000 votes out of 23,000, and was elected. But this can be appraised only by comparing this "test case" vote with that in other recent elections. In 1942, Mr. D'Alesandro, the Democratic candidate, got 73.1% of the total vote in that same 3rd Maryland District. In 1944, he got 73.4%, in 1946, he got 64%; but in 1947, in this test case, Mr. Garmatz got only 52%; In short, he got the smallest per cent of votes in the last four elections in this heavy Democratic and labor district.

So we see again an old and time-tried truth—that the power of labor leaders to deliver the vote of the American working man and his wife is sadly over-esimated.

President Truman has promised, in good faith, to carry out the provisions of The Taft-Hartley Bill.

It will now be interesting to learn whether the "law enforcement agencies of the federal government" will accept Mr. Murray's polite invitation to indict him.

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

Congress Adjourns

The surprising fact about the 80th Congress, which has now adjourned, is its actual accomplishment. The American system differs from the British in that political control need not be unified; that is, the President may be one political party while the majority in either house of Congress or both may be of differing parties. When that happens, Congressional achievement is difficult.

In this instance, President Truman is a Democrat; the Republicans had a capable working majority in the House of Representatives but only an organizing majority in the Senate. By an "organizing majority" is meant one which made it possible for the Republicans to select the officers of the Senate and the Chairmen and majorities of Committees, but beyond that they were in an uncertain position. At first it appeared that the Republicans would have a working majority of three in the Senate; then that seemed to disappear with Senators Morse, Aiken, Tobey, Ives, Cooper, Langer and Lodge funtioning completely on their own.

Toward the end of the session, only Morse and Langer were wholly without party consciousness. Both were discounted in all calculations. Wayne Morse proved himself to be not a Republican but a New Dealer, as fixed in the ways of socialistic confusion as Claude Pepper; William Langer was marched off as a maverick. Huss, Senator Taft, the leader of his party in the Senate, had to carry through his party's program with so narrow a margin that on his major measure he had to coalesce with like-minded Democrats.

In these circumstances, it is little short of remarkable that any legislation at all went through all stages to actual law. The most important achievement was the Taft-Hartley Bill, passed over the President's veto. The measure, regulating the power of labor unions and setting up a code of industrial relations, created somewhat of a furore but not as much as was anticipated. The Taft-Hartley Bill will undoubtedly be one of the principal issues in the 1948 campaign and whoever runs for President will have to stand or fall by it.

Some assume that a non-Congressional candidate, such as Dewey, Stassen, Eisenshower or MacArthur, might, in the campaign, evade the political liabilities of this Act, but that is a misreading of American politics. Truman will run on his veto; the Republican will have to run on his party's sponsorship of the Taft-Hartley Bill and there can and will be no dodging. Any Republican candidate will have to defend Robert A. Taft's leadership or suffer defeat by admitting that Truman's leadership has been more correct. Taft will be an issue.

This also applies to the tax bills. Twice passed, twice vetoed, twice lost in the Senate by a narrow margin in the effort for passage over the President's veto, these Bills will be majoor issues in the next election. It is impossible to evade these issues. The Republicans, in coalition with Democrats, offered the people a substantial reduction. The New Dealers, led by Henry Wallace, won the President to opposition to tax reduction. The slogan in 1948 will be: "$20,000,000,000 for Europe; not a nickle off for Americans!" It will be a potent argument. No Republican candidate can resist it.

In a word, these two measures will form the platform of both parties in 1948. Another matter that will develop out of Congressional action into a campaign issue is the Bi-Partisan Foreign Policy for which Senator Vandenberg stands sponsor. The author of that policy is John Foster Dulles, Governor Dewey's adviser on foreign affairs. Up to the veto of the tax bill, that policy justified itself. It now requires revaluation in terms of foreign commitments and domestic needs. A large, if not major, element in the Republican Party is now opposed to the Bi-Partisan Policy and it is doubtful if President Truman can hold the entire Democratic Party in line for it. Certainly the Wallace-Pepper element oppose it already.

Thus, for the first time since 1944, the foreign affairs of the United States become a campaign issue. This definitely imperils the Marshall Plan, which, not having been adopted by Congress, through appropriations, at its recent session, will come before it in stormy weather at the next session.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Simplicity

It is interesting to note how simplicity grows upon one—especially upon those who have known simplicity in early life, only to desert it, and later return to it. Such people learn the futility of holding on to too much.

Beauty is in simple lines, planes, and masses. Nature is not ornate, but simple. The finest furniture is designed on simple lines. So are women's gowns. It's the fabric that counts, and this gives its finest show when most simply displayed.

Men whose origin has been simple, no matter how great their later wealth, usually stick to their early habits of simplicity. They see how insincere is gross and vulgar display. Great leaders are usually men of simple taste and simple wants. Essential equipment alone is what carries men or women to their objectives.

The simpler a beautiful woman is gowned the more does her beauty stand forth. She needs no extra jewels or costly ornaments. The very finest ornament for a beautiful woman should be a warm and gracious heart. Such an ornament radiates and is remembered.

The greatest books are written in the simplest manner, with short words, and simplicity of style. Notable are the works of Shakespeare and the Bible. The greatest of writers have drawn inspiration and lessons from these two.

Vulgar display of wealth is always bad taste. There are those, however, who have great wealth who never make you feel conscious of the fact. They are deserving of that wealth. They are worthy to tie to, no matter what their station, or fortune. Character is worth, and it may be found among the humblest as well as among the exalted of this earth.

Simple taste and simple wants lead to the greatest of happiness. There are so many laws in the statute-books, that not one person in a million could possibly know them all. But if he can just keep in mind one rule that was suggested something like nearly 2,000 years ago by a simple man "who went about doing good," that is all that would be necessary to keep him a good citizen, no matter in what part of the world he might be—and that is what we all know as The Golden Rule—to do unto others as we would want them to do unto us!

If the United Nations would adopt this simple rule—and stick to it, all quarrels would be over—and all wars, as well! But I guess that would be too simple!

Overweight Can Be Serious Menace To A Person's Health

There are those in our midst who have found excess weight cumbersome to be carrying around, to say nothing of the distressed feeling one suffers almost constantly. But too many of us wait until late in life to do something about it, and then we find taking off that excess poundage is not so easy from a health standpoint.

To many people an overweight person is a source of amusement or even ridicule, but overweight may actually be a serious menace to health. Insurance company records show the length of life is reduced seriously in persons who are overweight. For overweight, as for other health impairments, prevention is better than cure.

Although there are cases where glandular or other conditions cause overweight, in most cases people are fat because they eat too much. They eat because they enjoy eating and to them the word "diet" has all the connotations of starvation. Intelligent dieting does not mean starvation. It does mean the substitution of non-fattening fruits, vegetables and meats for fattening starches, sugars and fats.

But, no one should start dieting without first consulting a doctor. A complete physical examination will determine whether the overweight has been accompanied by any disease of the heart, kidneys or other organs. The doctor can help the overweight person plan a diet on which he can reduce gradually and safely, with adequate nourishment provided.

It is important that along with any reducing diet should go a well-regulated regime of exercise to make flabby muscles solid and firm. That is often neglected by those who take it upon themselves to prescribe their own diet. The course of exercise, too, should be planned by your doctor.

As will be attested by many who have gone on a reducing menu, the loss of excess weight has its reward in a feeling of well-being, added years of life and in pride in a better appearance.

On the other hand, underweight is not so common as overweight and is not so serious a condition, except in cases where it is a symptom of some disease, such as tuberculosis. Any sudden loss in weight or inability to gain weight should send one to the doctor for a thorough physical examination, including a chest X-ray. As a group, however, underweight persons live longer and are healthier in old age than those who are overweight.

But, in correcting underweight, as in correcting overweight, the first step is a visit to the doctor. If disease is not present, he will recommend the proper diet and a regime of rest and exercise. The main thing to remember in trying to gain weight is that more food must be digested and assimilated each day than is needed, so that the surplus can be stored.

It might be pointed out that rest before and after meals is helpful to those who are underweight. Bringing the weight up to normal will give such persons the reserve energy and endurance which overweight persons often lack.

In North Dakota a baseball game was called on account of a cyclone. Jack Garner is reported to be burning his official papers, and apparently saucers are again being used in some sections to cool coffee. There is no shortage of news.

Conditions Prove Wisdom On Anti-Smoke Control Law

The anti-smoke control ordinance is slated to become operative next January 1, but during the interim Cumberlanders must stand by and see the city drenched with smoke and ash from the towering smokestacks of industrial and power plants and railroad locomotives.

It was not surprising to find residents of the Springfield Boulevard section appealing to the Mayor and City Council Monday morning for relief from the heavy smoke and fine ash belching from the Potomac Edison Company's river plant. The complaint comes in the wake of statements of a short time ago to the effect that such conditions were being brought under control after experiments looking to the harnessing of the smoke and flyash.

But, the condition complained of is not confined to the areas affected by the Potomac Edison Company operation. It can be found in every section of the city, and during the past month or so smoke and soot from railroad locomotives has become as prevalent as before smoke control was first advocated and since railroad officials claimed the dirt and grime had been reduced.

It might have been true that over a specified period there had been some improvement claimed by some city officials and those of the railroads responsible for cutting down these smoke screens that almost obliterate the beauty of our mountain sides and rain cinders and ash down on homes. But that is not so today, and we question very much that it has been so at any other time.

We contend, and the people of the city will support the contention, that these conditions have become unbearable, and there is no valid reason why this city should be subjected to such an unhealthy nuisance any longer than it takes to bring a halt to it all.

It is to be hoped the Mayor and City Council will be successful in securing a capable engineer, after the local situation is surveyed, to take over the operation of the anti-smoke control ordinance, and that it will be enforced to the fullest degree possible.

There Must Be A Way

According to the Department of Agriculture, a shortage of potatoes is in prospect this year.

Departmental experts estimate that the country will produce 351,000,000 bushels this year. This would be 25,000,000 bushels short of the nation's annual needs and 125,000,000 less than last year's production. They explained that the dwindling supply this year was caused by the cool, wet spring planting season.

There is irony in this situation because last year the government, in line with its policy of supporting grower prices, bought up nearly 100,000,000 bushels and promptly proceeded to dump much of these.

All of which must be rather puzzling to simple souls who are naive enough to believe that somewhere in a country endowed with the genius to produce the electric light, the automobile, the atomic bomb and the bent hairpin, there can be found the brains to devise a system for saving its surplus foods to insure against lean years.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

OUTMANEUVERING SHARKS

SHARK yarns are a dime a dozen and many are exaggerated. But there are many authentic reports of individuals who were bitten or chased by these creatures that the danger cannot be minimized. During hostilities, when sea survival was a problem, the hazard had a great effect on the morale of our men.

Sailors have been attacked and human tissues are recovered occasionally from captured sharks. On the other hand, some persons have mistaken porpoises or rays for the man eaters. Porpoises are harmless and the ray is safe unless stepped upon. Sharks rarely bite unless hungry but their curiosity makes them prone to investigate any large, floating body. They may swim close to a boat or even nudge its sides but this does not constitute an attack, even tho it makes a good story.

Sight and smell are used by sharks to locate food. Their favorite edibles are fish, squids, crabs and shellfish. Shallow waters are preferred for dining and consequently, when seen near the shore, they are likely to be hungry. Their powerful jaws contain many rows of teeth and after nipping the victim, the monster rolls over on his side. This produces a cresent shaped, crushed, or lacerated wound. The sufferer will bleed profusely and often goes into shock.

During the war, considerable research was carried out in an attempt to perfect a repellent which could be applied to the skin or clothing of man. The idea was to produce a substance that the fish would find distasteful causing it to swim away. One "shark chaser" seemed to meet the requirements and is now available. It is prepared in a cake, like soap and can be swished back and forth in the water; on spreading, the chemical literally envelops the individual in ap rotective area thru which the fish has no desire to penetrate.

The product has not been used by enough persons to determine whether it is successful. But in experimental work it proved effective. Two tubs of bait were prepared; one was sprinkled with the deterrent and the other was not. The containers were taken out into infested waters. Some of the plain food was shoveled out and the sharks ate with relish. When the other batch was offered, they left immediately and would not go within 20 yards of the bait. The results were conclusive.

The average bather might not have time to remove this material from his belt if he saw a shark coming. But it might be helpful for men working in infested waters or awaiting rescue at sea. Since the formula produces an inky, cloudy area, those who are floating about must watch it carefully and stay within its boundaries.

There are many other defense measures which are valuable in such an emergncy. By keeping a sharp lookout, the presence of sharks can often be detected. They are attracted by light, white cloth, frenzied or irregular movements, fresh and dead fish, offal, and blood. By avoiding such factors, the chances of encountering the monsters will be lessened. Dangling of hands or feet while fishing from a raft or boat is also contraindicated. Fighting or dodging a shark is better than swimming frantically toward shore, especially if the distance is great.

CHILD IS SLOW

Mrs. R. writes: The doctor says my 21 months old baby is mentally retarded. Is there any way in which she can be helped?

REPLY

This depends upon the cause as there are many disturbances capable of causing this defect. A pediatrician should be consulted.

NO, INDEED

V. J. writes: Are all neurological disturbances inherited?

REPLY

No—the majority arep robably acquired.

OF NO VALUE

G. W. writes: Has streptomycin been tried in cancer?

I do not recall reading that it has. Streptomycin is effective against certain species of germs and since cancer is not due to bacterial invasion, it would be a useless weapon in malignancies.

DISTRESS IN BABY

Mrs. D. writes: What causes great discomfort in a young infant during a bowel movement?

REPLY

The most common cause is fissure, a crack in the membrane in the area of the bowel exit.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Movies have had a terrific influence on the public, but a new high was hit in Crescent City, Calif., when an inmate of the county jail got another inmate to play the violin. Under cover of the fiddle background he sawed one cell bar all the way through and was halfway through another before the sheriff discovered it. I guess the boys had hobbies. One liked to fiddle while the other whittled.

It was a very interesting attempt at jail breaking. When one started sawing the other played "Time on my Hands."

As he cut through the first bar he played "You take the high road." Of course, when the sheriff came he changed his tune. Too bad his plan didn't work. He wanted a loud Spike Jones arrangement to cover his getaway, but unfortunately the phonograph machine didn't fit in the cake. He would've made it too, but the two guys in the next cell who played the trumpet had been paroled the day before.

He's now back in solitary singing "Pack Up Your Troubles in an Old Burglar Kit and File, File, File."

ANOTHER CASE FOR THE HUMANE SOCIETY

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, July 29—Those who have watched the inside of Washington's lobbying racket must agree that Senator Brewster of Maine has performed a useful service in bringing out the bizarre night-club parties, the Hollywood lovelies and other allurements used by airplane manufacturer Howard Hughes to cozy up to government officials. However, the big question is: Will Brewster's probe go far enough?

Repeatedly in recent years this column has called attention to this type of lobby. It has waxed flagrant and uninvestigated. Sometimes it operated through wine, women and song; sometimes through close personal friendships; sometimes through family connections.

Almost every big war contractor kept a luxurious apartment in Washington during the war, staffed with servants and plenty of liquor for the entertainment of Army officers and War Production Board officials. Most of the time these apartments were empty, thereby contributing to the capital's housing problem. Most of the time also the servants were idle—which made Washington housewives, unable to get servants, furious.

There was, among other things, the yacht kept by a well-known perfume importer down the Potomac, on which John Maragon, ex-Kansas city bootblack and close friend of the President, entertained.

There was the swank house on S Street, sometimes called the Street Of the Presidents—where the power lobby threw ornate parties.

There was also the very charming and personable Burdette Wright of Curtiss-Wright airplane fame, who was extremely close to Army officers and who signed many lucrative contracts before the war—later charged by Major De Seversky as setting back the Air Corps for months.

There was also the close tie between General Hap Arnold, head of the Air Corps and Donald Douglas, head of Douglas Aircraft, brought about through the marriage of their son and daughter.

Unique among the lobbying was that of the aviation corporation of America, performed by that astute and charming ex-White House jester, George Allen.

But most successful of all—far more successful than the obtuse lobbying of Howard Hughes—was that of Pan American Airways. If Senator Brewster went into all these lobbying setups, especially the amazing ramifications of Pan American Airways, he would be doing a great service to the country.

Note—Brewster is known as the best friend Pan American Airways has in the Senate, so the chances are 100 to 1 that he won't.

No Flood Control

Congress adjourned without doing anything constructive about one of the most vital needs of the nation—flood control. How vital it is was illustrated in a conversation between President Truman and Rep. Al Elliott, a conservative Democrat of Tulare, Calif., who do not agree on many things, but do see eye-to-eye on flood control.

"There are four rivers, Mr. President, coming into a large area in my district and the district of Bud Gearhart," explained the California congressman, "the Kern, the King, the Tule and the Kaweah—and they have absolutely no outlet."

"I thought I learned a lot about flood control and the rivers of this country while I was in the Senate," the President interrupted, "but I never knew about those rivers."

Elliott then explained that in wet seasons those rivers can flood as much as half a million acres of rich farmland—and that huge areas can be inundated by serious flash floods.

"Sometimes large parts of that Plain have been under water for as much as two years—and I've seen grain crops worth as much as $30,000,000 just wiped out in a few hours shortly before they were to be harvested," Elliott continued. "That land is so flat, Mr. President, that I've seen as much as 640 acres completely covered with water — and yet the water would not be over an inch and a half deep at any one point."

Dams have been authorized on the Kern and King rivers, although little money has been appropriated. Elliott wants funds not only for them but for the Tule and Kaweah rivers.

"With all the current trouble about a shortage of oil, it seems to me almost criminal not to protect the rich oilfields near Bakersfield," Elliott said. "They're in constant danger from floods—and in the past some of the highest grade oil to be found anywhere has been lost because of the Kern river. I don't like to think of another war—but if it should come, we'd certainly not like to take any chance on having production from that field slowed down."

The President heartily agreed.

"I hope to be able to use this office," he said, "to spread flood-control protection throughout the United States generally."

Vermont GOP Marble For Truman

Among recent gifts received by President Truman were two sets of marble bookends. They were presented, appropriately enough, by a rock-ribbed Republican, Rep. Charles A. Plumley of Vermont.

Plumley, a former schoolteacher and one of the leading wits of Congress, took great delight in pointing out the "political characteristics" of the bookends. One set, he said, was carved from Missouri marble and the other from Vermont "Danby Imperial" marble.

"To any political student, the difference is obvious," said Plumley. "You will note that the Missouri bookends are a mixed gray, Democratic color, while the Vermont set has a pure white, or Republican, hue.

"Incidentally, you Democrats chose this Vermont Republican marble for the Jefferson Memorial here in Washington. So when you look at these bookends, Mr. President, first at the Vermont Republican and then at the Missouri ones, you can readily see that they exemplify the difference between Jefferson democracy and the New Deal."

Truman laughingly agreed that there was room in his library for both.

Congress Gives Clear Picture Of Free Government In Action

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 29 — This correspondent has observed through a period of 37 years the regular and special sessions of the national legislature.

In all the years that have passed since the Democratic Congress of 1910 put up to the Republican president, William Howard Taft, bill after bill for expected veto, it has been possible after each session to pick flaws and to point to mistakes or to things left undone or to petty politics played or large responsibilities evaded.

But it has been possible also to experience a thrill of pride and satisfaction that the people's representatives do conduct the public business with a minimum of passion and a maximum of reason, and that so much agreement is achieved on so many complex matters of diversified interest and appeal.

The writer feels after every Congress that it is nothing less than a miracle of human behavior when 531 men and women, possessed of strong minds and individual viewpoints and representing large constituencies, should actually join in the relatively smooth operation of a legislative body.

Astonishing Achievements

When it is considered that parliamentary rules and complex methods of procedure permit delays and obstruction and that committees can squelch legislative proposals or that unlimited debate can defeat what committees cannot bury, it is remarkable that as much legislation is passed as gets on the statute books after each congress.

More amazing than anything else is the scrutiny which the committees give to legislative proposals. There are exceptions, of course, but by and large the committee work goes unheralded and unsung. The dry-as-dust subject matter, the long hours of study, the patient listening to those who advocate or those who protest, the operation of lobbies and the unremitting pressure of government bureaus — all this emphasizes that the members of the congress of the United States do listen to reason and do respect the wishes of the people who appear before them in more pieces of legislation than one would expect to see moving through the complicated machinery of Congress.

Irrespective of party, the members do a constructive job in committee and on the floor, popular impression sometimes to the contrary notwithstanding. For the press reports mostly the sensations, the cleavages, the little outbursts of temper and passion. Due to lack of space, the press does not print the texts of all the laws passed nor even record in small part the work that has been done to secure their enactment. There is difficulty in viewing the work in perspective.

Congress viewed as a whole is a great institution. It is the people's legislature. Since every one of its members must go before the people periodically, the Congress, sometimes by its caution and hesitation and sometimes by its haste, reflects the changing moods of the people and their broad desires on public questions.

Not many countries can point to a legislative body which does as much work as does the Congress of the United States — uncoerced and unaffected by the power of an oligarchy and subject at all times to the searchlight of two freedoms —the written and spoken word.

Sometimes Congress seems large and unwieldy. Sometimes it manifests an exasperating delay on measures one wants to see passed promptly. But long experience has proved that sometimes to defer action is to insure subsequent passage, whereas insistence on action sometimes spells rejection with little chance of revival.

Comments Will Be Many

The comments on Congress will be many. Some will be characterized by the smart-aleck approach which will find plenty of flaws and will seek to disparage our institutions. Some will present the rival claims of the respective parties as to what has been accomplished. But there ought to be and hence there is recorded today a call for applause for both parties and the congressional system that our forefathers proclaimed. It has its defects but they are, relatively speaking, minor. For here the minority has rights not trampled upon or treated with violence. Here the action of the majority is not the tyranny of physical force. Here alone is the majesty of free government with the privilege of making mistakes, correcting them and moving on session after session to show the whole world that lawmaking which affects every kind of selfish interest can be accomplished nevertheless through reason and discipline. Only self-governing nations can glory in the cumbersome efficiency of a representative legislature.

Baltimore Election Reviewed; Murray's Challenge Not Yet Met

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

The first congressional election since the passage of the "slave labor" bill took place in Baltimore, Maryland, on July 15th. The C.I.O. endorsed candidate won. But the election figures show that the rank-and-file wage earner and his wife are not as hot and bothered over The Taft-Hartley Bill as are the labor bosses.

This was a test case. The incumbent Congressman, Thomas D'Alesandro, Democrat, had resigned to become Mayor of Baltimore. So a special election became necessary. There were three candidates on the ballot—Edward Carmatz, a Democrat, S. P. Jarosinski, a Republican, and an Independent. Mr. Garmatz holds a card in the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, A. F. of L. So it may be presumed that the A. F. of L. as well as the C.I.O. did all toey could for Mr. Garmatz.

The C.I.O. certainly went all out. Mr. Philip Murray in a front page editorial in the CIO NEWS urged the election of Garmatz in the strongest terms. In fact, he made his support a direct challenge of section 304 of The Taft-Hartley Bill forbidding union funds to be spent in political campaigns. (This provision is similar to that which has been federal law for many years forbidding corporations to spend funds to elect or defeat candidates.) Murray contends that section 304 violates the freedom of the press article of the Constitution.

Murray Invited Indictment

By officially endorsing Mr. Garmatz, Mr. Murray invited the indictment and arrest of himself and other officials of the C.I.O. in order to make a court test of section 304. He was clearly within his rights in doing so as long as he is willing to take the risk of conviction if the courts hold the section constitutional.

Mr. Murray said:

"Under the procedures of our courts it is possible to strike down unconstitutional laws only by taking affirmative action in reliance on and in the exercise of the liberties guaranteed by the Constitution.

"This I have decided to do . . . "I therefore have directed and requested the editor of the CIO NEWS to publish this statement . . . and to give to this issue of the CIO NEWS proper circulation among the members of CIO unions in the City of Baltimore and particularly, within the Congressional District in which this election is scheduled to take place . . .

"I . . . urge all members of CIO residing and voting in this Congressional District . . . to . . . cast their votes for Judge Garmatz, and make every effort to bring to their neighbors and friends and to all persons eligible to vote in this election a full understanding of the issues involved and of the importance of voting for Judge Garmatz . . .

"It is my understanding that the issue as to whether proper respect will be paid to the fundamental guarantees and principles of our Constitution must now rest in the hands of the law enforcement agencies of the federal government."

How It Panned Out

So there was the issue. How did it pan out? Mr. Garmatz got 12,600 votes out of 23,000, and was elected. But this can be appraised only by comparing this "test case" vote with that in other recent elections. In 1942, Mr. D'Alesandro, the Democratic candidate, got 73.1% of the total vote in that same 3rd Maryland District. In 1944, he got 73.4%, in 1946, he got 64%; but in 1947, in this test case, Mr. Garmatz got only 52%; In short, he got the smallest per cent of votes in the last four elections in this heavy Democratic and labor district.

So we see again an old and time-tried truth—that the power of labor leaders to deliver the vote of the American working man and his wife is sadly over-esimated.

President Truman has promised, in good faith, to carry out the provisions of The Taft-Hartley Bill.

It will now be interesting to learn whether the "law enforcement agencies of the federal government" will accept Mr. Murray's polite invitation to indict him.

THESE DAYS

Congress Adjourns

The surprising fact about the 80th Congress, which has now adjourned, is its actual accomplishment. The American system differs from the British in that political control need not be unified; that is, the President may be one political party while the majority in either house of Congress or both may be of differing parties. When that happens, Congressional achievement is difficult.

In this instance, President Truman is a Democrat; the Republicans had a capable working majority in the House of Representatives but only an organizing majority in the Senate. By an "organizing majority" is meant one which made it possible for the Republicans to select the officers of the Senate and the Chairmen and majorities of Committees, but beyond that they were in an uncertain position. At first it appeared that the Republicans would have a working majority of three in the Senate; then that seemed to disappear with Senators Morse, Aiken, Tobey, Ives, Cooper, Langer and Lodge funtioning completely on their own.

Toward the end of the session, only Morse and Langer were wholly without party consciousness. Both were discounted in all calculations. Wayne Morse proved himself to be not a Republican but a New Dealer, as fixed in the ways of socialistic confusion as Claude Pepper; William Langer was marched off as a maverick. Huss, Senator Taft, the leader of his party in the Senate, had to carry through his party's program with so narrow a margin that on his major measure he had to coalesce with like-minded Democrats.

In these circumstances, it is little short of remarkable that any legislation at all went through all stages to actual law. The most important achievement was the Taft-Hartley Bill, passed over the President's veto. The measure, regulating the power of labor unions and setting up a code of industrial relations, created somewhat of a furore but not as much as was anticipated. The Taft-Hartley Bill will undoubtedly be one of the principal issues in the 1948 campaign and whoever runs for President will have to stand or fall by it.

Some assume that a non-Congressional candidate, such as Dewey, Stassen, Eisenshower or MacArthur, might, in the campaign, evade the political liabilities of this Act, but that is a misreading of American politics. Truman will run on his veto; the Republican will have to run on his party's sponsorship of the Taft-Hartley Bill and there can and will be no dodging. Any Republican candidate will have to defend Robert A. Taft's leadership or suffer defeat by admitting that Truman's leadership has been more correct. Taft will be an issue.

This also applies to the tax bills. Twice passed, twice vetoed, twice lost in the Senate by a narrow margin in the effort for passage over the President's veto, these Bills will be majoor issues in the next election. It is impossible to evade these issues. The Republicans, in coalition with Democrats, offered the people a substantial reduction. The New Dealers, led by Henry Wallace, won the President to opposition to tax reduction. The slogan in 1948 will be: "$20,000,000,000 for Europe; not a nickle off for Americans!" It will be a potent argument. No Republican candidate can resist it.

In a word, these two measures will form the platform of both parties in 1948. Another matter that will develop out of Congressional action into a campaign issue is the Bi-Partisan Foreign Policy for which Senator Vandenberg stands sponsor. The author of that policy is John Foster Dulles, Governor Dewey's adviser on foreign affairs. Up to the veto of the tax bill, that policy justified itself. It now requires revaluation in terms of foreign commitments and domestic needs. A large, if not major, element in the Republican Party is now opposed to the Bi-Partisan Policy and it is doubtful if President Truman can hold the entire Democratic Party in line for it. Certainly the Wallace-Pepper element oppose it already.

Thus, for the first time since 1944, the foreign affairs of the United States become a campaign issue. This definitely imperils the Marshall Plan, which, not having been adopted by Congress, through appropriations, at its recent session, will come before it in stormy weather at the next session.

Today's Talk

Simplicity

It is interesting to note how simplicity grows upon one—especially upon those who have known simplicity in early life, only to desert it, and later return to it. Such people learn the futility of holding on to too much.

Beauty is in simple lines, planes, and masses. Nature is not ornate, but simple. The finest furniture is designed on simple lines. So are women's gowns. It's the fabric that counts, and this gives its finest show when most simply displayed.

Men whose origin has been simple, no matter how great their later wealth, usually stick to their early habits of simplicity. They see how insincere is gross and vulgar display. Great leaders are usually men of simple taste and simple wants. Essential equipment alone is what carries men or women to their objectives.

The simpler a beautiful woman is gowned the more does her beauty stand forth. She needs no extra jewels or costly ornaments. The very finest ornament for a beautiful woman should be a warm and gracious heart. Such an ornament radiates and is remembered.

The greatest books are written in the simplest manner, with short words, and simplicity of style. Notable are the works of Shakespeare and the Bible. The greatest of writers have drawn inspiration and lessons from these two.

Vulgar display of wealth is always bad taste. There are those, however, who have great wealth who never make you feel conscious of the fact. They are deserving of that wealth. They are worthy to tie to, no matter what their station, or fortune. Character is worth, and it may be found among the humblest as well as among the exalted of this earth.

Simple taste and simple wants lead to the greatest of happiness. There are so many laws in the statute-books, that not one person in a million could possibly know them all. But if he can just keep in mind one rule that was suggested something like nearly 2,000 years ago by a simple man "who went about doing good," that is all that would be necessary to keep him a good citizen, no matter in what part of the world he might be—and that is what we all know as The Golden Rule—to do unto others as we would want them to do unto us!

If the United Nations would adopt this simple rule—and stick to it, all quarrels would be over—and all wars, as well! But I guess that would be too simple!

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

A lot of Andy Hardys around this country keep getting me mixed up with Lewis Stone, and write in for advice. Especially about show business. Most of them want to get behind footlights and make faces for the cash customers. Quite a few are interested in producing, designing, press agenting and theatre operation.

Billy Rose

This piece is for would-be theatre operators.

I think I know where there are some pretty pennies lying around, waiting to be picked up.

They are in the movie business. And you don't have to be Mr. Rockefeller's favorite nephew to go into this business. The ex-GI who is looking for an angle, and has access to a loan, might well give this notion some think-time.

Here it is: Pick out a live burg with a population of 50,000 or better, and open a small movie theatre which will play the arty films that are too grown-up for the popular picture palaces.

The ingredients required are a bit of cash, a pinch of showmanship, a cupful of brains, and a liberal sprinkling of good taste. Outside of dancing in doorways for pennies, almost nothing else in the entertainment business can be operated on so modest a weekly budget.

I'm not sure of my statistics, but there must be several million people in this country who can read without moving their lips. These people join book clubs, subscribe to concerts and can count up to 20 without taking their shoes off. There are some of them in every town. It's my hunch they will support a picture house where the fare is above the level of the comic book and the confession magazine.

There are hundreds of playhouses and small auditoriums in this country which are lit only when the road company of "Tobacco Road" or "State of the Union" comes through. Get yourself a lease, a few gallons of DDT, some projection equipment and you're in business.

The great majority of your customers will be people of average I. Q. and income who are weary of Hollywood's stupor-colossals. And then there are the snobs. America has always bought snobbery if it's packaged prettily. "It's small, but exclusive," the snob tells himself. "I find it attractive, but of course it's not for everybody." His money is good too.

The conservatively decorated house is part of the package. A lot of people are intrigued by little touches like coffee and ladyfingers in the lounge, an exhibit of borrowed oil paintings, and a ticket taker who pronounces his a's high up in the right nostril. OK, let them have them.

Where are you going to get pictures? There are plenty around, begging for a showcase—great pictures that most of America never gets to see—pictures like "Henry V," "The Baker's Wife," "The Well-Digger's Daughter." Most of your product will be British, but there will be some French, Italian, Russian, even Swedish. The big popcorn machine in Hollywood has produced few pictures that a smart audience will rate with "Great Expectations," "Brief Encounter," "This Happy Breed," "Green for Danger," and the soon-to-be-released "Black Narcissus"—all from Blighty. The Italian "Open City" is still running in New York after nearly a year and a half. A group of refugees in Switzerland recently turned out one of the great war pictures, "The Last Chance." Sweden's "Torment" rated four stars, and even Republicans took their kids to see Russia's "Stone Flower."

In addition, there's always an audience for revivals of our own adult movies, "The Informer," "The Ox Bow Incident," "These Three," and so on far into the files.

As far as marquee strength goes, the movie mogul in your own town will grind his teeth when your electrics feature names like Laurence Olivier, Vivien Leigh, James Mason, Deborah Kerr, Robert Donat, Maurice Chevalier and Charles Boyer.

Exploitation? Here's where the showmanship comes in. To get a bustle on every bench, you'll have to write literate ads. You'll have to sell yourself to the folks in your town who buy novels at $2.00 a copy, to the women's clubs, the civic groups, the church organizations, and certainly the faculty and students of any high school or college that happens to be handy. The audience is there, but, as any ward heeler will tell you, it takes a certain amount of work to get the vote out.

The fellow who operates such a movie house may not be pestered by yacht salesmen, but I don't think he'll have to hide from the finance company. Besides making a living, he'll be doing something nice for his town.

He'll also get to see a lot of good movies.

With the hope of getting the older boys interested in playground activities a meeting of fathers and sons will take place tonight at 7, at which time the boys will be asked to submit ideas for making the playground more usable for their particular age group. Mrs. Roeder volunteered to investigate the possibility of having a section of the playground black topped for badminton, shuffle-board, folk-dancing and numerous other activities.

Members present at the meeting agreed "to work as closely as possible in cooperation with the city playground system and with Mrs. Ralph Stein, supervisor. However, it was agreed that if, after registering complaints, no action is taken, the group will act through it's representative, Mrs. Carrie Often, at city council meetings."

At the close of the meeting the association presented a new baseball and glove to the boys of the playground, and H. D. Kington presented a leather-bound scrapbook to the group in which to record its activities.

Franklin School Is Condemned

By MYRTLE K. PARK

PETERSBURG, W. Va., July 29.—After being inspected by construction company engineers and a committee of citizens and school officials, the Franklin Graded School building has been condemned for further use.

Superintendent of Schools I. L. Bennett conferred in Charleston recently with state officials regarding the possibility of erecting a new school. Meanwhile the school board is seeking temporary quarters for the children during the coming term.

The condemned building was built in 1912 but in recent years the floors have begun to sag, the walls are in danger of collapsing and other structural defects have appeared.

Flood Hits Sugar Grove

A flash flood wreaked havoc at Sugar Grove near Brandywine Thursday night as the result of a short but heavy rainfall which fell around 6 p. m.

The water, most of which fell in the hollow above the village, tore out nine bridges in the section, about nine culverts, washed away chicken houses and pig pens, peeled the asphalt from the paved roadway in sheets and left demolished buildings in its wake.

Residents claim the downfall was the heaviest in their memory. In a matter of an hour, the raging waters, roaring unchecked down the narrow hollow changed the course of the stream in various places, ruined sugar and feed for C. W. Rader, washed tons of fertile topsoil from gardens and fields along the road and left nothing but rocks and desolation. Three hundred and fifty chickens were lost. A potato patch owned by Dr. Homan won't have to be dug because the potatoes laid on top of the ground after the waters subsided. The water tore off one corner of a large barn of William Mitchell. The water ran into Roy Bower's store. An auto parked on the road was moved 20 or 30 feet. State road workers are repairing the road and bridges.

Rader, washed tons of fertile topsoil from gardens and fields along the road and left nothing but rocks and desolation. Three hundred and fifty chickens were lost. A potato patch owned by Dr. Homan won't have to be dug because the potatoes laid on top of the ground after the waters subsided. The water tore off one corner of a large barn of William Mitchell. The water ran into Roy Bower's store. An auto parked on the road was moved 20 or 30 feet. State road workers are repairing the road and bridges.

THE COMFORT OF SELF-DELUSION

★ The best advice is often more than we can bear. It takes courage to face the impact of truth, and firm resolution to form new habits to fit the facts:

Your doctor is sometimes confronted with the stern necessity of advising restrictions in your usual routine. Your favorite dessert or that comforting cigar may be denied you. There is a strong temptation to treat such advice lightly, to feel you know your needs better than your doctor.

Such self-delusion may be comforting, but it defeats the very ends you seek. Carefully follow your doctor's advice.

Your prescriptions have prompt, expert attention at our store.

Separate Peace With Japan Is Favorable To American Public

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP

Director, American Institute Of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., July 29 — Should the United States go ahead without Russia and draw up a separate peace with Japan?

Public opinion in the United States was ready to endorse such a move even before the Russians refused last week to join the proposed 11-nation Japanese peace conference.

Early in July the Institute questioned American voters on the issue as follows:

"Some people say that if Russia and the United States cannot agree on peace terms for Germany and Japan, the United States should go ahead without Russia and make a separate peace with these two countries. Do you approve or disapprove of this idea?"

The vote:

Yes	56%
No	25
No opinion	19

In the case of Germany a separate peace would be difficult if not impossible to draw up, since Germany is divided into occupation zones. But such difficulties are not present in the case of Japan.

The poll results mark what may be the beginning of a new trend of public thinking in this country regarding Russia.

Heretofore most Americans although irritated by Russian actions have wanted to keep on trying to get Russia to co-operate. That mood is still present but apparently to a lesser extent. The majority in favor of a separate peace is substantial.

As recently as last May the public was in a mood to keep on exhausting every effort to get Russian cooperation. Three months later, after the Marshall Plan was made public, an Institute survey found a very substantial majority of American voters in favor of going ahead with the Plan even if Russia refused to take part. That poll, conducted in early July, found the following:

"If Russia will not agree to the Marshall Plan do you think the other European nations should go ahead on the plan without Russia?"

The vote among those who had heard or read about the plan was:

Yes, go ahead without Russia	82%
No	7
No opinion	11

In short, there is some evidence to show that American impatience with Russia may have reached the point where a majority want to see the nation embark on a course in foreign affairs more independent of Russia than heretofore.

The separate peace idea has wide backing from the rank and file of voters in both major political parties. Democrats favor it 2 to 1, Republicans 3 to 1, as the following table indicates.

	Yes	No	No Opinion
Democrats	54%	27%	19%
Republicans	61	21	18

The reaction according to amount of education is as follows:

	Yes	No	No Opinion
College	53%	35%	12%
High School	55	30	15
Grade or no school	58	19	23

Eight Drivers Forfeit Bonds On Motor Counts

Seven motorists forfeited bonds of $6.45 each and one man forfeited $3.45 when they failed to appear in Trial Magistrates Court yesterday for hearings on violations of state motor vehicle laws.

Carl Francis Diggs, 709 Louisiana Avenue, forfeited a $3.45 bond for failing to give the right of way on Route 220 at Nave's Crossroads.

Drivers forfeiting $6.45 were:

Albert F. Robinson, McCoole, failing to halt at a stop sign at Allegany Grove last Thursday; Grover L. Cosner, Midland, exceeding 30 miles an hour on Route 220 at the Celanese plant July 19; Robert J. Trau, Smock, Pa., speeding on Route 40 July 19; James Daniel Ricewick, Green Spring, W. Va., permitting an unauthorized person to operate a vehicle on Route 220 July 20.

Josephine Alberta Lechliter, 1018 Gay Street, driving without a license on Route 220 July 20; Robert W. Mott, Leroy, Pa., speeding on Route 220 at the Pennsylvania State Line Sunday, and Richard Ralph Brotemarkle, 509 Dilley Street, passing on a curve at Nave's Crossroads Sunday.

State Trooper George E. Coddington arrested Robinson, and Cosner was apprehended by Trooper Robert Henline. Trooper William F. Baker preferred the other charges.

Four Men Fined After Disturbance

Charges with resisting arrest during a disturbance in Community Ball Park yesterday morning, Randolph Silvious, 39 Offutt Street, was fined $10 on the charge in Police Court.

Also arrested in the case, were Hervert Silvious, a brother of Randolph; William McBride, 604 Virginia Avenue, and Joseph Thomas, 108 Second Street. They were fined $5 each on charges of loitering.

Police said they spied the men about 3 a. m. with a box of beer. Losing track of them, officers later picked up their trail and made the arrests while they were "clowning" in the ball park. Randolph Silvious reportedly took two "swings" at Officer J. L. Stewart.

A. P. Jeffries and his wife, Wilma Jefferies, 411 Columbia Street, will be given a hearing this morning on a charge of disturbing the peace at their home yesterday morning. Jefferies posted $45 bond and his wife was released under $25 bond.

If You Plan To Buy A New Car

Here are two practical suggestions:

1. It will pay you to see your automobile dealer now

He can tell you more than anybody else about deliveries, models and prices. If you list your name with the dealer he will be glad to send you descriptive literature and other useful information as it is available. And when the cars are rolling off the assembly lines, your dealer will be in a position to get your car faster, if you cooperate with him now.

2. It will pay you to finance your new car purchase through The First National Bank

The First National Bank will finance your car at the low rate of $5 per hundred per year on the amount borrowed. Here's the way this plan works:

suppose your car, including insurance, amounts to	$1200
Down payment of ⅓	400
Your loan amounts to	800
Your interest cost	40
Total amount borrowed	840
Payable in 12 monthly payments	70

The loan can be extended to a period of 15 months, if you desire. If you wish, you can include the cost of insurance in your loan. The only charge is $5 per hundred per year on the amount borrowed. We make no other charges. You can request of your dealer that your purchase be financed through this bank. You do not have to be a depositor in the First National Bank to take advantage of this plan.

If You Plan To Buy A New Car

Here are two practical suggestions:

1. It will pay you to see your automobile dealer now

He can tell you more than anybody else about deliveries, models and prices. If you list your name with the dealer he will be glad to send you descriptive literature and other useful information as it is available. And when the cars are rolling off the assembly lines, your dealer will be in a position to get your car faster, if you cooperate with him now.

2. It will pay you to finance your new car purchase through The First National Bank

The First National Bank will finance your car at the low rate of $5 per hundred per year on the amount borrowed. Here's the way this plan works:

suppose your car, including insurance, amounts to	$1200
Down payment of 1/3	400
Your loan amounts to	800
Your interest cost	40
Total amount borrowed	840
Payable in 12 monthly payments	70

The loan can be extended to a period of 15 months, if you desire. If you wish, you can include the cost of insurance in your loan. The only charge is $5 per hundred per year on the amount borrowed. We make no other charges. You can request of your dealer that your purchase be financed through this bank. You do not have to be a depositor in the First National Bank to take advantage of this plan.

Gus Lesnevich And Mauriello Tangle Tonight

25,000 To See Fight At Brooklyn Park

By SID FEDER

BROOKLYN, July 29 (AP) — Gus Lesnevich, the world light heavyweight champion, and Tami Mauriello, the Bronx beer barrel, will try to knock each other's block off tomorrow night in the name of sweet charity.

Tami Mauriello

They tangle in a ten-rounder in Ebbets Field for the Damon Runyon Memorial Cancer Fund, and Promoter Andy Niederreiter, who is staging the show along with the New York boxing writers, figures there'll be a gate of $125,000 or so, with some $30,000 going to the war on the dread disease. The two thumpers will slice 60 percent of the net gate.

About 25,000 cash customers will turn out to build up this pot, Andy estimates, making it the year's fanciest outdoor ear-scrambling in these parts, what with Joe Louis out playing golf somewhere until a contender who can attract more than his immediate family at the box office comes along.

At that, though, Joe will have a representative at ringside just in case Gus or Tami should turn out to be very warm for July and get the nod for a Louis bout off tomorrow's swatting. This is not likely, however. Tami had a chance at Joe last September and had to look real quick to see it, because he was flattened in a couple of minutes. And Gus, who is just as fast as the next fellow in realizing when he's well off, has shown no indication up to now of wanting to antogonize Joe in any way.

Gus and Tami tangled twice before, back in the days when Tami was just a little fellow—before he became especially familiar with the products of his bar and grill in the Bronx, which is not the same as a course in slimming down. And both times Gus outpointed the round man from uptown to hold onto the light heavyweight championship.

Biologist Says DDT Spray Killed Fish

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., July 29 —(AP)—DDT spray applied in an orchard above a pond where bluegill and largemouth bass had been stocked apparently killed the fish, Frank Edminster, regional biologist for the Soil Conservation Service, said today.

The pond was one of seven in Jefferson and Berkeley Counties in which tests of the effects of DDT on fish life was made. Edminster said the survey soon would be expanded to include all such ponds in the two counties.

Gordon Pearce Hopes To Saddle His Share Of Winners At Fairgo

Trainer's Family Bred Horses For Many Years

Gordon H. Pearce, whose family has been racing and breeding horses nigh on to a century, is among the trainers who hope to saddle their share of winners at the 10-day race meeting of the Cumberland Fair Association, August 19 to 30.

The first winner he ever saddled was Hell's Delight and that was at Belmont Park, N. Y.

Gordon says the best horse he ever trained was Beau Wynn. He rates Man O' War the greatest horse he ever saw in action and he regards the Laurel (Md.) track as his luckiest.

Pearce hopes to go into the breeding game after he tires of conditioning race horses.

He was born at Monkton, Md., and took to training horses in 1927. Many fine trainers hail from Monkton, including John Bosley, Jr., "Babe" Saportas, the late Mrs. John Bosley and J. H. C. Forbes. Among the great horses to be developed in that sector was the ill fated Chase Me.

Robinson Swats Two Homers For Indians

BOSTON, July 29. (AP)—Defeated 5-1 by Bob Feller and the Cleveland Indians, the Boston Red Sox today dropped 10½ games behind the American League's leading New York Yankees, who were idle.

Ed Robinson husky Indian first sacker, poled two home runs for the winners. Robinson's first round tripper of the day, his 10th of the season, bounded into the visiting team's bull pen in right center off the glove of Sam Mele, Sox right fielder who made a last minute try after a hard run.

Feller, who won his 13th, was replaced in the ninth with none out, a man on first and the count two and two on Sam Mele. Reliefer Specs Klieman got out of that predicament by forcing Mele to ground to Ken Keltner, who started a fast double play. Box:

Since that time he has won $678,510, including the recent $100,000 Gold Cup Race.

Maryland Racing Commission Revokes Licenses Of Jockeys

Groom Banned For Life, Hit Horse With Chain

BALTIMORE, July 29. (AP) — The Maryland Racing Commission today revoked the licenses of two jockeys accused of violating betting rules at the Bel Air Race Track.

Jockey Freddie Kratz was charged with making a bet on a horse other than he was riding in the race in question.

Jockey Linwood Bakhsh was charged with placing the bet for Kratz.

Kratz told the commission he did not realize the seriousness of his act and did it on the spur of the moment. He said that although his mount, a 60-1 shot, finished last, he gave the horse the best ride he could.

Commission Chairman Stuart S. Janney, Jr., said he believed Kratz and Bakhsh acted from "stupidity rather than crookedness." He said, however, in levying the revocations, that the offense was serious and could lead to "fixed" races.

They may apply for reinstatement after January 1.

The racing commission also revoked the license of a youthful owner-trainer for permitting a horse to be abused and beaten in his presence.

The owner and trainer, M. E. Gilbert, Jr., of Halethorpe, was charged with allowing a groom to strike his horse with a leather halter shank having a chain on one end.

The groom—Walter Puller of Charles Town, W. Va.—has been ruled off Maryland tracks for life.

PHILADELPHIA, July 29—(AP)—Henry (Hank) Majeski, Philadelphia Athletics' third baseman, was carried from the field on a stretcher tonight after being hit on the back of the head with a fast ball thrown by Chicago White Sox Pitcher Earl Harrist.

Majeski was batting with the bases loaded in the A's half of the fourth when he failed to duck away from a high inside pitch fast enough. Utility Infielder Gene Handley was sent into run for the stricken player. There was no immediate information as to the seriousness of the injury.

Judges will sit at the finish line to view the completion of each heat.

It will mark the first year for the running of the derby on Main street. Formerly it was held on D street in the West End of Keyser.

Preceding the derby the crowd will be entertained by a clown. A number of prizes have been offered by merchants of the town.

Greenberg Hits Slump, Asks To Be Benched

PITTSBURGH, July 29 (AP) — Manager Bill Herman of the Pittsburgh Pirates said tonight big Hank Greenberg, the club's $80,000 first baseman, had asked to be benched "for the good of the club."

"The big boy just isn't hitting," Herman explained tonight as Greenberg rode the bench for the third straight game.

The Pirate manager quoted Greenberg as telling him, "I haven't been hitting, so you might as well take me out for a while for the good of the club."

In the last 14 games Greenberg has played, he collected a puny total of five hits in 38 trips to the plate for an average of .134. His season mark is .257.

Elbie Fletcher took over at first in the Sunday doubleheader with Brooklyn and tonight's game with the Boston Braves.

Will Battle Bee Bee In Ten-Round Scrap

A small town boy whose style of fighting pleases the cash customers in the bigger cities will be seeking his 45th consecutive ring triumph when Tommy Yarosz of Monaca, Pa., battles Bee Bee Washington in a ten-round main event at Griffith Stadium in Washington, D. C., August 18.

Peter "Bunny" Buntag, manager of Yarosz, who is engaged in the building materials business here, announced yesterday that the match was completed after Billy Fox, the Philadelphia knockout artist, and Sugar Ray Robinson, declined matches with Yarosz in Pittsburgh.

Washington is a big favorite in the nation's capital where he has a large following of negro fans. He was decisioned by Yarosz in Pittsburgh last February.

Yarosz is ranked as one of the outstanding contenders for the light-heavyweight title by both the NBA and Ring magazine. Nine of the 44 straight wins to his credit were marked up while he was in the army. A brother of Teddy Yarosz, former world's middleweight champion, Tommy is a big favorite in Detroit where he won his last three matches. He whipped the hometown favorite, Jimmy Edgar, twice, and trounced Jose Basora, Puerto Rican, so decisively that doctors urged the latter to hang up the gloves and quit the ring.

Gus Lesnevich And Mauriello Tangle Tonight

By SID FEDER

BROOKLYN, July 29 (AP) — Gus Lesnevich, the world light heavyweight champion, and Tami Mauriello, the Bronx beer barrel, will try to knock each other's block off tomorrow night in the name of sweet charity.

Tami Mauriello

They tangle in a ten-rounder in Ebbets Field for the Damon Runyon Memorial Cancer Fund, and Promoter Andy Niederreiter, who is staging the show along with the New York boxing writers, figures there'll be a gate of $125,000 or so, with some $30,000 going to the war on the dread disease. The two thumpers will slice 60 percent of the net gate.

About 25,000 cash customers will turn out to build up this pot, Andy estimates, making it the year's fanciest outdoor ear-scrambling in these parts, what with Joe Louis out playing golf somewhere until a contender who can attract more than his immediate family at the box office comes along.

At that, though, Joe will have a representative at ringside just in case Gus or Tami should turn out to be very warm for July and get the nod for a Louis bout off tomorrow's swatting. This is not likely, however. Tami had a chance at Joe last September and had to look real quick to see it, because he was flattened in a couple of minutes. And Gus, who is just as fast as the next fellow in realizing when he's well off, has shown no indication up to now of wanting to antagonize Joe in any way.

Gus and Tami tangled twice before, back in the days when Tami was just a little fellow—before he became especially familiar with the products of his bar and grill in the Bronx, which is not the same as a course in slimming down. And both times Gus outpointed the round man from uptown to hold onto the light heavyweight championship.

The pond was one of seven in Jefferson and Berkeley Counties in which tests of the effects of DDT on fish life was made. Edminster said the survey soon would be expanded to include all such ponds in the two counties.

Gordon Pearce Hopes To Saddle His Share Of Winners At Fairgo

Trainer's Family Bred Horses For Many Years

Gordon H. Pearce, whose family has been racing and breeding horses nigh on to a century, is among the trainers who hope to saddle their share of winners at the 10-day race meeting of the Cumberland Fair Association, August 19 to 30.

The first winner he ever saddled was Hell's Delight and that was at Belmont Park, N. Y.

Gordon says the best horse he ever trained was Beau Wynn. He rates Man O' War the greatest horse he ever saw in action and he regards the Laurel (Md.) track as his luckiest.

Pearce hopes to go into the breeding game after he tires of conditioning race horses.

He was born at Monkton, Md., and took to training horses in 1927. Many fine trainers hail from Monkton, including John Bosley, Jr., "Babe" Saportas, the late Mrs. John Bosley and J. H. C. Forbes. Among the great horses to be developed in that sector was the ill fated Chase Me.

Robinson Swats Two Homers For Indians

BOSTON, July 29. (AP)—Defeated 5-1 by Bob Feller and the Cleveland Indians, the Boston Red Sox today dropped 10½ games behind the American League's leading New York Yankees, who were idle.

Ed Robinson husky Indian first sacker, poled two home runs for the winners. Robinson's first round tripper of the day, his 10th of the season, bounded into the visiting team's bull pen in right center off the glove of Sam Mele, Sox right fielder who made a last minute try after a hard run.

Feller, who won his 13th, was replaced in the ninth with none out, a man on first and the count two and two on Sam Mele. Reliefer Specs Klieman got out of that predicament by forcing Mele to ground to Ken Keltner, who started a fast double play. Box:

And good reason for the laugh, too, for Stymie, the champion money winner of all time, was sold as a two-year-old for a mere $1,500. Since that time he has won $678,510, including the recent $100,000 Gold Cup Race.

Hogan, Demaret Win

PITTSBURGH, July 29—(AP)—Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., and Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Cal., the international four-ball champions, defeated Lew Worsham, national open champion of Pittsburgh, and Byron Nelson of Denton, Tex., 6 and 4 in a best-ball match today before a gallery of 1,000 at the Pittsburgh Field Club.

SIGNING of Leo Nobile, 210-pound guard on the Penn State football team last fall, by the Washington Redskins of the National Professional Football league, has caused criticism by Bob Higgins, Penn State coach, who says Nobile still had a year of college eligibility remaining. Nobile is from Ambridge, Pa.

Maryland Racing Commission Revokes Licenses Of Jockeys

Groom Banned For Life, Hit Horse With Chain

BALTIMORE, July 29. (AP) — The Maryland Racing Commission today revoked the licenses of two jockeys accused of violating betting rules at the Bel Air Race Track.

Jockey Freddie Kratz was charged with making a bet on a horse other than he was riding in the race in question.

Jockey Linwood Bakhsh was charged with placing the bet for Kratz.

Kratz told the commission he did not realize the seriousness of his act and did it on the spur of the moment. He said that although his mount, a 60-1 shot, finished last, he gave the horse the best ride he could.

Commission Chairman Stuart S. Janney, Jr., said he believed Kratz and Bakhsh acted from "stupidity rather than crookedness." He said, however, in levying the revocations, that the offense was serious and could lead to "fixed" races.

They may apply for reinstatement after January 1.

The racing commission also revoked the license of a youthful owner-trainer for permitting a horse to be abused and beaten in his presence.

The owner and trainer, M. E. Gilbert, Jr., of Halethorpe, was charged with allowing a groom to strike his horse with a leather halter shank having a chain on one end.

The groom—Walter Puller of Charles Town, W. Va.—has been ruled off Maryland tracks for life.

Majeski Is Injured When Hit On Head

PHILADELPHIA, July 29—(AP)—Henry (Hank) Majeski, Philadelphia Athletics' third baseman, was carried from the field on a stretcher tonight after being hit on the back of the head with a fast ball thrown by Chicago White Sox Pitcher Earl Harrist.

Majeski was batting with the bases loaded in the A's half of the fourth when he failed to duck away from a high inside pitch fast enough. Utility Infielder Gene Handley was sent into run for the stricken player. There was no immediate information as to the seriousness of the injury.

Manager Charley Doyle of the Queen City Brewers last night announced that the Brewers' game with the Frostburg VFW Saturday at Frostburg will get under way at 3:30 p. m. instead of 2:30 as originally scheduled.

KEYSER'S SOAP BOX DERBY LISTED TODAY; TWELVE TO COMPETE

KEYSER, W. Va., July 22 — Twelve boys of McCoole, Westernport and Keyser will compete here Wednesday in the tenth annual soap box derby, with the winner gaining the right to compete in the national event at Akron, Ohio, in August.

Tomorrow's event will be held on the north side of Main Street hill and will get under way at 2 p. m. Construction of the starting ramp at the top of the hill will begin tomorrow morning and the finish line will be located directly in front of the Music Hall theater. Judges will sit at the finish line to view the completion of each heat.

It will mark the first year for the running of the derby on Main street. Formerly it was held on D street in the West End of Keyser.

Preceding the derby the crowd will be entertained by a clown. A number of prizes have been offered by merchants of the town.

Greenberg Hits Slump, Asks To Be Benched

PITTSBURGH, July 29 (AP) — Manager Bill Herman of the Pittsburgh Pirates said tonight big Hank Greenberg, the club's $80,000 first baseman, had asked to be benched "for the good of the club."

"The big boy just isn't hitting," Herman explained tonight as Greenberg rode the bench for the third straight game.

The Pirate manager quoted Greenberg as telling him, "I haven't been hitting, so you might as well take me out for a while for the good of the club."

In the last 14 games Greenberg has played, he collected a puny total of five hits in 38 trips to the plate for an average of .134. His season mark is .257.

Elbie Fletcher took over at first in the Sunday doubleheader with Brooklyn and tonight's game with the Boston Braves.

Will Battle Bee Bee In Ten-Round Scrap

A small town boy whose style of fighting pleases the cash customers in the bigger cities will be seeking his 45th consecutive ring triumph when Tommy Yarosz of Monaca, Pa., battles Bee Bee Washington in a ten-round main event at Griffith Stadium in Washington, D. C., August 18.

Peter "Bunny" Buntag, manager of Yarosz, who is engaged in the building materials business here, announced yesterday that the match was completed after Billy Fox, the Philadelphia knockout artist, and Sugar Ray Robinson, declined matches with Yarosz in Pittsburgh.

Washington is a big favorite in the nation's capital where he has a large following of negro fans. He was decisioned by Yarosz in Pittsburgh last February.

Yarosz is ranked as one of the outstanding contenders for the light-heavyweight title by both the NBA and Ring magazine. Nine of the 44 straight wins to his credit were marked up while he was in the army. A brother of Teddy Yarosz, former world's middleweight champion, Tommy is a big favorite in Detroit where he won his last three matches. He whipped the hometown favorite, Jimmy Edgar, twice, and trounced Jose Basora, Puerto Rican, so decisively that doctors urged the latter to hang up the gloves and quit the ring.

Big Leagues May Set New Record Attendance

12,601,110 See Games; Yankees Setting Pace

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, July 29—(AP)—Big league attendance figures, usually accepted as an accurate barometer of all sports prosperity, continue to surge toward a new record of some 19,000,000 customers.

With one-third of the season remaining, the National League, "running well ahead of 1946" in the words of President Ford Frick, tops the American League by a scant margin.

The unofficial turnstile count from the 16 major cities shows a grand total of 12,601,110 as compared to the record high of 18,567,465 established for a complete season in 1946.

National League totals, gleaned from daily box score figures as announced by the home clubs, reveal that 6,356,399 have paid their way into the league parks as compared to 6,244,711 in the American.

With the New York Yankees showing the way at 1,455,980 under the impetus of a pennant drive, three teams have topped the million mark. The Brooklyn Dodgers have drawn 1,074,372 and the New York Giants 1,013,756. Cleveland, Detroit and Boston in the American and Chicago, Pittsburgh, Boston and St. Louis in the National appear headed for the same select company.

If the Cleveland club continues to pull them through the gates at the same rate during the rest of the year, Bobby Feller's sliding scale contract probably will earn him more cash than any other player in the history of the game. Hank Greenberg of Pittsburgh is the only possible exception. There is good reason to believe that Hank is right up there around the $100,000 mark.

There is no mystery about the Yanks' attendance. Night ball is the answer. They packed them in last year with 14 night games and so far in 1947 they have jammed a total of 484,231 into the cavernous arena in nine night dates including one high of 74,747 May 26 when the Boston Red Sox were the attraction.

One dark spot clouds the dollar horizon. The St. Louis Browns are just over the 250,000 level. No other club has drawn less than 500,000.

Marlboro Wants Races After Improving Track

MARLBORO, Md., July 29—(AP)—John W. Farrell, secretary of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Fair Association, citing improvements at the Marlboro race track, expressed hope today that the Maryland State Racing Commission will reverse its ruling which cancelled the 10-day September meet.

Farrell, who said members of the commission advised him they will inspect the plant late this afternoon, told of grandstands and stables being painted, new sanitary systems installed, sodding of the ground, and installation of new showers and lockers in jockey quarters.

"It's as good as any track of its size," Farrell said. "The grandstands aren't big enough, but what can we do with restrictions on materials? There's no reason why we shouldn't be allowed to open our meet on September 13 as scheduled."

Nelson To Get Wagon Instead Of Golf Fee

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., July 29—(AP)—Byron Nelson, one of professional golf's stars for many years, will collect a farm wagon instead of a fee for an exhibition match he'll play at Hickory Hills Country Club here Thursday.

Nelson offered to play the match without remuneration with the club receiving all financial benefits. That gesture prompted Ted Hutchens, president of a Metal Products Company, to offer the new farm wagon to Byron, who accepted.

The golf star, who is en route to his Texas ranch after a series of midwestern exhibitions, will play with Leonard Dodson, Arlin Stone and Carl Dezern, Springfield professionals.

School fires occur at the rate of more than five a day in the United States and Canada.

Mont Will Play In Chicago Game

MBS Will Broadcast Grid Tilt August 22

CHICAGO, July 29.—Cumberland (Md.) citizens will be waiting for big things from Tommy Mont, University of Maryland back, who is scheduled to play with the College All-Stars in their 14th annual football game August 22 against the Chicago Bears.

The game will be played on Soldiers' Field and will be broadcast exclusively over the Mutual Broadcasting System and sponsored by the Wilson Sporting Goods Company.

Mont, now grown into a 6-foot, 190 pounder, was too small for football in his first two high school years but in his senior years played quarterback for Allegany High at Cumberland. Tommy entered the University of Maryland in 1940 and was the varsity quarterback in 1941-42. In the latter season he developed into one of the nation's leading passers and won the Washington Touchdown Club's award as the outstanding college player in the area.

He was with the Fort Benning army team in 1944 before going overseas where he rose to the rank of captain. In Europe, Tommy was player-coach of the third infantry team and a member of the Seventh Army All-Stars. Discharged from the Army late last summer, Mont had difficulty getting his legs in shape for the football season, but ran himself into top condition during the basketball campaign.

Tommy is 25 years old.

One dark spot clouds the dollar horizon. The St. Louis Browns are just over the 250,000 level. No other club has drawn less than 500,000.

PARADE OF THE PAST

HI YA, CHAMP!—Silk-hatted Bob Fitzsimmons, who once held the title himself, shakes hands with and congratulates Jess Willard on winning the world's heavyweight boxing championship by knocking out Jack Johnson in Havana, Cuba. One sour note to this otherwise lovely scene: Bob's statement to the press that with a few months' training he felt certain he could knockout the new champ in four rounds.

Mont Will Play In Chicago Game

MBS Will Broadcast Grid Tilt August 22

CHICAGO, July 29.—Cumberland (Md.) citizens will be waiting for big things from Tommy Mont, University of Maryland back, who is scheduled to play with the College All-Stars in their 14th annual football game August 22 against the Chicago Bears.

The game will be played on Soldiers' Field and will be broadcast exclusively over the Mutual Broadcasting System and sponsored by the Wilson Sporting Goods Company.

Mont, now grown into a 6-foot, 190 pounder, was too small for football in his first two high school years but in his senior years played quarterback for Allegany High at Cumberland. Tommy entered the University of Maryland in 1940 and was the varsity quarterback in 1941-42. In the latter season he developed into one of the nation's leading passers and won the Washington Touchdown Club's award as the outstanding college player in the area.

He was with the Fort Benning army team in 1944 before going overseas where he rose to the rank of captain. In Europe, Tommy was player-coach of the third infantry team and a member of the Seventh Army All-Stars. Discharged from the Army late last summer, Mont had difficulty getting his legs in shape for the football season, but ran himself into top condition during the basketball campaign.

Tommy is 25 years old.

Maurice Bernstein Reaches Semi-Finals In Singles Tourney

Bernstein in the next round will meet the winner of the Harold Brown vs. John Clemmer match to be played this evening.

In the lower division Milton Gerson eliminated William Harrison, 4-6, 6-4, 7-5.

Gerson now plays Lua Syckes in the other semi-final match.

Marlboro Wants Races After Improving Track

MARLBORO, Md., July 29—(AP)—John W. Farrell, secretary of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Fair Association, citing improvements at the Marlboro race track, expressed hope today that the Maryland State Racing Commission will reverse its ruling which cancelled the 10-day September meet.

Farrell, who said members of the commission advised him they will inspect the plant late this afternoon, told of grandstands and stables being painted, new sanitary systems installed, sodding of the ground, and installation of new showers and lockers in jockey quarters.

"It's as good as any track of its size," Farrell said. "The grandstands aren't big enough, but what can we do with restrictions on materials? There's no reason why we shouldn't be allowed to open our meet on September 13 as scheduled."

Nelson To Get Wagon Instead Of Golf Fee

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., July 29—(AP)—Byron Nelson, one of professional golf's stars for many years, will collect a farm wagon instead of a fee for an exhibition match he'll play at Hickory Hills Country Club here Thursday.

Nelson offered to play the match without remuneration with the club receiving all financial benefits. That gesture prompted Ted Hutchens, president of a Metal Products Company, to offer the new farm wagon to Byron, who accepted.

The golf star, who is en route to his Texas ranch after a series of midwestern exhibitions, will play with Leonard Dodson, Arlin Stone and Carl Dezern, Springfield professionals.

School fires occur at the rate of more than five a day in the United States and Canada.

Atlantic City Opens Race Meet Thursday

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 29.—Horse racing in New Jersey moves south about 100 miles Thursday from Monmouth Park to the Atlantic City Race Track at nearby Mays Landing.

Officials of the track expected the 21-day meeting at least to equal the $24,016,910 that went through mutuel machines during last summer's inaugural 24-day meet—an average of $1,000,000 a day.

Illness Prevents Trip

He had planned the trip for many years and two weeks ago started by train to visit in Idaho, Illinois, Kansas, Utah and Washington state, but before arriving in Cumberland, became so ill that he was taken to a physician there, who immediately recommended that he enter a hospital for treatment. Mr. Long entered Meyers Clinic in Philippi where he underwent a major operation on Friday, for a stomach ailment. His condition is critical.

Four year emblems were presented to eight girls and four counselors as a special award for attending Camp Horseshoe four successive years.

The theme used for the week was "Being a Good Neighbor". A chain of friendship was started by presenting each girl and counselor with a small link which was to be worn the entire week. Mrs. Viva Weekly and Miss Mildred Rowe, counselors, were given the clamps of the chain which were joined at the end of the week at their closing ceremonies.

George McTall, Davis, whose wife, Mrs. Helen Embertson McTall and nine-months-old child were wounded from a gun in his car, and Donald Jonson, also of Davis, were arrested yesterday and fined $20 and costs by Justice of the Peace O. B. Collins, Thomas, on a charge of having an uncased weapon in their possession after 8:30 p. m. in defiance of West Virginia game laws. The arrests were made and the charges filed by Fielding Kyer, state game protector, Parsons.

Mrs. McTall was wounded in the hip and the baby was struck in the leg by a bullet from the high powered rifle in the back of McTall's car. The incident occurred in the automobile while the group were enroute to Parsons. The two-year-old son of the couple accidentally set the gun off while he was playing with it.

Cantrasts Noted In European ReConstruction

The striking contrast between bomb devastated London and gay Paris is made by Aden Lewis in a letter to his mother, Mrs. Benjamin B. Lewis, 64 McCulloh Street, Frostburg.

London "has done very little in the way of construction; it is shabby and is saving everything and if it ever gets on its feet it will be a long time," he writes. Discussing the food situation, Lewis states that there is hardly any meat, except horse meat, and oatmael is served three times a day, as dessert for dinner.

The people of Paris have recovered more quickly from the war and compared to the bombed buildings of London practically untouched,: he observed. It was also striking that although the people are not as well off as those in the United States, they have enough and are quite fashionable and still "know how to have a good time." Paris lived up to its reputation as the "City of Lights" during its celebration July 14, when everything was lit up and fireworks added to the gaity, Lewis wrote.

At present Lewis and Jack E. Platt, who are vacationing on the continent after flying from here to London the first of July, are in Switzerland where the former writes polkas are continually played in the cafe under his hotel window. Not as much English is spoken there as in France and everything is more expensive. Plans to go to Italy are indefinite he writes as Italy is really "hard up."

KEEPING UP WITH

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, July 29—I don't know when I've been more intrigued than when I heard that Otto Preminger has obtained the stage rights to Pearl Buck's "Pavilion of Women" and that when he produces it on Broadway — Gertrude Lawrence will probably star.

Fredric March

If you could bet on sure-fire winners in the winter book on shows as you can on nags, my money would certainly be on this.

It is in Otto's contract with 20th Century-Fox that he can produce and direct a couple of stage plays and nothing has interested him as much as this fascinating saga of the proud Chinese woman who rules her family through intellect and charm —but who knows love only through heartbreak. Can't you just see Lawrence in this?

P. S. Let me add quickly, Otto's rights to "Pavilion of Women" does not include the screen version—but his stage effort certainly should give him the inside track.

When Veronica Lake was unhappy in her private life, and sporting that peek-a-boo hair-do in public, she was in the public prints constantly.

Now she's happily married to Andre De Toth and settled down, we don't ready nearly so much about her. But don't think she isn't doing all right.

Ronnie has just signed a new deal with Paramount calling for one movie a year and the rest of the time she can pick and choose. One of the stories she would like to choose is "Born Yesterday"—which may interest Garson Kanin inasmuch as Betty Hutton can't do it.

Chatter in Hollywood: There's been a lot of talk that Gene Tierney is getting extremely difficult and beginning to believe her own publicity.

I had heard that she refused to do "Chicken Every Sunday," but Darryl Zanuck tells me that it's been indefinitely postponed and Gene is due back next month. So far, he says, he has no story for her.

If Gene wants to take advice from me—and I don't suppose she does—she'll listen to Darryl Zanuck. He certainly built her into an important star.

I can't remember when George Brent was at MGM, if ever, so it was interesting news that he has signed a contract there. Who makes more pictures than George? Usually he does his acting for independent producers, but now he's set for "Luxury Liner" to co-star with Frances Gifford.

He has the role that was originally given to Walter Pidgeon, but Walter was taken out to co-star with Greer Garson.

I hear right from the horse's mouth (pardon my slang) that Fredric March has been set to play "Thomas Jefferson, The Patriot" at Warners. That is the role that Freddie probably doesn't want to turn down, although I understand he has turned down many offers from Hollywood. Having won the Academy Award last year, he can pick and choose.

Well, whether you like Freddie or don't like him, you have to say he could always pick and choose his roles. He is a good actor.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at Random:—Talk is that Milton Bren and Ed Lasker, who formed a partnership with Lasker's money, are not as friendly as they were at one time. 'Course may all be talk.

Bruce Cabot has just bought himself a yacht. Why, Brucie—and I never knew you were rich!

Barton MacLane and his wife have both been very ill with ptomaine poisoning.

Sir Aubrey Smith is the pride of London. Well over 80, he takes a daily horseback ride around the park with his granddaughter. He's also the pride of a lot of us in Hollywood who love him.

Helena Carter has spun around to Sid Luft.. It was bound to happen.

Andrea King and her husband have started a club among the younger married couples in Hollywood, and are calling it the Golden Wedding Club. They want to prove that Hollywood marriages do last. Well many of them do.

Paul Muni, who owns the script of the Life of Nobel, is having it adapted for the stage.

The success of Constance Collier in London is pleasing, greatly, all her Hollywood friends. She's been wined and dined by the best of them.

Dane Clark, who is now definitely separated from his wife, opens at Princeton the week of August 4 in "One Sunaday Afternoon." That's the same play Warners made with Rita Hayworth and it was called "Strawberry Blonde."

The Dan Daileys expect their baby in the next few weeks.

Mrs. John Lund, who has been very ill with a strep throat, is up and around again.

Police Here Investigate Theft At Home

Local police last night were investigating two attempted robberies along with the reported theft of personal belongings and clothing from the home of Mrs. Verna Teter, 222 Harrison Street.

Mrs. Teter told police she had been absent from her home and the theft "probably occurred last Thursday." Three suitcases, a pocketbook, umbrella and cedar chest were taken, police said.

An attempt was also made Saturday to enter the rear of J. Spera's home, 134 North Third Street, according to police, who said they were investigating an attempted robbery at Trexler's Place, Park Street. A glass window was broken, but nothing taken, according to police.

There were 5,000 fewer motor vehicle dealers in the United States in 1946 than in 1941.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

U. S. Army on the Air

The United States Army is throwing its money around in radio these days like a soap company. (The Navy, apparently, still looks on radio as a means of ship to shore communications.) Right now, the Army's dulcet invitations are being extended on spot announcements on every radio station in the country and, more importantly, on four heavy, expensive, half-hour shows, tactfully spread over the four networks. The networks have donated the time and very good time, too, since three of the shows are on Sunday. The Army pays most of the talent costs, but it picks up a good deal of talent for nothing, too. This means they are getting a huge sales program at bargain rates, but, of course, the sales resistance they encounter is a good deal stiffer than that of, say, a soup company.

Dot Lamour

The latest of the Army shows is "Front and Center," which occupies the old Fred Allen spot on N. B. C. at 8:30 p. m. Sundays, one of the best times on the air. This is a mixture of music, comedy and drama, which is possibly one too many disparate elements, and features Dorothy Lamour, who appealed strongly to G. I.'s during the war for reasons I don't intend to go into at this time. Miss Lamour does a bit of acting and naturally she sings. Opening night she sang, "It's a Good Day" and "It Had to be You" in her thin, strident, masculine voice, hammering each note like a gong.

The Army also rounded up Abbott and Costello and persuaded them, for free, to run through their "I don't like mustard" routine, which, I'm happy to report, has been extended, edited and considerably revised since I heard it at the World's Fair in 1939. Abbott and Costello, I guess, never throw anything away. Later Miss Lamour and Gene Kelly, the cinema handsome, collaborated in a small drama—sort of short story—in which Miss Lamour was reclaimed from a life of crime by the ghost of a cop. It was quite a moral little preachment, undoubtedly aimed at keeping the kids out of jail in order to save them for the Army.

Incidentally, in its advertising the Army is hammering away at high school graduates with the argument that the Army is a swell place to continue their education, and get PAID for it. "When the average boy gets out of high school, he doesn't know what to do next. It's wonderful to let the Army take over. The Armed Forces Institute is the largest school in the world." It makes the Army sound like a great big university in uniform.

"Warriors of Peace," another Army show on A. B. C. at 1 p. m., EDT Sundays, is quite a different proposition. This is an informative show, dramatizing the peace-tme activities of the Army, and much of it is absorbing. One of the recent shows, entitled, "Task Force Furnace," told the story of an Army unit located in the great American desert thirty miles north of Yuma, Ariz. Its mission was to test both men and equipment under the worst extremes of heat. In this climate the temperature rose thirty-eight degrees in eight hours, from 76 at 8 a. m., to 114 at 3 p. m. The rigors of such constant heat were dramatized with a stiffish sort of humor and the only jarring note was the extreme affability of the troops who put up with it. Unless the new Army has changed considerably from the old, the realism in this point was sharply modified in the interest of Army recruiting.

The other Sunday show is "Sound Off," a veteran on the air on C. B. S., at 6:30 p. m. EDT. This show has been reviewed here before and I see no reason for elaborating on it again. It's a musical with Mark Warnow's orchestra—the same outfit that sold Lucky Strikes for years—the Lyn Murray Chorus and a barytone, which no musical can get along without. The feature you're not likely to forget is the Sound Off chant of Arno Tanney. If he ever gets fired from that show, he ought to follow his own advice and join the Army. He'd make a wonderful drill sergeant.

Fourth of the Army shows is "Take a Break," which presents Guy Lombardo's orchestra on Mutual, 9:30 p. m., EDT Mondays. I don't know why they selected Lombardo, whose music appeals chiefly to persons over draft age. Just as a guess, I'd say the Pentagon was trying to break down the resistance of Mom and Pop after Junior has been reduced to jelly by Dorothy Lamour.

Massachusetts Handicap Will Be Broadcast Today

By JEAN MEEGAN

NEW YORK, July 29—The Massachusetts Handicap will be run and broadcast in Boston at 6 o'clock Wednesday afternoon on ABC.

Paul Whiteman, in a special tribute to Army Air Forces Day on August 1, will have a drama devoted to the exploits of the flying forces on his 8:30 ABC show Wednesday evening. As an added fillip he will introduce Frankie Loesser's newest composition, "Keep Your Eye On the Sky," dedicated to the AAF.

Preservation of peace is the underlying theme of two major talks by outstanding Americans over CBS Wednesday. At 5:15 Clark M. Eichelberger, director of the American Association for the United Nations, will talk about "The U. N. Must Be the Cornerstone of Our Foreign Policy." At 10:10 that same evening, General Carl Spaatz, commanding general of the Army Air Forces, will observe the 40th anniversary of the AAF with a talk titled "Air Power Is Peace Power."

Retired, self-made millionaire Albert A. Light, who wrote "It's No Fun to Be a Millionaire," will be the guest on "Second Mrs. Burton" at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

The first radio performance of Benjamin Britten's serenade for tenor, hor nand strings, is presented by the CBS symphony under the baton of Herbert Menges, on "Invitation to Music" at 10:30 Wednesday night.

Local Men Fined For Part In Fracas On Mechanic Street

Two local men were fined $25 and costs and given suspended sentences of six months in the House of Correction after they had been found guilty of an assault charge in Trial Magistrates' Court yesterday.

Donald Ware, 26, 111 Humbird Street, and Wallace Shifflet, 427 Virginia Avenue, who were the defendants, were sentenced by Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., after being accused of attacking two men, Edward Belfoure, 37, 12 East Second Street and Jack Grove, 938 Maryland Avenue, in an early Sunday morning fracas on North Mechanic Street.

Ware denied striking Grove and filed notice of appeal through his attorney, Harold M. Naughton. Bond was set at $500. Shifflet admitted hitting Grove but entered a plea of not guilty. He paid his fine and was released.

Testimony revealed that Wallace and his sister, Mrs. Helen Altina, 427 Virginia Avenue, appeared at a North Centre Street restaurant, where the latter's husband is employed, and asked to speak to Kay Martin, North Mechanic Street, a waitress at the place. Mrs. Altina said her husband was "running around" with Miss Martin and wanted to settle the matter.

According to Mrs. Altina, she was hindered from seeing Miss Martin and police were summoned.

About 3 a. m. Sunday, the restaurant closed and Grove, accompanied by Rose Arbella, 1013 Virginia Avenue and Miss Martin, drove the latter to her home. Belfoure followed in his car with Mrs. Altina's husband. Miss Lena DeLuca, 1000 Virginia Avenue, part owner of the restaurant, followed in her car.

Attack Reported

When Grove stopped in front of the Martin home, a car driven by Ware pulled up across the street and Mrs. Altina jumped out before the vehicle had stopped. Mrs. Altina reportedly ran across the street and attacked Miss Martin and Miss Arbella.

Grove told Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., he started to get out of his machine to investigate and was struck on the head with a club wielded by Shifflet. He said Ware hit him while he had Shifflet on the ground.

Belfoure claimed Shifflet hit him on the head with a wooden stick, about the size of a policeman's night club, as he attempted to separate the women involved in a hair pulling episode.

Ware testified he picked up Shifflet and his sister on North Centre Street and followed the other three cars at the latter's request. He denied that the incident had been planned.

Both Belfoure and Grove were treated in Allegany Hospital for scalp lacerations suffered in the altercation. Five sutures were used to close a gash on Grove's head.

Assistant State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher and City Police, who investigated, prosecuted the two men.

News Briefs

There was no change last night in the condition of Ronald Biller, 40, Route 3, Valley Road, who was seriously injured in Ridgeley, W. Va., July 13. Ridgeley authorities said the attending physician reported Biller was suffering from a fractured skull but that he was considered "out of danger."

Clerks Threaten Work Stoppage In Contract Dispute

Unless a satisfactory agreement is reached with seven retail stores of this city by next Monday, Local 654, Retail Clerks Union, AFL, will consider steps leading to a work stoppage, C. E. Stutzman, business agent, reported yesterday.

Members of the local, at a meeting Monday night, rejected a management poposal to emain open one day a week until 9 p. m. and turned down wage offers made by the stores, he added.

The clerks, the business agent said, renewed their requests for a 40 instead of a 43-hour week and are standing firm on an earlier demand for a $5 weekly increase. Clerks also are insisting on the union shop which is in effect at some stores.

Night Opening Sought

Stores had indicated acceptance of the 40-hour week providing clerks were willing to work at night one day a week.

Stores with which negotiations are being conducted are the Cumberland Cloak and Suit, Nobil's, Rosenbaums', People's Clothing, Peskin's, Darling Shop and Lerner's. Wage increase offers from $1 to $4 have been made by the stores. The union seeks a $5 weekly jump for those who receive commissions and $8 for non-commission employes.

Stutzman said that it is expected negotiations will be resumed this week.

Another meeting of the union has been called for 5 p. m. next Monday at Trades Council Hall.

Plan Uniform Date

Agreements under consideration expired June 30, July 1 and 10 or will expire August 1. A uniform August 1 date has already been agreed to, Stutzman stated.

Stutzman, who is also business agent for Local 454, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union, reported the Celanese Corporation of America on Monday made an offer for a wage increase for truck drivers. The proposal will not be disclosed until a union meeting set for 2 p. m. Sunday at Trades Council Hall.

All freight and beer drivers are scheduled to meet Sunday when they will draft contract proposals for local firms.

Model Railroad Club May Be Formed Here

All men in the Cumberland area who are interested in forming a model railroad club in HO gauge are invited to attend a meeting tomorrow at 8 p. m. at Central YMCA.

Chief Quartermaster Charles Drinkwater, local Navy recruiter, who is sponsoring the meeting, said that if enough interest is shown in forming the group, attempts will be made to secure space for a workshop and a layout of model railroads.

Jack Moore

takes to a script as a hunter takes to a gun, and is as much at home on the stage as a Texan is in a saddle.

Staging and acting in plays and pageants, serving as an M-C or after-dinner speaker, dabbling in radio and other enterprises requiring showmanship—such activities are as much a hobby with Moore as collecting lipstick is to a teen-age Romeo, and he loves his work just as well.

Originally a native of Kittanning, Pa., near Pittsburgh, Moore traveled extensively throughout Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and Michigan after graduating from Kittanning High School in 1930. He first took to the stage in a high school play—and then the years that followed took him to many communities where he continued and expanded his interest in theatrical activities.

In 1937 he came to Cumberland from Highland Park, Detroit, as a representative of the G. C. Murphy Company. In a very short while he was active in theatricals here, and in 1938 married Miss Louise Youngblood, well-known local actress.

The Moores now reside, together with their 5-year-old son, Michael, at 147 Bedford Street.

In addition to serving as M-C, Moore has arranged the actual pageant program, assisted by Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Carl F. Ballard. He is now employed by the Queen City Dairy, Inc.

Crew Man Praised

Seaman First Class Wade F. Davis, USN this city, was one of the crew members of the battleship Washington who were praised by the skipper, Comdr. Archie T. Wright, Jr., USN when the ship was placed out of commission in reserve at the Naval Supply Depot, Bayonne, N. J., recently.

Davis entered the Navy in September, 1945, and trained at Bainbridge before his assignment to sea duty. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Davis, 716 Yale Street.

Court Sets Aside Dead Man's Decree Of W. Va. Divorce

A divorce decree of a dead man was set aside yesterday in Circuit Court, so far as Maryland laws are concerned, when Mary Elizabeth Riley, the plaintiff explained that her late husband, William T. Riley, who died here on May 12, 1945, had obtained a divorce in Mineral County, West Virginia, April 21, 1936, without her knowledge.

The suit was filed in equity against her son Albert W. Riley and other defendants, in order to clarify the plaintiff's right to a widow's share of Riley's estate.

Appearing as a witness for the complainant, by deposition was Riley's sister, whose testimony showed that Riley had not established a bona fide residence in West Virginia, and that therefore under the laws of that state, the divorce was of no effect.

William T. Riley was married to Mary Elizabeth Riley in 1908. The evidence shows that two children, Albert W. and William T. Reilley, Jr., were born to the couple. It was further shown that the elder Riley had obtained a "mailing address" in West Virginia in order to make a residence necessary for divorce.

Chief Judge William A. Huster's order set aside West Virginia divorce insofar as it applies to Maryland, and to property owned in the State of Maryland by the deceased Riley. It further states that the complainant is entitled to the widow's share of the estate plus interest. The property is valued at more than $20,000. It is located on Shriver Avenue, in the form of real estate.

In further support of the illegality of the West Virginia divorce, Mrs. Riley stated that during the period of residence which Riley had established in West Virginia, Riley had known that she was residing in Baltimore and had mailed monetary allotments to the children to that address. Yet she had received no notification of the divorce, and did not know of it until after her husband's death.

Judge Huster signed a divorce decree in the case of Frances M. Nichols, Cresaptown, vs. Harry Webster Nichols, and granted her the right to resume the use of her maiden name. The couple married in Florence S. C., August 28, 1945, and separated September 15, 1945. Nichols whereabouts are unknown, testimony indicated.

DEATHS

SPICER CHILD DIES

Georgetta Leslie Spicer, seven-week-old daughter of George and Hazel Frantz Spicer, Route 3, Valley Road, died yesterday morning at her home.

Also surviving are three sisters, Brenda, Carolyn and Doris Spicer, and a brother, Dwayne Spicer, all at home; her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Ella Brant, this city, and her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Walter May, Hagerstown.

A funeral service will be held at the home Thursday at 11 a. m. and burial will be in SS. Peter and Paul Cemetery.

ANITA TRUMAN RITES

A funeral service for Miss Anita C. Truman, 18, a daughter of Everett and Mary Carvey Truman, Romney, W. Va., will be conducted Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Fort Ashby Presbyterian Church. Burial will be in Fort Ashby Cemetery.

Miss Truman, who had been ill for some time, died yesterday morning in Memorial Hospital where she was admitted Monday night.

She was employed as a waitress in the Carlton Hotel, Romney, and graduated from Romney High School in 1946.

Local Men Fined For Part In Fracas On Mechanic Street

Two local men were fined $25 and costs and given suspended sentences of six months in the House of Correction after they had been found guilty of an assault charge in Trial Magistrates' Court yesterday.

Donald Ware, 26, 111 Humbird Street, and Wallace Shifflet, 427 Virginia Avenue, who were the defendants, were sentenced by Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., after being accused of attacking two men, Edward Belfoure, 37, 12 East Second Street and Jack Grove, 938 Maryland Avenue, in an early Sunday morning fracas on North Mechanic Street.

Ware denied striking Grove and filed notice of appeal through his attorney, Harold M. Naughton. Bond was set at $500. Shifflet admitted hitting Grove but entered a plea of not guilty. He paid his fine and was released.

Testimony revealed that Wallace and his sister, Mrs. Helen Altina, 427 Virginia Avenue, appeared at a North Centre Street restaurant, where the latter's husband is employed, and asked to speak to Kay Martin, North Mechanic Street, a waitress at the place. Mrs. Altina said her husband was "running around" with Miss Martin and wanted to settle the matter.

According to Mrs. Altina, she was hindered from seeing Miss Martin and police were summoned.

About 3 a. m. Sunday, the restaurant closed and Grove, accompanied by Rose Arbella, 1013 Virginia Avenue and Miss Martin, drove the latter to her home. Belfoure followed in his car with Mrs. Altina's husband. Miss Lena DeLuca, 1000 Virginia Avenue, part owner of the restaurant, followed in her car.

Attack Reported

When Grove stopped in front of the Martin home, a car driven by Ware pulled up across the street and Mrs. Altina jumped out before the vehicle had stopped. Mrs. Altina reportedly ran across the street and attacked Miss Martin and Miss Arbella.

Grove told Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., he started to get out of his machine to investigate and was struck on the head with a club wielded by Shifflet. He said Ware hit him while he had Shifflet on the ground.

Belfoure claimed Shifflet hit him on the head with a wooden stick, about the size of a policeman's night club, as he attempted to separate the women involved in a hair pulling episode.

Ware testified he picked up Shifflet and his sister on North Centre Street and followed the other three cars at the latter's request. He denied that the incident had been planned.

Both Belfoure and Grove were treated in Allegany Hospital for scalp lacerations suffered in the altercation. Five sutures were used to close a gash on Grove's head.

Assistant State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher and City Police, who investigated, prosecuted the two men.

Clerks Threaten Work Stoppage In Contract Dispute

Unless a satisfactory agreement is reached with seven retail stores of this city by next Monday, Local 654, Retail Clerks Union, AFL, will consider steps leading to a work stoppage, C. E. Stutzman, business agent, reported yesterday.

Members of the local, at a meeting Monday night, rejected a management poposal to emain open one day a week until 9 p. m. and turned down wage offers made by the stores, he added.

The clerks, the business agent said, renewed their requests for a 40 instead of a 43-hour week and are standing firm on an earlier demand for a $5 weekly increase. Clerks also are insisting on the union shop which is in effect at some stores.

Night Opening Sought

Stores had indicated acceptance of the 40-hour week providing clerks were willing to work at night one day a week.

Stores with which negotiations are being conducted are the Cumberland Cloak and Suit, Nobil's, Rosenbaums', People's Clothing, Peskin's, Darling Shop and Lerner's. Wage increase offers from $1 to $4 have been made by the stores. The union seeks a $5 weekly jump for those who receive commissions and $8 for non-commission employes.

Stutzman said that it is expected negotiations will be resumed this week.

Another meeting of the union has been called for 5 p. m. next Monday at Trades Council Hall.

Plan Uniform Date

Agreements under consideration expired June 30, July 1 and 10 or will expire August 1. A uniform August 1 date has already been agreed to, Stutzman stated.

Stutzman, who is also business agent for Local 454, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union, reported the Celanese Corporation of America on Monday made an offer for a wage increase for truck drivers. The proposal will not be disclosed until a union meeting set for 2 p. m. Sunday at Trades Council Hall.

All freight and beer drivers are scheduled to meet Sunday when they will draft contract proposals for local firms.

Model Railroad Club May Be Formed Here

All men in the Cumberland area who are interested in forming a model railroad club in HO gauge are invited to attend a meeting tomorrow at 8 p. m. at Central YMCA.

Chief Quartermaster Charles Drinkwater, local Navy recruiter, who is sponsoring the meeting, said that if enough interest is shown in forming the group, attempts will be made to secure space for a workshop and a layout of model railroads.

takes to a script as a hunter takes to a gun, and is as much at home on the stage as a Texan is in a saddle.

Staging and acting in plays and pageants, serving as an M-C or after-dinner speaker, dabbling in radio and other enterprises requiring showmanship—such activities are as much a hobby with Moore as collecting lipstick is to a teen-age Romeo, and he loves his work just as well.

Originally a native of Kittanning, Pa., near Pittsburgh, Moore traveled extensively throughout Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and Michigan after graduating from Kittanning High School in 1930. He first took to the stage in a high school play—and then the years that followed took him to many communities where he continued and expanded his interest in theatrical activities.

In 1937 he came to Cumberland from Highland Park, Detroit, as a representative of the C. C. Murphy Company. In a very short while he was active in theatricals here, and in 1938 married Miss Louise Youngblood, well-known local actress.

The Moores now reside, together with their 5-year-old son, Michael, at 147 Bedford Street.

In addition to serving as M-C, Moore has arranged the actual pageant program, assisted by Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Carl F. Ballard. He is now employed by the Queen City Dairy, Inc.

Court Sets Aside Dead Man's Decree Of W. Va. Divorce

A divorce decree of a dead man was set aside yesterday in Circuit Court, so far as Maryland laws are concerned, when Mary Elizabeth Riley, the plaintiff explained that her late husband, William T. Riley, who died here on May 12, 1945, had obtained a divorce in Mineral County, West Virginia, April 21, 1936, without her knowledge.

The suit was filed in equity against her son Albert W. Riley and other defendants, in order to clarify the plaintiff's right to a widow's share of Riley's estate.

Appearing as a witness for the complainant, by deposition was Riley's sister, whose testimony showed that Riley had not established a bona fide residence in West Virginia, and that therefore under the laws of that state, the divorce was of no effect.

William T. Riley was married to Mary Elizabeth Riley in 1908. The evidence shows that two children, Albert W. and William T. Reilley, Jr., were born to the couple. It was further shown that the elder Riley had obtained a "mailing address" in West Virginia in order to make a residence necessary for divorce.

Chief Judge William A. Huster's order set aside West Virginia divorce insofar as it applies to Maryland, and to property owned in the State of Maryland by the deceased Riley. It further states that the complainant is entitled to the widow's share of the estate plus interest. The property is valued at more than $20,000. It is located on Shriver Avenue, in the form of real estate.

In further support of the illegality of the West Virginia divorce, Mrs. Riley stated that during the period of residence which Riley had established in West Virginia, Riley had known that she was residing in Baltimore and had mailed monetary allotments to the children to that address. Yet she had received no notification of the divorce, and did not know of it until after her husband's death.

Judge Huster signed a divorce decree in the case of Frances M. Nichols, Cresaptown, vs. Harry Webster Nichols, and granted her the right to resume the use of her maiden name. The couple married in Florence S. C., August 28, 1945, and separated September 15, 1945. Nichols whereabouts are unknown, testimony indicated.

Edwards Explains City's Position On Water Problem

Suggests LaVale Tap Mechanic St. Line

In an effort to clarify the action of the City Water Department in refusing to enter into an agreement with the LaVale Water Company to tap the standpipe on Haystack Mountain and supply the LaVale suburb with water, Commissioner of Water and Lights William J. Edwards said last night that the idea is impractical, but that the city is not refusing to sell water to LaVale. The Commissioner suggested that the LaVale Company could buy city water if it lays its own lines through the Narrows and taps the city lines at the end of Mechanic Street.

Commissioner Edwards stated, "That residents of LaVale should have an additional supply of water is acknowledged by all who are acquainted with existing conditions. We of the City Water Department are keenly interested in seeing some solution in this all important question and stand ready to give any possible assistance to relieve the situation.

"In order to clarify the item in yesterday's News of the LaVale Water Company's request that the city supply the LaVale section with water from the tank atop Haystack Mountain, it should be known that this tank was established to supply water to a limited number of subscribers who might build houses above the gravity flow, on the mountainside.

"It must be borne in mind that water does not enter the tank by gravity. It is raised by an electrically driven pump to a height of 700 feet, which is a costly operation. The existing mechanical setup is wholly inadequate to meet the demands that would be necessary to provide even a small portion of the requirements of a section as large as LaVale.

"Assuming pumping facilities were adequate, the cost of water delivered to LaVale would be far in excess of what might be termed a reasonable rate," Commissioner Edwards declared.

D. Clifford Goodfellow, secretary-treasurer of the LaVale Water Company, on July 22, filed a letter of application with the Mayor and City Council, for the purchase of water from the Haystack Mountain tank, and said the company would lay its lines to the tank, and pay a fair price for water.

Goodfellow complained that the matter had not come before the council in open session, but instead Commissioner Edwards had told him the idea was impractical.

Yesterday, Goodfellow said he is considering other plans to increase the supply of water in LaVale, and a well drilling machine is at work now in the LaVale Orchard section, digging an eight-inch well, 200 feet deep, to help augment the supply. The well is being drilled next to one of the company's reservoirs, and will do much to relieve the present situation, he said.

In addition, he declared the LaVale Company is considering other proposals, and is figuring the cost of laying a line to tap the city's lines as suggested by Commissioner Edwards. He also declared he intends to contact Frostburg town officials, in an effort to determine if Frostburg's lines can be tapped and if that community has sufficient water to supply the LaVale section.

A number of LaVale residents have filed two petitions with the Public Service Commission, and asked for an investigation of the situation, from the standpoint of residents, as well as that of the company.

Police Probe Theft At 'Bigga Da Lou's'

Theft of approximately $300 from the home of Louis "Lou" Riley, 84 East Mechanic Street, Frostburg, early yesterday morning, was still being investigated last night by Frostburg and Maryland State Police, but no arrest had been made, according to authorities.

Riley, who has been the subject of many after dinner speeches made by William A. Gunter, local attorney, reported the theft to Frostburg police yesterday morning at 6:30 a. m. when he discovered the money, which he kept in a cigar box, was missing.

Police said entrance was gained to the home through a broken window in the kitchen. They estimated that the robbery took place between 1 and 4 a. m. and added they believe the thief watched the home for several hours from a parked car alongside Riley's home.

Riley, frequently referred to as "Bigga da Lou" who lost his right arm in 1917 and his left leg in 1936, told police he was saving the money to purchase an artificial arm. He explained that he recently bought an artificial leg.

Police said the money was kept in a cigar box in a cabinet. They quoted Riley as saying the kitchen was "mussed up slightly" but nothing else was taken.

Riley told neighbors that a stranger visited his place Sunday night. Police said they are checking several clues in an effort to solve the theft.

Store Election Is Set Aug. 19 And 20

The National Labor Relations Board yesterday informed Local 886, Retail Clerks Union, AFL, and Local 322, Meat Cutters Union, AFL, that an election will be held August 19 and 20 by a NLRB field examiner to determine the bargaining agency for employes of the American Stores, Inc., of this area.

The locals petitioned jointly some time for the election with each of the locals seeking bargaining rights for employes covered by their jurisdiction and follows an organization drive by C. E. Stutzman, business agent for the Clerks union, and Mike Roth, Chicago, for the Meat Cutters Union.

Union officials said non supervisory employes of American Stores in Cumberland, Frostburg, Lonaconing and Westernport, Md.; Keyser and Piedmont, W. Va., and Salisbury, Meyersdale, Hyndman, Everett and Bedford, Pa., will be eligible to vote for or against the unions.

New Army Recruiter Added To Local Staff

Master Sgt. I. K. Dye, a native of Elkins, W. Va., has been transferred from the Army Air Force at Bolling Field, Washington, to recruiting duty with the local Army Recruiting Detachment, Capt. Laurence M. Baristow announced yesterday. Dye reported for duty yesterday.

Charles W. J. House, Cresaptown, a veteran of 20 months previous service, enlisted in the Army Air Force for three years. Raymond David Greaser, Shallmar, Md., signed for three years with the Armored Forces as a technician, fifth grade. He has one year and seven months previous duty.

A veteran of two years and seven months in the Medical Corps, Harold Allen Kitzmiller, Gormania, W. Va., re-enlisted for three years in the same branch as a corporal. Kenneth Dailey Racey, Romney, signed for two years in the Regular Army, unassigned.

Old Church Ends 78-Year History On Centre Street

One of Cumberland's oldest churches, the old St. Stephen's Lutheran Church on the corner of Union and Centre Streets, is undergoing the last phase in its 78 year history as workmen are busy razing the building.

Built originally by a group of Methodists, the corner stone of the edifice was laid on August 18, 1869, and construction was completed and the church was dedicated on September, 1872. The cost of the building was $15,000 and the property included 42 feet on Centre Street and 65 feet on Union Street.

Shortly after completion the church was bought by the Christ Reformed Episcopal Church, which kept it until April 1, 1903.

The last congregation of the church had an interesting history during its stay on Centre Street. During one of those periodic differences which occur within a church, Rev. T. J. Yost, pastor of St. Paul's English Lutheran Church, and 86 members of that parish, withdrew and established themselves under the name of the First English Church of Cumberland on March 19, 1902.

The name of the membership was exentually changed to St. Stephens Lutheran Church and after meeting at the Christ Reformed Episcopal Church, the K. of P. Hall, Maennerchor Hall, Jenvey Hall and finally back to the Christ Episcopal Church, the parish was offered the latter church.

Their first pastor, Rev. M. L. Young, Ph. D., backed a move to buy the building and the congregation secured it for $8,500. The dedication service of the new St. Stephens Church was held September 20, 1903 with Dr. Wolfe, president of the General Synod, assisted by a Rev. Mr. Pofferberger, Vandergrift, Pa., in charge.

After the sudden death of Dr. Young in 1905 of appendicitis, the pastorate had Rev. George G. M. Brown, Rev. C. F. Floto Herving, Rev. Curtis E. Kuhnert, who served for 13 years, retired in 1923, Rev. C. K. Spriggle, and Rev. E. E. Stockslager served until the congregation merged back into the parish of St. Paul's Lutheran on November 13, 1927.

In recent years the building has been used as a parish hall by that church.

In January, 1947, the building was purchased by the Chespeake and Potomac Telephone Company at an approximate cost of $55,000. The site after the church is torn down will be the location of a new $528,000 central office building for the telephone company.

Workmen employed on the job of razing the church have noted that all of the ornamental woodwork, such as railings, altar, etc., was made of solid black walnut wood.

Famed in recent years as a haven for pigeons, the crew found many nests in the loft and tower. Some had even built homes on the chandeliers and on the window ledges in the church room.

An old receipt found among old papers caused many remarks from the employes. A 1901 bill was found for $2.78 for a 19 pound ham.

Local Men Apply For Marine Reserve Here

Five young Cumberland men applied for membership in the Marine Corps Reserve here at the regular meeting last night in the Union Street Building, according to Maj. Remsen J. Cole, company commander.

They are Dalton Ervin Leese, 174 Thomas Street; Robert N. Skidmore, 509 Valley Street; Ray Carpenter Phillips, 411 Columbia Street; Frederick Ruehl, 406 North Centre Street; and Earl Eugene Iames, 443 Columbia Street.

Maj. Cole said that Pfc. Calvin Ruehl, 525 Furnace Street, a member of the company, has received orders for 15 days of active training duty at company headquarters, Union Street.

SEEKING WATER—Chester Buser, Ridgeley, W. Va., is seen here operating a well-drilling rig, owned by Frank V. Carpenter, Ridgeley, in the LaVale Orchard section, as the LaVale Water Company is sinking additional wells to augment the community's water supply. Residents in the suburban area have complained to the Public Service Commission of a water shortage, while Company officials claim they are taking steps to improve the situation which they admit is "not good." The rapid growth of the area, has taxed the company's facilites and sources of supply, they claim, beyond its ability to meet the growing demand.

Early Blight Of Tomatoes Takes Toll In County

While early blight, which attacks and destroys tomato and potato crops unless controlled, is widespread in Allegany County, there have been no reports here of late blight, according to Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent.

Early blight, McHenry explained, is a plant disease which attacks the lower leaves and is usually observed by the foliage turning yellow and dying. The disease causes considerable loss to farmers and gardeners, since the blight kills the leaves and reduces the size and number of fruits on tomato plants.

If unchecked, McHenry said, so much of the leaves is lost the fruits are subjected to sun scald and a cracking of the skins near the stem end.

Early blight can be controlled, the farm agent declared by several applications of metallic copper, either dust or spray.

Late blight in tomatoes, which appears late in the season, is equally, if not more destructive, McHenry declared, although no late blight has been reported in Allegany County.

"Our office has been kept informed," he explained, "by the University of Maryland as to the progress of late blight in the state and in neighboring areas." The reports show there has been some late blight in the Oakland section of Garrett county and the Hagerstown section of Washington county. Some has also been found in nearby West Virginia and on the Eastern Shore.

"Indications are that late blight is all around us, but there is no epidemic," McHenry said. Late blight can be controlled by the same spraying or dusting with metallic copper as in early blight, but the job should be more thorough, he explained.

If late blight strikes, it destroys the vines rapidly and causes tomatoes to rot. Many times it results in total loss of entire tomato crops. It is most likely to strike during cool, wet weather. Using the same chemicals as for early blight will control late blight if vines are kept covered as new growth appears and as rain washes off the spray residue, McHenry said.

He urges farmers and gardners to watch their tomato and potato crops carefully and to take necessary precautions.

LOCAL GAS COMPANY BEGINS SAFETY CAMPAIGN

Local employes of the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company along with other workers in the region, will begin their sixth annual "No Accident" safety campaign August 1.

In a letter addressed to each of the employes, Charles E. Bennett, company president, reminded the men and women working for the company to check all unsafe habits at home as well as on the job.

According to the local production and distribution supervisors, the month of August was selected for the special safety emphasis because a maximum number of employes are at work during this period.

During the six years of the safety program, W. H. Adams, safety director of the Pittsburgh Group of Columbia System gas companies, said fewer hours have been lost from work due to disabling injuries than at any time prior to the program's beginning.

Jack Moore Is Named Master Of Ceremonies For Beauty Pageant

Has Been Active In Pageant Work

There is a wise old saying to the effect that "a man has to like a job before he can really do it well."

On that basis, spectators at next Monday night's "Miss Maryland Pageant" will not only see Maryland's loveliest girls in a lavish display of their talents, but when Jack Moore takes the stage to conduct the show, they will also see a master of ceremonies job well done.

Byron Kight, Director, Maryland Division of the Miss America Pageant, yesterday made public Moore's selection as M-C for the all-Maryland show.

Vacationer Looses Arm In Accident

A Baltimore man, who was spending his vacation with relatives in Oldtown suffered the loss of his right arm last night when the car in which he was riding "scraped" a truck on the Oldtown Road, near Oldtown.

First Sgt. W. E. O'Hara, Maryland State Police, identified the victim as Foster L. Shipley, 39, and said he was taken to Memorial Hospital where his condition was described as "fairly good" by attaches. O'Hara said Shipley had his arm outside the window.

Sgt. O'Hara said Shipley was riding in the car of Jonah J. Hose, Oldtown, when the machine collided with a truck that was parked along the highway. The owner of the truck, Ralph Wilson, Shriver Avenue, told police the hood of his truck came loose and he stopped to fasten it.

Police said an embankment on the road prevented Wilson from pulling further off the road. No charges were preferred, Sgt. O'Hara said.

Strike May Halt Blue Ridge Bus Service Tomorrow

Bus service connecting Cumberland with Hagerstown, Baltimore, Washington and Pittsburgh will be cut off at midnight tomorrow, unless agreement is reached before then between the Blue Ridge Transportation Company and Hagerstown Local 1335, Amalgamated Street, Electric Railway, and Motor Coach Employes of America (AFL), a union spokesman said last night.

Leo Riffle, president of the local, said no agreement was reached at a negotiating meeting in Hagerstown yesterday afternoon, and said a further meeting has not yet been scheduled.

However, A. F. McDonald, in charge of Blue Ridge operations, who was contacted by the News last night at his home in Hagerstown, said he believes than an accord will be reached in time to avert the impending walkout, adding that there is a possibility of another meeting today.

The entire eastern division of the lines would be affected by the strike, which would involve 183 drivers and maintenance men. None are employed in Cumberland.

Riffle said the union is asking a 30-cent per hour boost. He added the company has offered 10 cents. Negotiations started about two weeks ago. The current annual contract expires tomorrow.

McDonald said Blue Ridge provides nine trips east and west daily out of Cumberland, adding that the average daily load is 200 passengers to and from this city.

The company also provides the sole bus connections from Hagerstown to Frederick, Md., Winchester, Va., Harrisburg, Pa., and Washington, Pa. It operates the only direct bus service from Cumberland to Pittsburgh and Hagerstown.

9-Year-Old Girl Seriously Hurt In Auto Accident

Priscilla Metty, 9-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Metty, 220 Independence Street, was reported in serious condition last night in Allegany Hospital suffering from injuries sustained when the bicycle she was riding collided with a car near her home.

Attaches said the child was unconscious when she was admitted for treatment of a puncture wound of the right arm and abrasions of the face and right and left thigh.

She was injured, attaches were told, as the bicycle she was riding ran in front of a car in the 100 block of Independence Street.

Detective Thomas J. See said the girl entered the street from an alley without a light. He identified the driver of the car as George C. Cauley, Flintstone. See said no charges would be preferred.

Memorial Hospital attaches said James Dickens, 43, 418 Maryland Avenue, was struck by a car on Oldtown Road near Mullen Street Service Station. Dickens, attaches said, was treated for lacerations over the right eye and on the left side of his head. Attaches said Raymond H. Burke, 135 Mullen Street, whom they identified as the driver, brought Dickens to the hospital.

Municipalities To Share In State Race Track Tax

Incorporated towns of Allegany county will share in state race track tax receipts received by the County Commissioners, according to Charles N. Wilkinson, president of the County Board. The commissioners have received a check for $51,994.28 from the state, and under the law, municipalities are to share in the fund.

Lewis M. Wilson, county attorney, clarified the statute at the commissioners' meeting yesterday, explaining that the distribution must be made to incorporated towns on a basis of population at time of the 1940 census. The county will retain about 30 per cent of the fund, for use in areas not incorporated, as about 30 per cent of the county's population live outside incorporated communities.

Before any dispersal of the funds can be made to the corporate towns, Wilson explained, each municipality must make a dollar-for-dollar allocation to match their share, to be applied on some municipal project.

County Superintendent of Schools Charles L. Kopp has communicated with Mr. Wilson concerning a recent ruling of the attorney general regarding allocation of tax money to the school fund. Under the attorney general's ruling, the schools are to share in money collected from the issuing of "A" and "D" licenses in the proportion that the school taxes bear in total taxes. This share is to be determined, and turned directly into school funds.

Mr. Wilson answered the superintendent by letter to determine further facts involved.

The County Commissioners approved the sale of a county-owned lot at 521 Potomac Street to John R. Trieber for $125.

Commissioners also discussed plans for selling a number of county lots on Holland Street, and the county attorney was instructed to work out an equitable plan. The lots have been appraised and surveyed, and a number of veterans have applied for the right to purchase them.

F. Patrick Allender, representing the Carpenters Local No. 1024, asked the commissioners to include a clause in county building contracts, requiring successful bidders to pay the local prevailing union wage. Allender said the clause was not included in the present contract for the new Allegany County Infirmary, for which bids have been asked.

Officers Elected For New Mapleside Playground Group

Mrs. Robert J. Bealky, one of the sponsors of the association, was named president. Other officers are Mrs. Howard Lueck, secretary; and Mrs. Francis Wallace, treasurer.

The 15 Mapleside residents attending the meeting made plans to canvass the area for donations to the playground fund, so that equipment may be secured at a later date.

Last week, through the co-operation of Commissioner Myers G. Light, a Street Department crew cleared and graded a large city-owned lot bounded by New Hampshire Avenue and Gleason Street, for use as a playing field.

Mrs. Bealky said that local lumber companies will be asked to donate materials for building sandboxes and other equipment for use during the current season.

A special meeting will be held Wednesday, August 13, at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Bealky, 41 New Hampshire Avenue, when a report on the canvass will be made and plans will be discussed for holding a bake sale August 15 at the playground to raise additional funds. In case of rain, the bake sale will be held at the home of Mrs. Lueck, 45 New Hampshire Avenue.

All interested residents of the Mapleside area are asked to attend the August 13 meeting.

Police Probe Theft

City police last night were investigating the theft of a steel cement mixing box from in front of the home of H. K. Skidmore, 538 Maryland Avenue. Detective Thomas J. See reported that a negro stopped a truck in front of the home and picked up the box, then drove away.

Trooper Arrests Driver Who 'Hid' Several Hours

Report Motorist Was Recently Convicted

A Frostburg motorist who played "hide and seek" with Maryland State and Frostburg Police for several hours yesterday while a barrage of phone calls kept reporting his "antics" was being held in County Jail last night with at least two charges against him.

Police said the driver, Lawrence Minick, Route 2, Frostburg, reportedly struck an out-of-state automobile yesterday morning, escorted the driver to a garage where he offered to pay for the damage, and then left.

Receive Phone Calls

Shortly after that, telephone calls to the State Police barracks and Frostburg Police headquarters kept reporting the driver in various sections of the county "driving in a hazardous way."

After searching for several hours, Trooper Robert Henline finally apprehended Minick on the Mt. Savage Road near Homewood Addition, at 3:30 p. m. when he parked his car along side of the road.

State Police said Minick was recently convicted on drunken and wreckless driving charges in Frostburg Trial Magistrates Court and fined $110. About a month ago, police said, Minick was convicted of leaving the scene of an accident and Monday the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles suspended his license for 30 days.

State Police reported Minick standing on the street in Frostburg yesterday morning, but declared they did not know that he had been in an accident at that time.

Minick, according to police, struck a car bearing Illinois license plates, and took the driver to a Frostburg garage, where he offered to pay for the damage on condition the police were not informed.

Police Learn Of Accident

Police said they learned of the accident about the same time telephone calls were being received at the barracks to report that "a automobile was weaving and cutting across the highway." According to police, calls were received from Big Savage Mountain, Mt. Savage, Frostburg, and several other places along the highways.

Police said Minick will be given a hearing in Frostburg Trial Magistrates Court Friday morning at 10 a. m. A state motor violation charge and charges of operating on a suspended license will be preferred.

Besides Trooper Henline, Troopers Milton Hart and G. M. Rotruck along with members of the Frostburg Police Department assisted in the search for Minick.

Davis Gives Song History Of Nation To Rotary Club

Citing numerous songs which have been popular at various periods in American history, Lewyn C. Davis, principal of Central High School, Lonaconing, and past president of the Piedmont, W. Va., Rotary Club, gave a talk at yesterday's meeting of the Cumberland Rotary Club, recounting how historically and socially significant events have been recorded in song.

Beginning with the "Bay Song Book," which appeared about 1630 in the Massachusetts Bay Colony as the first compilation of songs in America, Davis outlined highlights in the musical history of America from that time to World War II, mentioning "God Bless America" and "White Cliffs of Dover" as two typical popular songs resulting from the recent war.

He cited "Yankee Doodle" as representing the Revolutionary War period, and "The Star Spangled Banner" as a result of the War of 1812. The national anthem was written in 1814 following the bombardment of Fort McHenry by British ships in Baltimore harbor.

Davis explained that the words to "Maryland, My Maryland," were written in the Civil War period by James Randall, a Marylander who was teaching school in Louisiana. In the poem Randall urged the state to secede from the Union, after hearing that United States troops had fired on a crowd of Southern sympathizers in the streets of Baltimore. For this reason it was many years before the Maryland Legislature adopted the poem, later set to music, as the state song.

The Spanish-American War is represented by "There'll Be A Hot Time In The Old Town Tonight", and such songs as "Tipperary", "Pack Up Your Troubles" and "Keep The Home Fires Burning" were an outgrowth of World War I, Davis said.

Other popular songs have reflected economic changes, sports and new methods of transportation, Davis said, citing "Heaven Will Protect The Working Girl," "Take Me Out To The Ball Game" and "My Merry Oldsmobile" as examples in those categories.

Negro, White Man Sought In Robbery

Westernport Police last night reported that a woman identified only as "Mrs. Gynn," Backbone Mountain, near Bloomington, Garrett County, frightened a white man and negro from her home as she returned at 10:15 p. m.

Police said they had no particulars of the case at a late hour last night, but declared that Mrs. Gynn had reported the alleged breaking and entering shortly after 11 p. m. They quoted her as saying she did not know what was taken from the house.

Police said Mrs. Gynn told them that she returned to her home and apparently frightened the men while they were ransacking the house. The men fled after seeing Mrs. Gynn, according to police.

Cohen Calls New Labor Law Step Toward Socialism

Warns Business Bill Will Be "Boomerang"

Although it is expected that it will take years of litigation to clear up some of the disputed points of the recently enacted Taft-Hartley Labor Law, Harry Cohen, Baltimore, president of the Maryland, D. C., Federation of Labor, declared last night it is already clear the law is "the first step toward Socialism in America.

Cohen, in his speech before labor leaders of Allegany County, said the step "was taken by the enemies of Socialism while they were trying to escape it".

This kind of Socialism, he added, is Fascism, the form of Socialism that destroys laboring people and free enterprise. . ."the things which made America great".

Just this sort of thing was done in Germany by the Nazis, who found they had to destroy free labor before their schemes could work. A similar condition exists in Russia which, he said, has "no free labor."

The Baltimore labor leader hit the disagreement which, he said, the law has caused, pointing out the authors of the law recently failed to agree on several points. Some 200 opinions were handed down, he added, after a recent seminar labor attorneys held on the law.

Warns Against Tests

He warned small unions against becoming "guinea pigs" for testing the new laws, declaring such tests expensive and lengthy, and advised locals to leave such matters to top labor attorneys who, he said, will pick the appropriate times and conditions for test cases.

Building Trade crafts, he said, may or may not come under the provisions of the law, depending upon whether the law is interpreted in a narrow or broad manner.

Making no attempt to disguise his opposition to the law, Cohen said it is clear that government has moved into the field of labor-management relations. This will mean a steady weakening of the power of labor until it is brought under strict government control, he said.

In a warning to business interests, Cohen pointed out that the law will prove a boomerang since a government which can set the price and conditions of labor can also fix corporation and profits and salaries.

Can't Discipline Members

Pointed out for special censure was the provision in the law which Cohen said would make unions powerless to discipline members since the only way unions can now ask the discharge of a member in a union shop is for refusal to offer to pay dues.

Union leaders, he said, are indignant because labor leaders must sign an affidavit that they are not Communists while employers may work under the law without such certification.

The law, Cohen said, will force labor to forget its private preservation. We are choosing up sides for a titanic struggle in which no quarter will be asked or given. Labor, he concluded, must accept the challenge or perish.

C. E. Stutzman, president of the Allegany Trades Council, presided at the meeting held in the Southern Hotel to inform labor leaders on the provisions of the law.

Earl Rider, Hagerstown, AFL organizer, presented a point-by-point analysis of the law as given by labor attorneys.

Rider said the passage of the law is a "call to battle" for laboring people to defeat the enemies of organized labor at the polls and elect its friends.

Stitcher Is Improving

Police Officer Joseph Henry Stitcher, 24, who was badly burned with flaming gasoline here July 10, is reported in a satisfactory condition in Allegany Hospital. He is improving slowly and the burns on several portions of his body have healed nicely. Some skin grafts will be required, however, on several of the most severely burned portions of his body.

Decatur Street Paving Case Is Aired In Court

Judges Withhold Decision In Suit

Decision was deferred yesterday in Circuit Court following hearings on demurrers in the Decatur Street paving cost dispute in which the City of Cumberland is trying to enforce paving liens against property owners.

The suit was filed by the city against the property owners to enforce the liens and answers were filed by the property owners. Then the city filed demurrers and arguments were heard yesterday before Chief Justice William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson.

Charles Z. Heskett represented the city and Earl E. Manges and Julius E. Schindler represented property owners.

The Decatur Street group challenges the city's right to assess them with the costs of paving at intersections, charge them engineering costs and charge rental for city-owned equipment. They also contend there was no allowance made for the salvaged material including a large quantity of bricks from the old pavement.

Outline Protests

Manges and Schindler outlined their case, briefly along the following lines:

1. Their clients should not be held liable for paving at intersections, any more than should the property owners on intersecting streets. Such action, they contend gives the Mayor and City Council "the ability to decide, according to whim," which street should pay for intersections.

2. That equipment used on the job and owned by the city has been paid for with tax money obtained from assessments against property owners of the city, and property owners should not be charged rental fees for use of this equipment, in figuring paving costs.

3. Bricks salvaged from the street had already been paid for by property owners, and since they were salvaged and subsequently used, a credit for them at salvage value should be allowed.

4. That "engineering" costs charged in the job are not proper since the engineering department already has an appropriation of funds from tax revenue for its operation.

In a recapitulation of the case, City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett stated that Decatur Street was first paved with brick in 1903, then surfaced with black top about 1931. In 1946, the condition of the street was such that it needed a complete re-surfacing, which the city undertook itself after bids for contracts failed.

Heskett, in answering the contention of taxpayers that they were liable only for a share of costs on property fronting on the streets, and not on intersections said:

Novel Suggestion

"The suggestion is a novel one to me . . . and leads to some very unusual consequences if carried far."

He then pointed out that if this system were applied, then retaining walls fronting some properties and not others on some streets would make a great disparity in allocating tax recovery rates.

The equipment rentals assessed in the case, aggregating about $750, is the normal contractors method of operating, and includes operating costs such as drivers, and fuel needed. This cost, used exclusively for the benefit of Decatur Street residents, was not included in city overhead.

One-Third By City

Heskett said the costs of repaving the entire street including intersections had been paid for by city funds and the tax levy. The city paid one-third of the costs, all that it could under existing law. The other two-thirds was levied against Decatur Street property owners in a ratio in proportion to their frontal footage. He said he believed that method to be proper, and that intersections had to be repaved along with the remainder of the street.

Equipment rentals and engineering costs, he pointed out, were field costs on the scene of the operation, and not overhead costs for which appropriations had been made. He made no mention of the salvagable brick recovered.

The city has already granted one adjustment since the street was repaved in 1946 in addition to assuming one-third of the cost of the entire operation, plus the costs of repaving a four-foot wide sewer line. He stated that the remaining costs were no more than a minimum liable to the property owners.

Aquatic Club Will Go To Martinsburg

The 30 members of the recently organized Cumberland Aquatic Club will present a water carnival at the outdoor pool of Newton D. Baker Veterans' Hospital, Martinsburg, W. Va., on Friday evening, August 8, Ted Licot, coach of the group, announced last night.

Diana Lee Crane, president of the club, which was organized last month, received a letter recently from Norman J. Doyle, Jr., assistant chief of recreation and entertainment at the hospital, accepting the club's offer to present an aquatic show for the benefit of the patients and hospital staff.

Doyle said arrangements can be made to install a temporary 10-foot diving board and extra floodlights for the evening performance.

Licot, Miss Crane, Gene Basilio, one of the originators of the "Meatballs," comedy swimming team; and Ed Arthur, manager of the casino at Constitution Park, went to Martinsburg yesterday to make preliminary plans for the August 8 performance, which will be the first of its kind to be presented at the hospital.

The Cumberland Aquatic Club has accepted an invitation to present a water show at a private park in Bedford, Pa., the third week in August. Besides Miss Crane, other officers are Mary Catherin Beck, vice president; Dolores Chase, secretary; Linn Sheetz, treasurer; Virginia Sittig, publicity manager; and Jean Watt, assistant coach.

Edwards Explains City's Position On Water Problem

Suggests LaVale Tap Mechanic St. Line

In an effort to clarify the action of the City Water Department in refusing to enter into an agreement with the LaVale Water Company to tap the standpipe on Haystack Mountain and supply the LaVale suburb with water, Commissioner of Water and Lights William J. Edwards said last night that the idea is impractical, but that the city is not refusing to sell water to LaVale. The Commissioner suggested that the LaVale Company could buy city water if it lays its own lines through the Narrows and taps the city lines at the end of Mechanic Street.

Commissioner Edwards stated, "That residents of LaVale should have an additional supply of water is acknowledged by all who are acquainted with existing conditions. We of the City Water Department are keenly interested in seeing some solution in this all important question and stand ready to give any possible assistance to relieve the situation.

"In order to clarify the item in yesterday's News of the LaVale Water Company's request that the city supply the LaVale section with water from the tank atop Haystack Mountain, it should be known that this tank was established to supply water to a limited number of subscribers who might build houses above the gravity flow, on the mountainside.

"It must be borne in mind that water does not enter the tank by gravity. It is raised by an electrically driven pump to a height of 700 feet, which is a costly operation. The existing mechanical setup is wholly inadequate to meet the demands that would be necessary to provide even a small portion of the requirements of a section as large as LaVale.

"Assuming pumping facilities were adequate, the cost of water delivered to LaVale would be far in excess of what might be termed a reasonable rate," Commissioner Edwards declared.

D. Clifford Goodfellow, secretary-treasurer of the LaVale Water Company, on July 22, filed a letter of application with the Mayor and City Council, for the purchase of water from the Haystack Mountain tank, and said the company would lay its lines to the tank, and pay a fair price for water.

Goodfellow complained that the matter had not come before the council in open session, but instead Commissioner Edwards had told him the idea was impractical.

Yesterday, Goodfellow said he is considering other plans to increase the supply of water in LaVale, and a well drilling machine is at work now in the LaVale Orchard section, digging an eight-inch well, 200 feet deep, to help augment the supply. The well is being drilled next to one of the company's reservoirs, and will do much to relieve the present situation, he said.

In addition, he declared the LaVale Company is considering other proposals, and is figuring the cost of laying a line to tap the city's lines as suggested by Commissioner Edwards. He also declared he intends to contact Frostburg town officials, in an effort to determine if Frostburg's lines can be tapped and if that community has sufficient water to supply the LaVale section.

A number of LaVale residents have filed two petitions with the Public Service Commission, and asked for an investigation of the situation, from the standpoint of residents, as well as that of the company.

Police Probe Theft At 'Bigga Da Lou's'

Theft of approximately $300 from the home of Louis "Lou" Riley, 84 East Mechanic Street, Frostburg, early yesterday morning, was still being investigated last night by Frostburg and Maryland State Police, but no arrest had been made, according to authorities.

Riley, who has been the subject of many after dinner speeches made by William A. Gunter, local attorney, reported the theft to Frostburg police yesterday morning at 6:30 a. m. when he discovered the money, which he kept in a cigar box, was missing.

Police said entrance was gained to the home through a broken window in the kitchen. They estimated that the robbery took place between 1 and 4 a. m. and added they believe the thief watched the home for several hours from a parked car alongside Riley's home.

Riley, frequently referred to as "Bigga da Lou" who lost his right arm in 1917 and his left leg in 1936, told police he was saving the money to purchase an artificial arm. He explained that he recently bought an artificial leg.

Police said the money was kept in a cigar box in a cabinet. They quoted Riley as saying the kitchen was "mussed up slightly" but nothing else was taken.

Riley told neighbors that a stranger visited his place Sunday night. Police said they are checking several clues in an effort to solve the theft.

Store Election Is Set Aug. 19 And 20

The National Labor Relations Board yesterday informed Local 886, Retail Clerks Union, AFL, and Local 322, Meat Cutters Union, AFL, that an election will be held August 19 and 20 by a NLRB field examiner to determine the bargaining agency for employes of the American Stores, Inc., of this area.

The locals petitioned jointly some time for the election with each of the locals seeking bargaining rights for employes covered by their jurisdiction and follows an organization drive by C. E. Stutzman, business agent for the Clerks union, and Mike Roth, Chicago, for the Meat Cutters Union.

Union officials said non supervisory employes of American Stores in Cumberland, Frostburg, Lonaconing and Westernport, Md.; Keyser and Piedmont, W. Va., and Salisbury, Meyersdale, Hyndman, Everett and Bedford, Pa., will be eligible to vote for or against the unions.

New Army Recruiter Added To Local Staff

Master Sgt. I. K. Dye, a native of Elkins, W. Va., has been transferred from the Army Air Force at Bolling Field, Washington, to recruiting duty with the local Army Recruiting Detachment, Capt. Laurence M. Baristow announced yesterday. Dye reported for duty yesterday.

Charles W. J. House, Cresaptown, a veteran of 20 months previous service, enlisted in the Army Air Force for three years. Raymond David Greaser, Shallmar, Md., signed for three years with the Armored Forces as a technician, fifth grade. He has one year and seven months previous duty.

A veteran of two years and seven months in the Medical Corps, Harold Allen Kitzmiller, Gormania, W. Va., re-enlisted for three years in the same branch as a corporal. Kenneth Dailey Racey, Romney, signed for two years in the Regular Army, unassigned.

Old Church Ends 78-Year History On Centre Street

One of Cumberland's oldest churches, the old St. Stephen's Lutheran Church on the corner of Union and Centre Streets, is undergoing the last phase in its 78 year history as workmen are busy razing the building.

Built originally by a group of Methodists, the corner stone of the edifice was laid on August 18, 1869, and construction was completed and the church was dedicated on September, 1872. The cost of the building was $15,000 and the property included 42 feet on Centre Street and 65 feet on Union Street.

Shortly after completion the church was bought by the Christ Reformed Episcopal Church, which kept it until April 1, 1903.

The last congregation of the church had an interesting history during its stay on Centre Street. During one of those periodic differences which occur within a church, Rev. T. J. Yost, pastor of St. Paul's English Lutheran Church, and 86 members of that parish, withdrew and established themselves under the name of the First English Church of Cumberland on March 19, 1902.

The name of the membership was exentually changed to St. Stephens Lutheran Church and after meeting at the Christ Reformed Episcopal Church, the K. of P. Hall, Maennerchor Hall, Jenvey Hall and finally back to the Christ Episcopal Church, the parish was offered the latter church.

Their first pastor, Rev. M. L. Young, Ph. D., backed a move to buy the building and the congregation secured it for $8,500. The dedication service of the new St. Stephens Church was held September 20, 1903 with Dr. Wolfe, president of the General Synod, assisted by a Rev. Mr. Pofferberger, Vandergrift, Pa., in charge.

After the sudden death of Dr. Young in 1905 of appendicitis, the pastorate had Rev. George G. M. Brown, Rev. C. F. Floto Herving, Rev. Curtis E. Kuhnert, who served for 13 years, retired in 1923, Rev. C. K. Spriggle, and Rev. E. E. Stockslager served until the congregation merged back into the parish of St. Paul's Lutheran on November 13, 1927.

In recent years the building has been used as a parish hall by that church.

In January, 1947, the building was purchased by the Chespeake and Potomac Telephone Company at an approximate cost of $55,000. The site after the church is torn down will be the location of a new $528,000 central office building for the telephone company.

Workmen employed on the job of razing the church have noted that all of the ornamental woodwork, such as railings, altar, etc., was made of solid black walnut wood.

Famed in recent years as a haven for pigeons, the crew found many nests in the loft and tower. Some had even built homes on the chandeliers and on the window ledges in the church room.

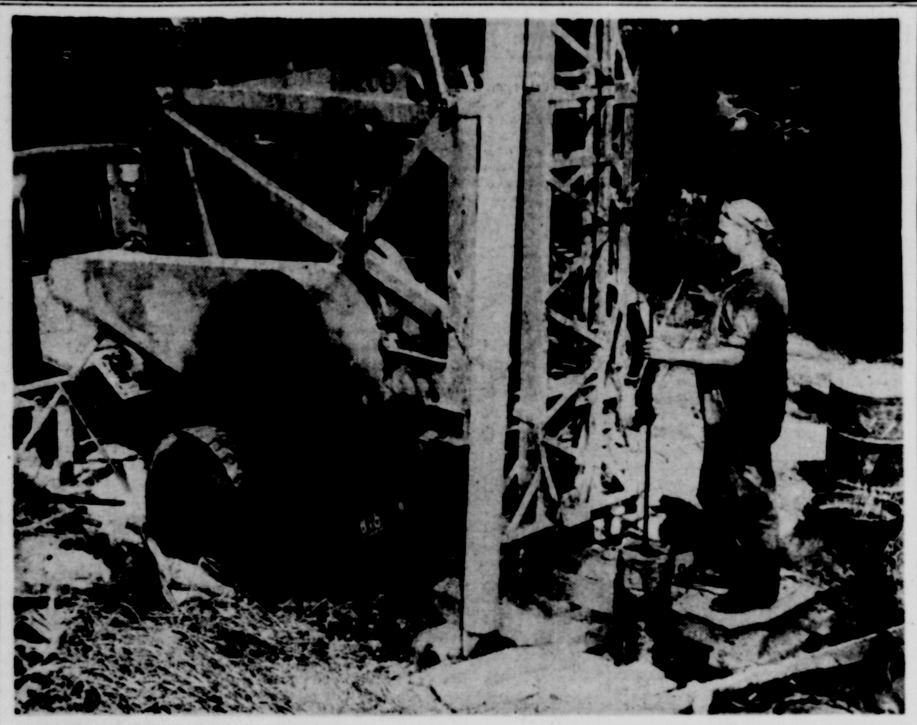

An old receipt found among old papers caused many remarks from the employes. A 1901 bill was found for $2.78 for a 19 pound ham.

Local Men Apply For Marine Reserve Here

Five young Cumberland men applied for membership in the Marine Corps Reserve here at the regular meeting last night in the Union Street Building, according to Maj. Remsen J. Cole, company commander.

They are Dalton Ervin Leese, 174 Thomas Street; Robert N. Skidmore, 509 Valley Street; Ray Carpenter Phillips, 411 Columbia Street; Frederick Ruehl, 406 North Centre Street; and Earl Eugene Iames, 443 Columbia Street.

Maj. Cole said that Pfc. Calvin Ruehl, 525 Furnace Street, a member of the company, has received orders for 15 days of active training duty at company headquarters, Union Street.

SEEKING WATER—Chester Buser, Ridgeley, W. Va., is seen here operating a well-drilling rig, owned by Frank V. Carpenter, Ridgeley, in the LaVale Orchard section, as the LaVale Water Company is sinking additional wells to augment the community's water supply. Residents in the suburban area have complained to the Public Service Commission of a water shortage, while Company officials claim they are taking steps to improve the situation which they admit is "not good." The rapid growth of the area, has taxed the company's facilites and sources of supply, they claim, beyond its ability to meet the growing demand.

Early Blight Of Tomatoes Takes Toll In County

While early blight, which attacks and destroys tomato and potato crops unless controlled, is widespread in Allegany County, there have been no reports here of late blight, according to Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent.

Early blight, McHenry explained, is a plant disease which attacks the lower leaves and is usually observed by the foliage turning yellow and dying. The disease causes considerable loss to farmers and gardeners, since the blight kills the leaves and reduces the size and number of fruits on tomato plants.

If unchecked, McHenry said, so much of the leaves is lost the fruits are subjected to sun scald and a cracking of the skins near the stem end.

Early blight can be controlled, the farm agent declared by several applications of metallic copper, either dust or spray.

Late blight in tomatoes, which appears late in the season, is equally, if not more destructive, McHenry declared, although no late blight has been reported in Allegany County.

"Our office has been kept informed," he explained, "by the University of Maryland as to the progress of late blight in the state and in neighboring areas." The reports show there has been some late blight in the Oakland section of Garrett county and the Hagerstown section of Washington county. Some has also been found in nearby West Virginia and on the Eastern Shore.

"Indications are that late blight is all around us, but there is no epidemic," McHenry said. Late blight can be controlled by the same spraying or dusting with metallic copper as in early blight, but the job should be more thorough, he explained.

If late blight strikes, it destroys the vines rapidly and causes tomatoes to rot. Many times it results in total loss of entire tomato crops. It is most likely to strike during cool, wet weather. Using the same chemicals as for early blight will control late blight if vines are kept covered as new growth appears and as rain washes off the spray residue, McHenry said.

He urges farmers and gardners to watch their tomato and potato crops carefully and to take necessary precautions.

LOCAL GAS COMPANY BEGINS SAFETY CAMPAIGN

Local employes of the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company along with other workers in the region, will begin their sixth annual "No Accident" safety campaign August 1.

In a letter addressed to each of the employes, Charles E. Bennett, company president, reminded the men and women working for the company to check all unsafe habits at home as well as on the job.

According to the local production and distribution supervisors, the month of August was selected for the special safety emphasis because a maximum number of employes are at work during this period.

During the six years of the safety program, W. H. Adams, safety director of the Pittsburgh Group of Columbia System gas companies, said fewer hours have been lost from work due to disabling injuries than at any time prior to the program's beginning.

Vacationer Looses Arm In Accident

A Baltimore man, who was spending his vacation with relatives in Oldtown suffered the loss of his right arm last night when the car in which he was riding "scraped" a truck on the Oldtown Road, near Oldtown.

First Sgt. W. E. O'Hara, Maryland State Police, identified the victim as Foster L. Shipley, 39, and said he was taken to Memorial Hospital where his condition was described as "fairly good" by attaches. O'Hara said Shipley had his arm outside the window.

Sgt. O'Hara said Shipley was riding in the car of Jonah J. Hose, Oldtown, when the machine collided with a truck that was parked along the highway. The owner of the truck, Ralph Wilson, Shriver Avenue, told police the hood of his truck came loose and he stopped to fasten it.

Police said an embankment on the road prevented Wilson from pulling further off the road. No charges were preferred, Sgt. O'Hara said.

Strike May Halt Blue Ridge Bus Service Tomorrow

Bus service connecting Cumberland with Hagerstown, Baltimore, Washington and Pittsburgh will be cut off at midnight tomorrow, unless agreement is reached before then between the Blue Ridge Transportation Company and Hagerstown Local 1335, Amalgamated Street, Electric Railway, and Motor Coach Employes of America (AFL), a union spokesman said last night.

Leo Riffle, president of the local, said no agreement was reached at a negotiating meeting in Hagerstown yesterday afternoon, and said a further meeting has not yet been scheduled.

However, A. F. McDonald, in charge of Blue Ridge operations, who was contacted by the News last night at his home in Hagerstown, said he believes than an accord will be reached in time to avert the impending walkout, adding that there is a possibility of another meeting today.

The entire eastern division of the lines would be affected by the strike, which would involve 183 drivers and maintenance men. None are employed in Cumberland.

Riffle said the union is asking a 30-cent per hour boost. He added the company has offered 10 cents. Negotiations started about two weeks ago. The current annual contract expires tomorrow.

McDonald said Blue Ridge provides nine trips east and west daily out of Cumberland, adding that the average daily load is 200 passengers to and from this city.

The company also provides the sole bus connections from Hagerstown to Frederick, Md., Winchester, Va., Harrisburg, Pa., and Washington, Pa. It operates the only direct bus service from Cumberland to Pittsburgh and Hagerstown.

9-Year-Old Girl Seriously Hurt In Auto Accident

Priscilla Metty, 9-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Metty, 220 Independence Street, was reported in serious condition last night in Allegany Hospital suffering from injuries sustained when the bicycle she was riding collided with a car near her home.

Attaches said the child was unconscious when she was admitted for treatment of a puncture wound of the right arm and abrasions of the face and right and left thigh.

She was injured, attaches were told, as the bicycle she was riding ran in front of a car in the 100 block of Independence Street.

Detective Thomas J. See said the girl entered the street from an alley without a light. He identified the driver of the car as George C. Cauley, Flintstone. See said no charges would be preferred.

Memorial Hospital attaches said James Dickens, 43, 418 Maryland Avenue, was struck by a car on Oldtown Road near Mullen Street Service Station. Dickens, attaches said, was treated for lacerations over the right eye and on the left side of his head. Attaches said Raymond H. Burke, 135 Mullen Street, whom they identified as the driver, brought Dickens to the hospital.

Municipalities To Share In State Race Track Tax

Incorporated towns of Allegany county will share in state race track tax receipts received by the County Commissioners, according to Charles N. Wilkinson, president of the County Board. The commissioners have received a check for $51,994.28 from the state, and under the law, municipalities are to share in the fund.

Lewis M. Wilson, county attorney, clarified the statute at the commissioners' meeting yesterday, explaining that the distribution must be made to incorporated towns on a basis of population at time of the 1940 census. The county will retain about 30 per cent of the fund, for use in areas not incorporated, as about 30 per cent of the county's population live outside incorporated communities.

Before any dispersal of the funds can be made to the corporate towns, Wilson explained, each municipality must make a dollar-for-dollar allocation to match their share, to be applied on some municipal project.

County Superintendent of Schools Charles L. Kopp has communicated with Mr. Wilson concerning a recent ruling of the attorney general regarding allocation of tax money to the school fund. Under the attorney general's ruling, the schools are to share in money collected from the issuing of "A" and "D" licenses in the proportion that the school taxes bear in total taxes. This share is to be determined, and turned directly into school funds.

Mr. Wilson answered the superintendent by letter to determine further facts involved.

The County Commissioners approved the sale of a county-owned lot at 521 Potomac Street to John R. Trieber for $125.

Commissioners also discussed plans for selling a number of county lots on Holland Street, and the county attorney was instructed to work out an equitable plan. The lots have been appraised and surveyed, and a number of veterans have applied for the right to purchase them.

F. Patrick Allender, representing the Carpenters Local No. 1024, asked the commissioners to include a clause in county building contracts, requiring successful bidders to pay the local prevailing union wage. Allender said the clause was not included in the present contract for the new Allegany County Infirmary, for which bids have been asked.

Officers Elected For New Mapleside Playground Group

Officers of the new Mapleside Playground Association were elected last night at the first meeting of the group, held in the social room of Mapleside Methodist Church.

Mrs. Robert J. Bealky, one of the sponsors of the association, was named president. Other officers are Mrs. Howard Lueck, secretary; and Mrs. Francis Wallace, treasurer.

The 15 Mapleside residents attending the meeting made plans to canvass the area for donations to the playground fund, so that equipment may be secured at a later date.

Last week, through the co-operation of Commissioner Myers G. Light, a Street Department crew cleared and graded a large city-owned lot bounded by New Hampshire Avenue and Gleason Street, for use as a playing field.

Mrs. Bealky said that local lumber companies will be asked to donate materials for building sandboxes and other equipment for use during the current season.

A special meeting will be held Wednesday, August 13, at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Bealky, 41 New Hampshire Avenue, when a report on the canvass will be made and plans will be discussed for holding a bake sale August 15 at the playground to raise additional funds. In case of rain, the bake sale will be held at the home of Mrs. Lueck, 45 New Hampshire Avenue.

All interested residents of the Mapleside area are asked to attend the August 13 meeting.

Police Probe Theft

City police last night were investigating the theft of a steel cement mixing box from in front of the home of H. K. Skidmore, 538 Maryland Avenue. Detective Thomas J. See reported that a negro stopped a truck in front of the home and picked up the box, then drove away.

Jack Moore Is Named Master Of Ceremonies For Beauty Pageant

There is a wise old saying to the effect that "a man has to like a job before he can really do it well."

On that basis, spectators at next Monday night's "Miss Maryland Pageant" will not only see Maryland's loveliest girls in a lavish display of their talents, but when Jack Moore takes the stage to conduct the show, they will also see a master of ceremonies job well done.

Byron Kight, Director, Maryland Division of the Miss America Pageant, yesterday made public Moore's selection as M-C for the all-Maryland show.

Trooper Arrests Driver Who 'Hid' Several Hours

Report Motorist Was Recently Convicted

A Frostburg motorist who played "hide and seek" with Maryland State and Frostburg Police for several hours yesterday while a barrage of phone calls kept reporting his "antics" was being held in County Jail last night with at least two charges against him.

Police said the driver, Lawrence Minick, Route 2, Frostburg, reportedly struck an out-of-state automobile yesterday morning, escorted the driver to a garage where he offered to pay for the damage, and then left.

Receive Phone Calls

Shortly after that, telephone calls to the State Police barracks and Frostburg Police headquarters kept reporting the driver in various sections of the county "driving in a hazardous way."

After searching for several hours, Trooper Robert Henline finally apprehended Minick on the Mt. Savage Road near Homewood Addition, at 3:30 p. m. when he parked his car along side of the road.

State Police said Minick was recently convicted on drunken and wreckless driving charges in Frostburg Trial Magistrates Court and fined $110. About a month ago, police said, Minick was convicted of leaving the scene of an accident and Monday the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles suspended his license for 30 days.

State Police reported Minick standing on the street in Frostburg yesterday morning, but declared they did not know that he had been in an accident at that time.

Minick, according to police, struck a car bearing Illinois license plates, and took the driver to a Frostburg garage, where he offered to pay for the damage on condition the police were not informed.

Police Learn Of Accident

Police said they learned of the accident about the same time telephone calls were being received at the barracks to report that "a automobile was weaving and cutting across the highway." According to police, calls were received from Big Savage Mountain, Mt. Savage, Frostburg, and several other places along the highways.

Police said Minick will be given a hearing in Frostburg Trial Magistrates Court Friday morning at 10 a. m. A state motor violation charge and charges of operating on a suspended license will be preferred.

Besides Trooper Henline, Troopers Milton Hart and G. M. Rotruck along with members of the Frostburg Police Department assisted in the search for Minick.

Davis Gives Song History Of Nation To Rotary Club

Citing numerous songs which have been popular at various periods in American history, Lewyn C. Davis, principal of Central High School, Lonaconing, and past president of the Piedmont, W. Va., Rotary Club, gave a talk at yesterday's meeting of the Cumberland Rotary Club, recounting how historically and socially significant events have been recorded in song.

Beginning with the "Bay Song Book," which appeared about 1630 in the Massachusetts Bay Colony as the first compilation of songs in America, Davis outlined highlights in the musical history of America from that time to World War II, mentioning "God Bless America" and "White Cliffs of Dover" as two typical popular songs resulting from the recent war.

He cited "Yankee Doodle" as representing the Revolutionary War period, and "The Star Spangled Banner" as a result of the War of 1812. The national anthem was written in 1814 following the bombardment of Fort McHenry by British ships in Baltimore harbor.

Davis explained that the words to "Maryland, My Maryland," were written in the Civil War period by James Randall, a Marylander who was teaching school in Louisiana. In the poem Randall urged the state to secede from the Union, after hearing that United States troops had fired on a crowd of Southern sympathizers in the streets of Baltimore. For this reason it was many years before the Maryland Legislature adopted the poem, later set to music, as the state song.

The Spanish-American War is represented by "There'll Be A Hot Time In The Old Town Tonight", and such songs as "Tipperary", "Pack Up Your Troubles" and "Keep The Home Fires Burning" were an outgrowth of World War I, Davis said.

Other popular songs have reflected economic changes, sports and new methods of transportation, Davis said, citing "Heaven Will Protect The Working Girl," "Take Me Out To The Ball Game" and "My Merry Oldsmobile" as examples in those categories.

Negro, White Man Sought In Robbery

Westernport Police last night reported that a woman identified only as "Mrs. Gynn," Backbone Mountain, near Bloomington, Garrett County, frightened a white man and negro from her home as she returned at 10:15 p. m.

Police said they had no particulars of the case at a late hour last night, but declared that Mrs. Gynn had reported the alleged breaking and entering shortly after 11 p. m. They quoted her as saying she did not know what was taken from the house.

Police said Mrs. Gynn told them that she returned to her home and apparently frightened the men while they were ransacking the house. The men fled after seeing Mrs. Gynn, according to police.

Cohen Calls New Labor Law Step Toward Socialism

Warns Business Bill Will Be "Boomerang"

Although it is expected that it will take years of litigation to clear up some of the disputed points of the recently enacted Taft-Hartley Labor Law, Harry Cohen, Baltimore, president of the Maryland, D. C., Federation of Labor, declared last night it is already clear the law is "the first step toward Socialism in America.

Cohen, in his speech before labor leaders of Allegany County, said the step "was taken by the enemies of Socialism while they were trying to escape it".

This kind of Socialism, he added, is Fascism, the form of Socialism that destroys laboring people and free enterprise. . ."the things which made America great".

Just this sort of thing was done in Germany by the Nazis, who found they had to destroy free labor before their schemes could work. A similar condition exists in Russia which, he said, has "no free labor."

The Baltimore labor leader hit the disagreement which, he said, the law has caused, pointing out the authors of the law recently failed to agree on several points. Some 200 opinions were handed down, he added, after a recent seminar labor attorneys held on the law.

Warns Against Tests

He warned small unions against becoming "guinea pigs" for testing the new laws, declaring such tests expensive and lengthy, and advised locals to leave such matters to top labor attorneys who, he said, will pick the appropriate times and conditions for test cases.

Building Trade crafts, he said, may or may not come under the provisions of the law, depending upon whether the law is interpreted in a narrow or broad manner.

Making no attempt to disguise his opposition to the law, Cohen said it is clear that government has moved into the field of labor-management relations. This will mean a steady weakening of the power of labor until it is brought under strict government control, he said.

In a warning to business interests, Cohen pointed out that the law will prove a boomerang since a government which can set the price and conditions of labor can also fix corporation and profits and salaries.

Can't Discipline Members

Pointed out for special censure was the provision in the law which Cohen said would make unions powerless to discipline members since the only way unions can now ask the discharge of a member in a union shop is for refusal to offer to pay dues.

Union leaders, he said, are indignant because labor leaders must sign an affidavit that they are not Communists while employers may work under the law without such certification.

The law, Cohen said, will force labor to forget its private preservation. We are choosing up sides for a titanic struggle in which no quarter will be asked or given. Labor, he concluded, must accept the challenge or perish.

C. E. Stutzman, president of the Allegany Trades Council, presided at the meeting held in the Southern Hotel to inform labor leaders on the provisions of the law.

Earl Rider, Hagerstown, AFL organizer, presented a point-by-point analysis of the law as given by labor attorneys.

Rider said the passage of the law is a "call to battle" for laboring people to defeat the enemies of organized labor at the polls and elect its friends.

Stitcher Is Improving

Police Officer Joseph Henry Stitcher, 24, who was badly burned with flaming gasoline here July 10, is reported in a satisfactory condition in Allegany Hospital. He is improving slowly and the burns on several portions of his body have healed nicely. Some skin grafts will be required, however, on several of the most severely burned portions of his body.

Decatur Street Paving Case Is Aired In Court

Judges Withhold Decision In Suit

Decision was deferred yesterday in Circuit Court following hearings on demurrers in the Decatur Street paving cost dispute in which the City of Cumberland is trying to enforce paving liens against property owners.

The suit was filed by the city against the property owners to enforce the liens and answers were filed by the property owners. Then the city filed demurrers and arguments were heard yesterday before Chief Justice William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson.

Charles Z. Heskett represented the city and Earl E. Manges and Julius E. Schindler represented property owners.

The Decatur Street group challenges the city's right to assess them with the costs of paving at intersections, charge them engineering costs and charge rental for city-owned equipment. They also contend there was no allowance made for the salvaged material including a large quantity of bricks from the old pavement.

Outline Protests

Manges and Schindler outlined their case, briefly along the following lines:

1. Their clients should not be held liable for paving at intersections, any more than should the property owners on intersecting streets. Such action, they contend gives the Mayor and City Council "the ability to decide, according to whim," which street should pay for intersections.

2. That equipment used on the job and owned by the city has been paid for with tax money obtained from assessments against property owners of the city, and property owners should not be charged rental fees for use of this equipment, in figuring paving costs.

3. Bricks salvaged from the street had already been paid for by property owners, and since they were salvaged and subsequently used, a credit for them at salvage value should be allowed.

4. That "engineering" costs charged in the job are not proper since the engineering department already has an appropriation of funds from tax revenue for its operation.

In a recapitulation of the case, City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett stated that Decatur Street was first paved with brick in 1903, then surfaced with black top about 1931. In 1946, the condition of the street was such that it needed a complete re-surfacing, which the city undertook itself after bids for contracts failed.

Heskett, in answering the contention of taxpayers that they were liable only for a share of costs on property fronting on the streets, and not on intersections said:

Novel Suggestion

"The suggestion is a novel one to me . . . and leads to some very unusual consequences if carried far."

He then pointed out that if this system were applied, then retaining walls fronting some properties and not others on some streets would make a great disparity in allocating tax recovery rates.

The equipment rentals assessed in the case, aggregating about $750, is the normal contractors method of operating, and includes operating costs such as drivers, and fuel needed. This cost, used exclusively for the benefit of Decatur Street residents, was not included in city overhead.

One-Third By City

Heskett said the costs of repaving the entire street including intersections had been paid for by city funds and the tax levy. The city paid one-third of the costs, all that it could under existing law. The other two-thirds was levied against Decatur Street property owners in a ratio in proportion to their frontal footage. He said he believed that method to be proper, and that intersections had to be repaved along with the remainder of the street.

Equipment rentals and engineering costs, he pointed out, were field costs on the scene of the operation, and not overhead costs for which appropriations had been made. He made no mention of the salvagable brick recovered.

The city has already granted one adjustment since the street was repaved in 1946 in addition to assuming one-third of the cost of the entire operation, plus the costs of repaving a four-foot wide sewer line. He stated that the remaining costs were no more than a minimum liable to the property owners.

Aquatic Club Will Go To Martinsburg

The 30 members of the recently organized Cumberland Aquatic Club will present a water carnival at the outdoor pool of Newton D. Baker Veterans' Hospital, Martinsburg, W. Va., on Friday evening, August 8, Ted Licot, coach of the group, announced last night.

Diana Lee Crane, president of the club, which was organized last month, received a letter recently from Norman J. Doyle, Jr., assistant chief of recreation and entertainment at the hospital, accepting the club's offer to present an aquatic show for the benefit of the patients and hospital staff.

Doyle said arrangements can be made to install a temporary 10-foot diving board and extra floodlights for the evening performance.

Licot, Miss Crane, Gene Basilio, one of the originators of the "Meatballs," comedy swimming team; and Ed Arthur, manager of the casino at Constitution Park, went to Martinsburg yesterday to make preliminary plans for the August 8 performance, which will be the first of its kind to be presented at the hospital.

The Cumberland Aquatic Club has accepted an invitation to present a water show at a private park in Bedford, Pa., the third week in August. Besides Miss Crane, other officers are Mary Catherin Beck, vice president; Dolores Chase, secretary; Linn Sheetz, treasurer; Virginia Sittig, publicity manager; and Jean Watt, assistant coach.
